

FESTIVAL VISITORS TAX HOTELS BEYOND CAPACITY

"Have you realized my desires? Have you accomplished my request? Will you keep your promise to give me shelter, or have I put you to the test?" The tall, but with all those old-fashioned, unassuming, kindly, and unassuming hotel clerk in her hand was a long-handled parasol, she also carried a bag.

"Madam," murmured the hostess, presenting the final syllable looking, with timidity at the tall, old-fashioned, unassuming hotel clerk, "I have fulfilled your desires to the letter, but not the spirit, he whispered under his breath, if the hostess of a winter, also a bath. In fact, it is a bath room, yes, madam, the very best it could be for you after a long journey trying to get it for you."

By now the hotel clerk looked the fright he felt for the tall individual looked unimpaired.

"Young man," she retorted with the crispness and severity that characterized one who has taught the young idea how to shoot and grown gray in the service. "Young man, I fear that you are attempting a pleasant, with me, endeavoring to evade the issue; to blind me with blarney. I would not could deceive you, even if I understood the words you use."

"Well, give me my room, then, and be sure and have the porter nail tightly all doors except the one leading into the corridor," said the tall woman, frowning ungraciously with the words toward the elevator.

"Gee," exclaimed he, when all he could hear was the echo of her complaints imposed upon the bellboy, "how nervous I feel. I never thought much about heaven until this Rose Festival began, but with all those folks trying to get rooms and looking at me in that peculiar manner, I've begun to have thoughts. One of the most serious of those thoughts is that heaven I get won't have any room and bath connected with it."

Impromptu Amateur Theatricals.

Amateur theatricals served impromptu in hotel lobbies have been their chief means during the past week, the clerks confess. The performance related is merely a sample; some of the others were of the blood and thunder variety, with noise and threats substituted for the blood and thunder. Some contained words that the hotel clerk will not hear who he goes to heaven.

"All I want is rest," exclaimed Harry Hamilton, chief clerk at the Imperial, relating Rose Festival experiences yesterday afternoon. "We put people in bathtubs, in the hotel parlors let them sleep in the lobby and still they waited for rooms, not looking at me with reproachful eyes as though I was viciously trying to keep them from resting. I stayed on Friday night till morning trying to get them shelter. We telephoned out to all the people we knew asking if they didn't want to take paid guests for a night or two. Other people telephoned in from their homes, saying they could accommodate us. Busses and hacks kept going and coming the live-long night. It was fierce. Never in all my hotel experience have I seen such a crowd in Portland. Best class of visitors—ever saw, too. I'll never get over being sorry that our hotels had to turn any one away."

Money Had No Value.

But then they saw they did. Visitors found that neither love nor money would purchase sleeping places. Individuals of affluence learned to sympathize with the towed who sleep in coal holes and other places while trying to ascertain themselves to strange sleeping postures. And yet there was little anger and less of serious complaint. Most of the visitors were inclined to give tribute to local hostesses because of the efforts made to entertain them properly.

"We cared for all we could. The hotel was never so full, yet we turned away 2000 people in two days," said Louis Reynolds, clerk at the Portland. "We did the best we could. I never saw so many sorrowful faces as turned away from this desk after vainly seeking a room," declared Manager Fletcher of the Cornell.

More Room Next Year.

"Next year I'll have my annex completed, and can care for twice as many people," promised Manager M. Dickinson of the Oregon. Addition to the Imperial and the Perkins are also under way, so that the Rose Festival of 1910 will find Portland hostesses extending a welcome and assigning a room to all the visitors, is the assurance given by all the hotel managements.

PASSENGER DEPOT TO BE ERECTED AT PENDLETON

Elevation of New O. R. & N. Depot.

Contract has just been let by the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company for construction of new passenger depot building at Pendleton, Or. This new structure, which will be of handsome red pressed brick and 116 by 35 feet in size, will compare very favorably with any of the station buildings recently erected on the system. The interior plans call for an ample and convenient arrangement of space, divided as follows: Main waiting room, 33 by 50 feet; ticket office, 12 by 28 feet; men's smoking room, 13 by 18 feet; women's waiting room, 13 by 16 feet; baggage room, 33 feet square. Toilet rooms adjoin both the men's and women's rooms.

The finish will be most pleasing in effect, all doors and windows being of slanted grain fir stained and varnished. Walls and ceilings will be plastered on metal lath, and there will be a six foot fir wainscoting in all the principal rooms. Floors will be of concrete with cement finish. The roof will be galvanized iron in imitation of Spanish tile. The building will be electric lighted and steam heated throughout.

