Tomorrow marks the official opening of one of the most vigorous circulation campaigns ever undertaken by a newspaper in the northwest. More than $6000 worth of prizes will be given away without any reservations to the 25 contestants receiving the largest number of votes, and already the list of entries for the race includes the names of many well known young people of Portland and the surrounding country. Nominations have been sent in from the majority and county judges in several instances, while in others the candidates have nominated themselves, as suggested in the columns of this paper.

As the Journal wishes to give all contestants opportunity to win the Buick automobile, which is offered as the first prize, it has been necessary in a few instances to limit the number of candidates from certain localities in order to protect those who have already sent in their names, but in most sections of the state of Oregon, as well as the southern portions of Washington and Idaho, more candidates are desired. Names should be sent in as promptly as possible in order that the contest management may pass upon the nominations of the candidates and post them as to requirements, etc.

Monday's Coupons Good for 100 Votes.

In order to have our lists of contestants made out as early as possible the contest department will publish a nominating coupon in the Journal Monday evening, and the contest management will accept the coupons until 11 o'clock. It is with the name of someone whom you think will make a desirable contestant that you should fill in the coupon. The Journal's contest department is at the Journal Building, Portland. If the party nominated consents to run, the coupon should be returned in this manner: you will count the same as those obtained through subscriptions. Candidates already enrolled, as well as those who have not yet entered may send in these coupons.

Early in the week, probably Tuesday, a list will be published in the Journal showing the number of votes to which each contestant was entitled at the close of business on the previous day. It is usually requested that all contestants, both in the city and country, send in all cash and subscriptions obtained up to that time, on Monday. This should be done each day during the contest.

Former Contestants Entering.

The Journal is pleased to note the number of its former contestants who are entering the lists this year. Foremost among these is Miss Dolen Lilly, who will be remembered as the winner of the contest last year. Miss Lilly made many friends in her campaign last year, and she is sure to receive a large vote from her with her application will be of interest to all.

The Oregon Journal.

Portland, Oregon.

"Gentlemen—I was much pleased with the prize I won in your last contest—a $750 scholarship in the Oregon Conservatory of Music. I feel more than repaid for the time I put in working for the Journal last year, and I am glad to see you are again offering this prize. I think it is a fine school, and Mr. Edwards, the director, and all the teachers were just as nice as they could be.

"Kindly enter my name as a candidate from La Grande and oblige.

"Sincerely yours,

"(MISS) DOLORE LILLY."

Miss Lilly has been given the appointment for La Grande, and will shortly return to that city for the purpose of taking up the work in that community. She is highly spoken of at the Oregon Conservatory of Music, where she has made splendid progress and where the instructors hope to welcome her back for another year at the Journal's expense.

Candidates residing in the vicinity will find it to their advantage to keep in close touch with the contest department by dropping in at the office frequently. Some of the best representatives from the contest department call upon prospective subscribers with them, and will do so whenever possible. In the case of contestants who have never worked in this way before assistance of this character may prove very valuable. Out of town contestants will also be encouraged in similar manner and representatives of the contest management will endeavor to call upon them when in the vicinity. Some of the prizes:

$1500 Buick Automobile.

The management of the Journal has purchased a completely equipped 1909 Model F five-passenger Buick automobile, to be given away at the close of the circulation contest to the contestant scoring the largest vote. This is well worth eight weeks' effort to win and will repay the successful candidate at the rate of nearly $200 a week for the time spent in behalf of the Journal. The Model F Buick is one of the latest cars on the market at the price and was purchased for first prize in the contest after carefully considering many other cars offered. The Buick Auto company at Seventh and Burnside streets, are the northwestern distributors for Buick cars, and the Journal's first award is on exhibition at their garage, where prospective candidates are invited to inspect it before calling on the contest manager at the Journal office for particulars as to how to win it.

$1700 Worth of Pianos.

In determining upon the piano to be awarded in the contest, the Chickering Baby Grand was selected, because of its undoubted pre-eminence in American musical life, and because it represents unquestionably all that is foremost in American piano making. Some Oregon girls who own a cheap piano will be glad to be presented with this exquisite Chickering Baby Grand, valued at $1700, in a fancy mahogany case. Nothing finer could be bought by even a millionaire.

The marvelous Autopiano, the instrument that can be played with the hand in the old way, or with the perforated music roll in the modern way, is probably a most delightful prize. It enables young or old, with or without knowledge of music, to render in a finished and artistic manner any musical composition. This wonderful instrument is to be won in open competition, and given away at the close of the contest. Its value is $600, and it ranks among musical instruments as "The Standard of the World."

