Many Interesting Exhibits.

The Alaskan exhibit is one of the most interesting, owing partly to the fact that it represents a territory but little known in the states east of the Rocky mountains. Many of the states have erected fine buildings. The largest state building is that of California, which is constructed in mission style. Two other buildings of unusual interest and of attractive appearance are the mine and representations of scenes along grounds. Idaho has its building close from their homes from the other side the Yukon trait. "The Broadway bridge would not ex-ceed $1,300,000 in cost, exclusive of land damages. It would be 2800 feet in length, damages. It would be 2800 feet in length, with an east approach at Larrabee street and a west approach either on Seventh street or on block Y, near the union station.

"Sentiment on the east side is for the bridge almost without exception. We promise that there will be no such delay in the sale of bonds and construction of

Upper Albina Residents Complain of Curve in Street

Corner of Williams avenue and Cherry, where several accidents have occured recently.

Persons living in the neighborhood of Williams avenue and Cherry streets are complaining of the "death curve," as they call it, at the intersection of the two thoroughfares. Properly, the "death curve" is an S curve beginning at Mc-curve" is an S curve beginning at Mc-curve" is an S curve beginning at Mc-curve and running through to Cherry street, on Williams avenue.

So prenounced is the bend and so narrow the street that the sweep of the lected the corner for a playground, and in hour.