Commodious concrete platforms surrounding the structure will add to the general effect and furnish easy access to and from trains. The total cost ready for occupancy will be in the neighborhood of $22,000.

LONE WILSON'S MIND WANDERS

Deputy Marshals Bring Bob McMen to Sanatorium From Juneau.

Telepathic communications from the secretary of state came to Bob McMen saying certain ones were hostile to the government and that for them the quickest death would be the most merciful. Nine months in the year a lonely miner searching for gold and seeing but little of his own kind, the idea grew upon the Scotchman's mind until the suggestion became mania and he started on a rampage, intending by means of an electric battery, which he thought possessed magical power, to end quickly the existence of all offensive ones.

This happened near Juneau, Alaska, some time ago. McMen was brought to Portland yesterday and placed in a sanatorium here by James M. Shoup and J. A. Mulcahy, deputy marshals at Juneau, who believe that proper treatment and association with persons who understand his condition will restore his sanity.

"But what a time we had bringing him," said Officer Mulcahy at the Oregon yesterday evening, before starting on his return trip to Alaska. "While we were on the vessel McMen would stand for hours gazing off the distance. He would say that he was receiving messages from the government at Washington. He pointed out 15 or 20 on the ship whom it was desirable to kill. Shoup and myself would start out on a round of the ship, presently we would return and say that all had been disposed of."

"I think the electric battery caused his insanity. It was old and worn and wondering how it was constructed when he found it. He took a good deal of interest in it, looking it over and when he wasn't busy. How he ever got it in the first place I don't know, but it wasn't long until he began getting messages from the spirit land, then from the secretary of state, and finally he thought himself commissioned to kill the ones told about in his telepathic messages. The funny part was that he had never seen them. He would know their names and where they were located. It made us all uneasy."

"As long as he thought we were putting people out of the way for him he was satisfied and as quiet as any man I ever saw. But the instant any one opposed him he would become violent. We never told him where we were taking him until we had gotten into the sanatorium. He thought we were on a great journey round the world, killing all the people that Uncle Sam found bad in his enterprise."

"There is the danger that every man who goes to the Klondike undergoes. The solitude has the worst kind of effect on him. I don't believe any sane man was ever intended to be apart from the rest. Sooner or later when he tries to his mind goes flaking, and I've seen many a young fellow driven by desire to make his fortune who has come up into the gold fields and there found what we call 'solitude fever' instead of wealth."

"But the danger doesn't seem to frighten the gold hunters much. More are going to Alaska this year than ever before, and every incoming vessel is loaded with people who think they can have a summer excursion and make their fortune at the same time."

TO STAY LONGER RETURN TRIP

San Francisco Business Men Arrive Here in the Morning.

San Francisco business men who are bound on a trade excursion to Portland and Puget sound will be in Portland an hour tomorrow morning. The special train carrying the San Francisco party will reach Portland at 7:30. The San Francisco party will receive Portland friends from 7:30 on the return trip the party will spend an afternoon and evening in Portland, arriving here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and remaining until 11 at night. They will be given a short ride through the city by the Commercial club and an hour to themselves to visit friends between this ride and dinner. At 6 o'clock there will be an informal dinner at the Commercial club, for which the subscription list is now open. The dinner is to cost $5 a plate and no invitations will be issued, the announcement by the club being general.

The San Francisco party is being directed by the California Promotion committee and Rufus P. Jennings. There will be 100 in the party and the list will include some of the most prominent of San Francisco's business men.

TRAFFIC MEN TO MEET IN CHICAGO

William McMurray to Represent Harriman Lines in Oregon.

William McMurray, general passenger agent of the Harriman lines in Oregon, will leave today for Chicago to attend the annual business meeting of Harriman traffic officials that commences there this week.

At this meeting traffic officials from all the associated Harriman lines, particularly representatives of the passenger department, lay plans for the work for the coming year. They discuss all problems that confront the passenger departments of the various lines, laying especial stress on advertising features.

Mr. McMurray will go before the meeting with what will doubtless prove the most remarkable record of any general passenger agent—the work done in Oregon this year through the community booklet system. It is a plan that has been worked in this state with remarkable success and it is possible that it may be adopted as a general policy of exploitation work by all the Harriman lines in the west, at least.