The third piano to be awarded, the Eilers, was selected after careful investigation, as the best upright piano obtainable for $250. The Eilers piano has gained recognition as one of Oregon's first and finest pianos. Leading concert artists have used the Eilers piano for years, and all unite in expressing the utmost satisfaction. The Journal reserves this handsome instrument to be competed for exclusively by some church, school, lodge, society or organization.

A $750 Waverleigh Heights Lot.

In order to secure a list of awards that would interest some ambitious young home-seeker, married or contemplating matrimony, the Journal has purchased lot No. 8, block 87, in the Waverleigh Heights tract. The location on Tibbets street, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth, is one of the choicest in the tract. The price paid was $750—a bargain—as the location is particularly desirable. Waverleigh Heights has graded streets, cement walks, electric lights, telephone connections, sewerage, car service, Bull Run water, and building restrictions. Take W. R. cars, get off at East Thirty-fifth street, see the lot, or talk to John P. St. John, real estate owner, at 122 Sixth street, about the lot; then call on The Journal's contest manager, and he will tell you how to get it.

A $400 Gearhart Park Lot.

Down at Gearhart Park, an established summer resort on the shore of the Pacific, where 150 families own their homes and two magnificent hotels accommodate visitors, the Journal bought a $400 lot, half a block from the Kruse's Beach hotel, where neighbors have improvements. The exclusive sales agents for this beautifully located seaside resort, both in summer and winter, are Chapin & Herlow, with offices on the third floor of the Chamber of Commerce building, will be glad to furnish further particulars. Some one will be presented with a deed to lot 8, block 87, at Gearhart Park, at the deed made out in your name. See The Journal's contest manager.

An 18 Foot Speed Launch.

This is one of the newest models, designed by the Racine Boat Manufacturing Company, Racine, Wis. It is not wishing to go to the expense of a fine boat, want to leave everything else behind, and get a fast footer is guaranteed to get her easily at speed. She is guaranteed to run an hour for Racine boats. Competition for this and fast launch is confined to boys and men entered in the Journal's race.

A Racine Canoe, Too.

A white cedar, 18 foot Racine canoe, canvas covered, to outside of hull, the finest workmanship throughout, as in the Journal's grand prize contest. See these boats at J. M. Arthur & Co.'s streets. They will be given away by the Journal for a few weeks' work.

White Sewing Machine.

