

"BUNNY" BIDS ALL A FOND FAREWELL

Raffles Makes Last Public Appearance at Grand Theatre in Transformation Scene—Large Audiences Applaud Mysterious One.

By "Bunny." Adieu! This is positively my last appearance as the redoubtable "Bunny," familiar with the haunts and jaunts of the man of mystery.

The game in Portland has come to a brilliant end. When 6 o'clock came last night all rewards were withdrawn, the man with the money having not been captured during the afternoon.

Long before the doors at the Grand theatre, where Raffles was supposed to unmask, were opened for the first performance last night, a crowd was surging in the entrance.

M. B. Davis, manager for the man of mystery, first appeared on the stage in a brief speech, emphatically denouncing the newspapers who vainly attempted to discredit the game and starting any of the writers to meet him face to face with such assertions.

Great Success in Portland. He explained, however, that the stunt had proved more popular in Portland than in any city for the past two years, and attributed this condition in some extent to the advertising offered by kindly contemporaries.

Audience Applauds. As soon as the audience at both performances recovered from their surprise, they broke out in salutes of applause. Many doubted that the handsomely gowned feminine figure on the stage was Raffles, but their suspicions were soon dispelled.

When the curtain went down both performances the audience cheered wildly. The transformation of the man of mystery entirely convinced the majority of the onlookers that Raffles was perfectly capable of going disguised about the streets for nearly two weeks without molestation.

BELIEVED THAT COLE DRANK CARBOLIC ACID

Vancouver, Wash., May 29.—That George W. Cole deliberately planned to take his own life is plainly shown by details of the finding of his body by Sheriff Depew of New York, today declared which was published in The Journal yesterday.

The searching party was composed of Sheriff Sappington, T. L. Simmons, who was suing Cole for $2200, George Allen, chief of police, and a number of constables and H. Howard. Leaving the general store of P. Young at Ellsworth street, the party started for the new house, where they found the body. The dead man's hat lay on a log near by, evidently placed there with care. Sheriff Sappington is inclined to believe that Cole drank carbolic acid while walking along the beach, and that he was throwing the bottle away. As his clothes were not soiled he must have lain down on the ground, stretched out his limbs and waited for death. The ground does not show that he made any struggle. In his pockets was found $40 in cash and a note for $100, besides other personal effects.

The body was brought by Coroner Knapp to his chapel here, and later removed to the Vancouver undertaking chapel. Cole was a native of this county, and was widely known in this section. He was 47 years old. His wife, mother and two brothers survive him. He was a contractor and builder, and was a member of the I. O. O. F., and also a member of Hebron campment, I. O. O. F. It is possible that the man had become temporarily insane over the Simmons lawsuit.

TWO THUGS LIE UNDER THE BED

With Intent to Do Double Murder and Robbery—One Victim Mangled.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Sausalito, Cal., May 29.—Springing from under a bed where they had hidden, two thugs beat F. Lazarus into insensibility and seriously injured his wife, as the couple were preparing to retire at 1 o'clock this morning. Lazarus lies at a local hospital in a precarious condition. His scalp was torn almost from his head and his face and shoulders were bruised.

That the thugs intended to do away with the couple and then ransack the house at their leisure, is the opinion of the police. Lazarus was beaten down by the larger of the two assailants. The other attacked Mrs. Lazarus with a heavy blackjack, trying at the same time to seize her throat to prevent an outcry. The force of the heavy blows on her head were broken by her hair, and she was able to scream for aid before she fell fainting beside the unconscious body of her husband.

Neighbors attracted by the woman's screams hurried to the house, the thugs making their escape through an open window. The police were notified and the thugs were captured and held at the city jail.

$30,000 LOSS IN FIRE AT LEBANON

Salem and Albany Departments Called In to Help Save Paper Mills.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Lebanon, Or., May 29.—The fire which broke out in the yards of the Lebanon Paper Mills company yesterday afternoon was under complete control at 9 o'clock this morning, after almost 24 hours of heroic work on the part of the fire departments of Salem, Albany and Lebanon. For a time the loss of 18,000 cords of wood belonging to the company was threatened. Ten thousand cords were saved. The total loss will aggregate $30,000. The Salem and Albany fire departments were returned home some time this afternoon.

The fire started in the pile of wood adjoining the engine-room of the mill. The fire started in the pile of wood adjoining the engine-room of the mill. The fire started in the pile of wood adjoining the engine-room of the mill. The fire started in the pile of wood adjoining the engine-room of the mill.

This had no apparent effect, and Albany was called on for assistance. She responded by sending one of her engines and several firemen, headed by Chief H. D. Hild, chief of the Albany department. They added two more streams, and for a time it looked as if they had the fire under control. About 6 o'clock the fire became stronger, and with the great heat the flames again got beyond control. Salem was called on for an engine, and she sent one of her fire engines, which arrived at 10 o'clock.

Nine streams of water were kept playing on the flames for hours before the men were able because of the intense heat, to hurl aside several thousand cords of wood and confine the fire within a 200 foot area. Dynamite had been brought from Albany for use in case headway could not be made with water. The work of the steam engine sent here by the Salem fire department made it possible to win the battle with the fire demon.

The pile of oordwood in which the fire started was 800 feet long, 150 feet wide and 50 feet high.

VOTERS ENTITLED TO COPIES OF PETITIONS

Less than half of the 5000 copies of charter amendments to be voted on at the general election have been distributed to the voters. The city council authorized the publication of the amendments, so that interested taxpayers and other citizens might have a chance to familiarize themselves with the issues pending, but the people evidently don't care to know about them.

City Auditor Barbur has advertised the fact that copies of the charter amendments can be procured for nothing simply by calling at the city hall for them. There is yet a week before election, and Mr. Barbur again wishes to advise interested citizens that the amendment booklets can be had for the asking.