BEACH RESORTS OPEN JUNE 26

Seaside will be declared officially open June 26. It will be perfectly proper to don bathing suits and plunge in the surf of the Clatsop beach resorts on and after that date according to official dictum of Harry Adams, general freight and passenger agent of the Astoria & Columbia River railroad.

Mr. Adams doesn't pose as the Beau Brummel who dictates when society shall summer, further than that, as head of the traffic department of the A. & C. he can say when the summer schedule for the beach resorts shall go into effect. According to his present plans the Saturday afternoon Seaside special will begin running Saturday afternoon, June 26. It will leave Portland at 2:30 and reach Seaside at 6 in the evening. Returning to Portland it will leave Seaside at 6:45 in the evening and arrive in Portland at 10:15 p. m.

The regular daily morning and evening trains will continue leaving Portland at 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. as at present. There will probably be some slight changes in the schedules of local trains, but they have not been determined upon yet.

The Finest Equipped Trans-continental Trains.

The Canadian Pacific has the reputation of operating the finest equipped trains of any transcontinental line. A trip via this scenic route can be made with comfort and safety. Through tickets issued to all points east, to Europe, the orient, Australia and to all the principal cities of the world.

A man dictating a letter to another man with whom he quarreled, wrote thus: "Owing to the fact that my stenographer is a lady, I cannot say to you what I think of you; and, as I am a gentleman, I would not. But you, being neither, can readily guess what is in my mind."

FIRST RANK MEN AT SEATTLE MEET

Seattle, June 12. The best field of college athletes in the northwest are in action this afternoon at the exposition stadium, where the track and field meet is being held. The following colleges are participating: University of Washington, University of Idaho, Oregon Agricultural college, Washington State college and Whitman college.

The chief interest among the followers of track athletes centers in the 100, 200 and 400 yard dashes. In at least two of these events three of the fastest runners the northwest has produced, Nelson of the Washington State college, Montgomery of Idaho, and Martin of Whitman. Nelson is touted as the fastest sprinter since the days of Dan Kelly and the fastest quarter miler the northwest has ever sent out.

GIVES 75 REASONS FOR CITY'S GROWTH

"Seventy-Five Reasons Why Portland is the Best City in Which to Live, Invest Money and Engage in Business" prepared and published by Henry E. Reed, the well known Portland realty operator, Mr. Reed gives, as is indicated by the title, 75 convincing reasons why Portland is and always will be the metropolis of the Oregon country. He shows that the city's population has increased at the rate of 166 per cent for each 10 year period since 1850 and predicts that by 1930 Portland will be in the 2,000,000 class.

Portland is the objective point of every transcontinental railroad headed for the Pacific ocean. "Portland's death rate is 2.5 per thousand of population, which makes it one of the healthiest cities in the world." "Property owners in the nine years ending with 1908, expended here $145,000,000 for new buildings, a daily average of nearly $14,000." These are but three of the many weighty reasons given by Mr. Reed for the faith that is in him.

The booklet will be given a wide circulation and will prove a valuable supplement to the work being done by the city's commercial bodies.

LEWIS SALOONMEN MUST OBSERVE LAW

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chehalis, Wash., June 12.—Sheriff Upright today received instructions from County Attorney Buxton to enforce the law requiring saloons to have their screens and other obstructions to the public view removed. Cigarettes are also to be under the official ban in Lewis county, according to the same letter.

Most of the local liquor men have removed the window screens, but most of them still maintain obstructions in the doorways. If any violators of the law are found by June 28, they are to be reported to the county attorney, who will issue warrants for their prosecution.

PERSONAL

The Rev. Gerald Potts, the youngest son of Dr. George J. Potts of Portland, was ordained priest last Sunday in Portland's cathedral. Hamilton, Ore. Dr. Potts was formerly assistant pastor of the Hamilton cathedral and is well known in Hamilton. The ordination services were conducted by Bishop DuMoulin and Sub-dean Sutherland. Presenting the candidates and preached the sermon, Canon Abbott and Canon Bull assisting.

LAFAYETTE HIGH COMMENCEMENT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Lafayette, Or., June 12.—The graduating exercises of Lafayette High school were held here last evening. The class and the subjects of their essays were as follows: Geneva, "Toward the Upward Trend of Humanity," Richard Nelson, "Is There a Yellow Peril?" Mrs. Martin, "On Toward the Setting Sun," and the class prophecy by Isabel Brown. The address to the class was delivered by President David M. Metzger of Dallas college.
