In Carpets and Rugs

Decidedly the Most Complete Showing in Portland—Sixth Floor

The past few days heralded the arrival of summer and brought thoughts of summer furnishings. We are now well supplied with quite a varied stock of Floor Coverings suggestive of this delightful season. Our window display of last week showed to Portland for the first time the wide variety of "Rag Style"

Rugs in all their harmonious colors, showing the evolution of the carpet of our grandmother's time. Distinctive in design and coloring are the Hodges fiber, and fiber and wool products. Adapted to the various needs of the household and creating an artistic environment. Wherever used, these floor coverings have made a permanent place for themselves in the science of housefurnishing. This year's Tapestry Rugs are better than ever, especially in the lower-priced grades, where more care has been devoted to design and color. To those who prefer the softer carpets, the Axminster always appeals, and this season finds us more heavily stocked in this popular weave, with its wealth of warm, rich coloring and wide variety of design, and lower-priced than ever, owing to favorable buying conditions. Our Body Brussels, Wiltons and Saxony Rugs will prove a revelation to the most discriminating buyers and appeal to all lovers of artistic creations.

DID GOOD WORK IN CONVENTION

Secretary Merrick Comments Resolutions Passed by Retail Grocers.

The National Retail Grocers' convention just closed was the most successful ever held in respect to the free discussion from the floor of important measures, and for the harmony, good feeling and interest displayed, according to Charles B. Merrick, secretary of the Oregon association.

Special Sale of Men's Shoes and Oxfords

$2.95 Sample Shoe Stores Co. 142 Second St. near Alder.

Just. Let the government tax luxuries, not necessities.

The Pacific coast delegates opposed the reduction of the tax on oleomargarine, as this is a drying country and the feeling of the delegates was for standing with the farmers.

The resolution favoring the Pacific coast plan of marketing, which was passed at Boston last year, was carried over to this year's meeting. This provides that the manufacturer fix the selling price to jobbers, to retailers and to consumers, thus affording a uniform price to consumers everywhere and preventing sacrifice sales of certain goods to advance other commodities.

"Another important measure was the resolution protesting against the tax on tea. Every tax on a necessity of life is paid by the consumer, and the association feels that in this instance it is un-

STRAW HAT SEASON IS NOW ON AT LAST

One dappled gray mare of husky build today gained a distinction of being the first summer girl of the equines to appear in a straw bonnet. It was a classy hat, too, with streamers of festive colors and dabs and knots of green ribbon. And it was tied about the head with a great bow.

MORE COURAGE IN CHURCH WORK

Rev. Mr. Foulkes Chooses "An Unwieldy Sceptre" for His Theme.

At the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning Dr. William Elfram Foulkes preached upon the theme, "An Unwieldy Sceptre," taking for his text Exodus 4:1-6. He said in part: "The incident of any text has a deeper meaning than any other. To the critic it suggests Egyptian magic and sleight of hand; to our attentive minds it presents a perpetual symbol of truth and power. Moses needed a credential. He required a symbol by which to testify the reality of his power with God and certainty of his power over men. To supply this need Jehovah took the rod in Moses' hand and invested it with peculiar dignity and interest. Henceforth it was to appear before Pharaoh, to his discomfiture, to open the dead sea and by its counterpart in the hands of Aaron was to become a spokesman of the divine presence throughout the entire wilderness. At first, however, it was only a rod. It needed to be wielded before its dignity appeared."

The great head of the church has given to his representative upon earth a royal scepter to symbolize her power with God and with men. To her shame her scepter is still largely an unwieldy scepter. Not of widely station for she still has that and knows how to wield it to her own selfish ends, but of spiritual power and unselfish service. It sometimes seems as though the scepter had departed from modern Judaism. Let us understand, though her scepter is neither broken nor lost, neither captured in war or destroyed by fate. Her scepter is only, if so largely, unwielded.

of prayer. It is in a class by itself.

It is not as some flippant critics suggest an attempt to move the divine will, but the putting at the divine disposal of human wills to be used in the moving of human wills. It is the bringing of our barley loaves to the master for his multiplying touch. A recent editorial in one of our papers devoted the first column of its space to expound the reality of prayer. Apart from a soothing, hypnotic effect, prayer has no meaning according to the oracle. What has he done? Only demonstrated that it has no meaning for him and that he hopes it will do meaning for others. From how much higher sources does the church receive her assurance of the reality of her witness and that of Jesus Christ. Yet he is, as S. D. Gordon says in his talks on service, "counting on them. He hasn't made any other plans."

A third aspect of the unwieldy scepter is that in which it looks like a sword. It is the "sword of the spirit" which is the most popular book in the world today. Yet the sword is so largely unwielded, in the home, in the pulpit, if the church cannot persuade the world of her imperial dignity, let her take up the scepter of the word of God and learn anew how to wield it. The final phase of this unwielded scepter is that of a staff. The unwielded scepter of masculine Christianity is a staff. The modern fraternal spirit, in the form of a dozen lodges and orders says to the church, "Give me your scepter," and the church sits either idly or indifferently by and sees her own scepter wielded by other hands.

If masculine Christianity could only be put at the disposal of the church and used by her, how changed would be the conditions of modern life. Though there would still be a fight in civic life, it would be an open one. It would be a straight fight between light and darkness, but with an unwielded scepter, her ranks are split by personal ambitions and interests. In the face of a church that is afraid of its own voice, vice lifts its hideous head, triumphant.

ONTARIO POSTAL RECEIPTS LARGE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Ontario, Or., June 7.—Postmaster A. L. Sproull has been notified that after July 1 his salary will be increased $200 and he will receive for his services $1700 a year, instead of $1500, as formerly. The business done by the Ontario postoffice has shown a substantial increase within the past year. This is the surest indication of the true status of prosperity and by this increase Ontario proves itself at the present time to be one of the towns in the northwest which is making the most rapid strides in growth. Only seven other towns in the state have received so large an increase in the postal receipts for the year ending March 31, 1909, the fiscal year for the post-

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still lives on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell, no honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL HELP ROAD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Ontario, Or., June 7.—There is every prospect that the Ontario-Emmett railway, planned four years ago, but abandoned at the time of the financial panic, will be built within the coming year. Letters have been received by the Commercial club here stating that the promoters interested in the road have started a movement to revive the undertaking, and asking the cooperation of Ontario's people to assure success to
