PLEASEN BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

By G. I. W. It might be festival week this week if special efforts at entertaining could be sought for truly the Orpheum has a gala day bill. It is one of the most complete programs ever offered by this popular playhouse.

Certainly, Adelaide, the daintiest, airiest and most fascinating of dancers must have been picked for a winner by many. She is a clever little woman, too, who has surrounded herself with a quartet of pretty, girlish dancers and while they please in themselves and are a refreshing sight, they serve, too, as a foil for her more finished work.

Elizabeth Murray believes her ordinary look and most fascinating of dancers must have been picked for a winner by many. She is a clever little woman, too, who has surrounded herself with a quartet of pretty, girlish dancers and while they please in themselves and are a refreshing sight, they serve, too, as a foil for her more finished work.

Maxuz and Mazette, which is much more easily pronounced "The Lady and the Tramp," give an athletic turn, in which the tramp's humor is so hilarious that you forget the age of the incidental incidents. The comedy of itself is good, but the tramp's humorous grouch gets most of the attention.

Camille D'Arville wears a stunning costume and sings a number of songs, but her voice is harsh and so disappointing in itself. But when she goes through a cleverly contrived act from "Belle of London Town," in which she formally starred, the voice is forgotten and her acting and singing are enjoyed. An especially good series of moving pictures is shown and the orchestra gives several numbers.

Two feet wider than it was Brimmer first sued Dufur and secured possession of the two-foot strip. Dufur then turning the tables in the case decided by Judge Gatens this morning.

Judge Zante fixed the bail in both instances at $250.

Young Woman With Gun.—Gladys Games, a young woman who has frequently been in trouble in police court, was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Van Zante this morning for flourishing a gun in the face of Officer Swennes. The woman was drunk and the man was both arrested and although she was kept away from her, he advanced to where she stood at 23 North Sixth street, where she was stuck under his nose. Gee was dismissed.

Lawyer Beats Client.—As a result of a quarrel, which is said to be the result of the ownership of some east side property, John Hiteburn, an attorney and W. T. Meade, a client, were arrested last night by Officer Post. The fist fight took place at the corner of Front and Morrison streets, Mendie getting all the credit of the argument. Mendie says the attack by the attorney was unprovoked, while the attorney says that his client insulted him. The case was set for hearing for June 4.

Leader, established in this city a few months ago by J. E. Hosmer, suspended publication last Saturday. This is the third failure in the newspaper business here within the past year. Last July John Ashton established the Silver Jubilee Herald, which survived but three weeks. A few months later Hosmer started a paper which he subsequently sold to E. D. Hunt, and this proved to be a failure. Mr. Hunt turning the plant over to Hosmer, Hosmer then started the Leader, which was supported by two or 300 patrons.