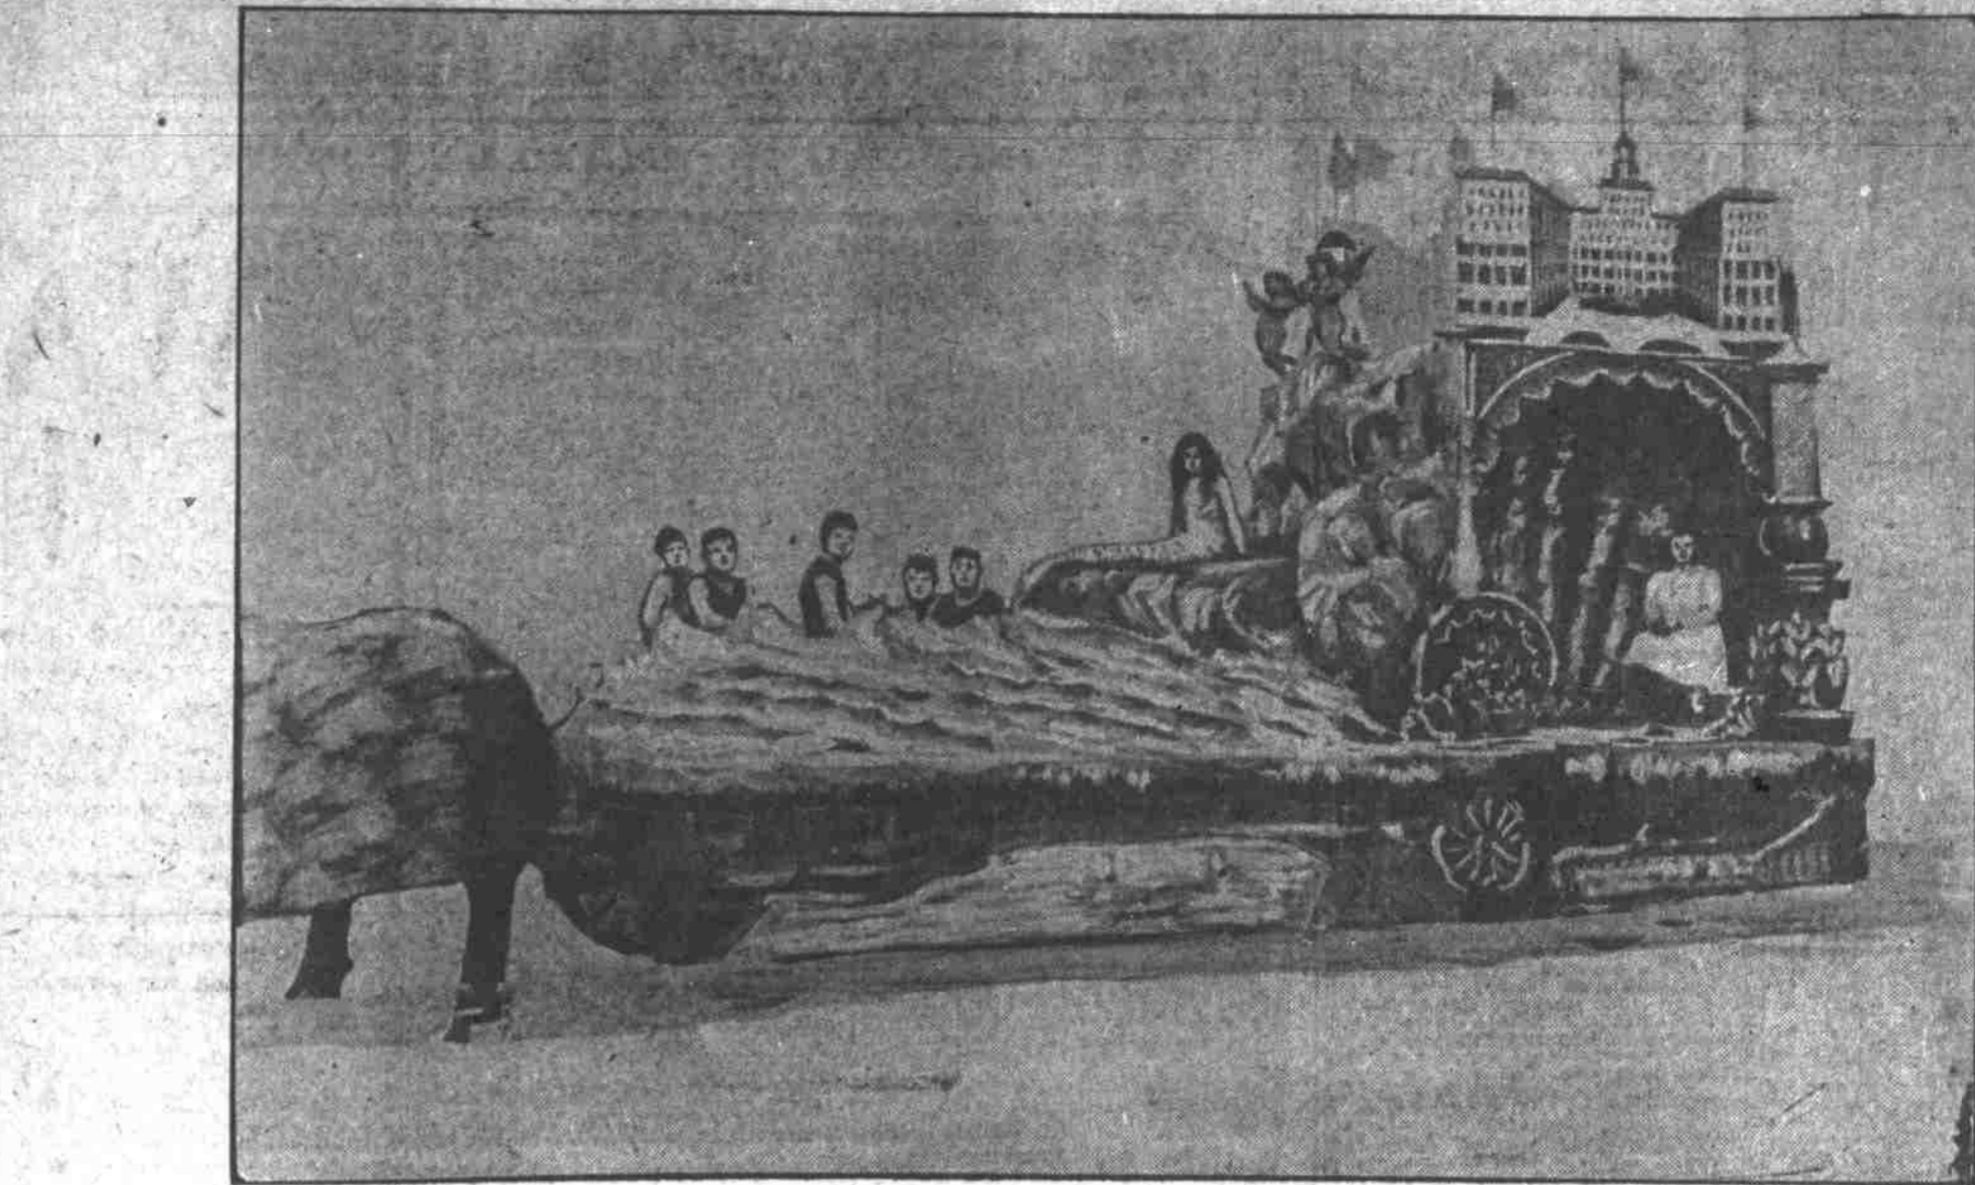

Ladies who have entered or who are about to enter the contest will be pleased to learn that the Journal has purchased from the White Sewing Machine company, whose offices are at 315 Washington street, Portland, a No. 35 White Automatic Sewing Machine. This finely finished machine is furnished with rolled edge Renaissance design work, in quarter sawed golden oak, and is fitted with automatic lift, pickled plated handwork, beautiful each end of the table, ball bearings and a complete set of the latest style latest design work, in quarter sawed wood, and has already attained widespread popularity by reason of its beauty and thorough reliability. The machine will be given away for $80 and secured a good position in a bank, office or commercial house immediately after graduation. The value of this scholarship is $100.

Another prize is a six months' free scholarship in the shorthand department of the same school, and a third is a six months' free scholarship in the commercial course.

The school is one of the best equipped commercial colleges in the northwest and in the 21 years of its history has graduated many of Portland's most successful business men and bankers.

Scholarship Prizes.

A scholarship in Portland's well known educational institution, the Portland Academy, has been secured as an additional prize to be awarded some bright boy who is willing to make an effort to secure an education. This scholarship is a desirable one, as it entitles the holder to attend the Portland Academy and is valued at $120. The Journal is willing to help some boy who is desirous of helping himself. Now is the time to enter the contest and secure a valuable award at the close. A scholarship in so fine a school as the Portland Academy is especially desirable to the young boys of Oregon and no doubt will be eagerly sought.

$1000 Insurance Policy.

From the Oregon Life Insurance company, The Journal has secured a $1000 10 year endowment policy, with the premium paid up for three years. This policy may be worth more to the one who secures it than either the Buick automobile or any other of the prizes offered. The amount secured is more than the policy made out in favor of any member of his family who can pass the medical examination required by the Oregon Life Insurance company. An insurance policy is just as necessary as a home, and even more so. Here is an opportunity to compete for one in an Oregon company, a company for Oregonians. Call at the offices of the company and inquire about it or ask the contest manager of the Journal for particulars.

