Governor Hay of Washington Finds Sentiment Opposed to Wasting Time Over Legislative Fights-Report Will Be Withheld.

Olympia, Wash., June '11 .- Governor M. E. Hay returned at noon from Spokane after an absence of about two weeks in Seattle, Spokane and Pullman, and reports an overwhelming sentiment throughout the state against any protracted session of the legislature, and the confining of business to the consideration of the investigation committee's report on Commissioner J. H. Schively and the state insurance department. He states that he met with the committee last Monday in Spokane, and they went over the preliminary draft of the committee's recommendation. While it has already been announced that the report would be adverse to Schively the governor says the report will not be given out until it is read before the legislature, which is to convene here June 23, at 2:30 p. m. and reports an overwhelming sentiment Sentiment Strongly Opposed.

Governor Hay discussed the special Governor Hay discussed the special session with a number of senators and representatives in eastern Washington, and reports the sentiment strongly against opening any old fights or starting new ones and against taking up any business other than the matters for which the special session is called namely the consideration of the committee's report.

namely the consideration of the commit-tee's report.

The committee, he says, will rec-ommend that the legislative investign-tion committee be continued in force to finish the thorough probing of state of-fices and departments and institutions. He believes the session will not last over 10 or 12 days.

Result Mot Announced.

As to the result of the investigation conducted by the committee at the state college at Pullman, the governor said he had no further information than had appeared in the public press. He had expected to meet the members of the committee before leaving Spokane last evening but failed to find them. He expects their report on the college investigation before long.

The governor says he is taking no part in the prospective organization fight in the legislature. He says, however, that some of A. S. Ruth's former supporters will not again vote for him as president of the senate and that Senator Rosenhaupt of Spokane is a candidate developing good strength in eastern Washington.

Seattle, June 11.—This is Yakima day, at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition and residents of the fruit belt of eastern Washington are on hand in great numbers to take part in the program. A special train arrived last eventing bringing a delegation of several hundred persons, representing nearly every town in the Yakima valley. The day's events began at 16 o'clock with a parade in which not only the delegation but former residents of the fruit country took part. Forming at the main entrance, the line of march led through the grounds and ended at the Yakima county building, where the marchers were welcomed by President Chilberg of the exposition. In his address he reviewed the development of the fruit raising industry in the Yakima region. Granville Lowther responded for the visitors. At noon a reception was given by the officers of the exposition to 35 of the delegates, including the chosen representatives of the towns in the Yakima valley.

FOUND HUSBAND ALREADY MARRIED

Náj S. Hanief, while living with one wife in Portland, was suing another wife in Columbia county for divorce. This was the unusual state of affairs disclosed on the witness stand in Judge Morrow's department of the circuit court this morning by Mrs. Alzena Hanief, who is wife No. 2.

Mirs. Hanief said that it was not until last month that she learned that her husband was already a married man. Then it came about accidentally, when she saw a picture of children by the other marriage. She married Hanief in October, 1905.

Copies of the records of the circuit court of Columbia county were introduced in evidence, showing that her husband began suit there last November to secure a divorce from Nuzly Hanief. She said her husband admitted the former marriage after she had learned the facts. She left him at once, and has not since lived with him.

Judge Morrow granted a decree annulling her marriage with Hanief and permitting her to resume her former name, Alzena, Cochran.
