Potato Market Steadler.

A steadier feeling is shown in the local potato market. This follows the improved demand for our stock in the south and the malutaining there of rather good prices despite the more liberal offerings from this direction than expected. It has been found upon careful inquiry that practically nine tenths of the cars held by shippers here a week or 16 days ago, have already been shipped out and remaining supplies are small. When the full meaning of this becomes known there will likely be a further improvement in the potato situation both here and in the south While there are quite liberal offerings of new California stock at this time, the stock cannot take the piace of the old growth for some time. Few of the late shipments show better paturity than a month ago; this fact indicating that the supplies there are being sold as fast as dug.

Great Scarcity of Berries.

Strawberries were unusually scarce in the Portland market teday. Of course the Southern Pacific train from California was late as usual—that being a condition that the trade here has become accustomed to because the fruit from the south has not afrived on time for many a week. Even with the arrival of the train there will be little offering of California fruit because of the close of the first crop season there. Local berries are coming somewhat more freely but supplies are not quarter of what demand justifies because of the absence demand justifies because of the absence of other stock. Best Oregons today were selling as high as $5 a crate for 24s and from that figure the market ruled down to $4 for good fruit. California berries are quoted at $1.85@1.75 per crate for small crates.

Chicago, May 29 -The market for 6 terday,

May Shorten Late Production.

So good is the present price for new potatoes as well as for old ones, that growers in the south are digging more liberally of the new growth than during normal seasons. If this condition is continued for a month it will cut down the California production fully a third and may be much of a help to the late or early crop here.

Chicago, May 29 .- Nothing could have een managed better than the transactions in May wheat for the past 30 days, and the market closing as it did without any excitement under extreme high point of year was proof in itself that the market is and has been on a legitimate basis, so far as wheat futures are concerned. If any further proof of this is necessary, it can be found in the fact that is necessary, it can be found in the fact that a good portion of the Duluth wheat brought here in the shape of cargoes to break the backbone of the buils found its way into milling and commercial channels before the final delivery day, and 500,000 bushels or more of it was not delivered on May contracts at all. In corn there was considerable snap to the trade, both early and late. Much will depend on whether the country continues to sell reserves freely.