How to Enter the Race.

Entries can be made in the Journal's race at any time up to the middle of July, but as the proverbial early bird is the one that catches the worm, an early start is a big advantage. Upon deciding to enter the race, either call on or write to the Contest Department of The Oregon Journal and the necessary receipt books, voting coupons and advertising matter will be sent you as soon as your qualifications are passed upon by the management.

How to Get Votes.

Candidates should at once interest their friends in the contest and by united effort and action induce as many people as possible to vote for them by subscribing to The Oregon Journal six months or so in advance. The prizes will be awarded in accordance with the number of votes a candidate has at the close of the race, about eight weeks from this date. The contestant having the greatest number of votes being entitled to first choice of the awards, the contestant standing second having second choice of the awards, and so on down until all the prizes have been awarded.

Over Twenty-five Prizes.

With over 25 prizes offered, each contestant who makes an effort is assured of receiving some remuneration. No element of chance enters The Journal contest, as a cash commission on new subscriptions will be paid to those contestants who remain in the race to the end and do not finish among the prize winners.

To Renewal Christian Church.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Forest Grove, Or., June 12.—At a meeting of the official board of the Christian church of this city, it was decided to remodel the present building and build an addition. The seating arrangement will be in circular form, with a raised floor from the center, and a banking gallery extending entirely around the new addition. The seating capacity will be about 800.

The church has experienced a marvelous growth during the past year under the leadership of Rev. E. V. Stivers and the present building is inadequate.

Iceland is to have an art museum. The sculptor, Cinar Jonson, has long desired that his native country should possess an art collection, and with that object in view has presented all his works—19 in number—as a nucleus. The only condition named by him was that a suitable housing place be provided by the government, and this he succeeded in remodeling the present building and build an addition. The seating arrangement will be in circular form, with a raised floor from the center, and a banking gallery extending entirely around the new addition. The seating capacity will be about 800.
