GOMPERS FOR WORKMENS' RIGHTS

Leader of Union Men Says He Has Been Depicted as Anarchist—Not an Enemy of Society but Friend of Good Government.

(By Perry Arnold, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

Washington, June 12.—A world wide movement on the part of the working men to secure their rights is the idea that President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor will carry to Europe with him when he sails from New York next Saturday. The labor leader will leave Washington tomorrow.

In his office here tonight he discussed for the United Press some of the problems of the present day with which labor is confronted.

"When the country again adopts that equality, liberty and justice to all which was foremost in the minds of those who founded this nation," said Mr. Gompers, "and the sooner they apply these fundamental principles in the light of present and future industrial conditions, the sooner will labor be given its just rights.

"Why," continued the labor leader, smiling, "I have been depicted as a long haired anarchist, running around at large with blood in my eyes and a club in my hands with which I was striking at the foundation of government. I'm not an enemy of society as labor's rapacious, greedy foes have dubbed me. I'm not undermining social institutions; I'm not annihilative. But the cause for which I stand demands a reconstruction upon the foundation of common humanity, common justice and common liberty of our present day institutions. I don't care how labor's enemies may malign me and paint me as an ogre and all that, my conscience is perfectly clear about it, anyway."

Contempt Cases.

Referring to the "contempt cases," an appeal in which is now pending in the court of appeals here, Mr. Gompers admitted that much hinged upon its final settlement.

"By that," he hastened to say, "I do not mean as indfviduals. Mitchell, Morrison and myself do not look upon that case as individuals. We represent the cause of labor, the cause of the people in maintaining the American principle of freedom and equality before the law. We have been vilified, insulted, blackguarded and accused of heinous things, simply because we voice the principles of right for which organized labor stands.

Toilers Are Best Americans.

"But the time is past when such men as Van Cleave and his hirelings can intimidate unionism. The workers have learned through organization that they have rights, and through organization they propose to secure those rights. The toilers are the best of Americans, because they have a conception of citizenship and sovereignty and the responsibilities of both. They will demand an exercise of the former and are willing to assume its duties.

"Under the so-called open shop, as individuals there is no hope for the exercise of either. The only hope is in union and intelligent constructive action."

President Gompers sees a world-wide movement of the laborers to secure their rights. He hopes to get in closer touch with this international spirit through his trip abroad. He is going there to fraternize and bring back to America greetings from the the brotherhood of Europe.

Only Hope Is in Unionism.

"The cause of labor," said Mr. Gompers, discussing his trip, "is a fundamental scheme of things. There is not any boundary that separates our mutual interests and mutual necessities. Against the tyranny and injustice of nations towards the workers must be directed the combined force of organization. There is no other instrument on earth so effective, nor weapon so potent against the wrongs that exist under modern industrial conditions, as the union. Without it the toilers cannot peacefully, lawfully and rationally work out their destiny. With it will come peace and a readjustment of civilization; without it, servility, serfdom or revolution. We ask equality before law.

That Fake Square Deal.

"I don't mean that fake square deal that has been prated about so much—that square deal is a mighty hollow square. But I mean that sort of a solid, real and tangible square deal that the signers of the Declaration of Independence had in mind. A suppression of free speech, free press and the right to assemble peaceably—all rights irrevocably granted American citizens—would be the demolition of our entire governmental structure and an overthrow of the very ideals which led to the revolution and to the formation of the United States."

Questioned about the tariff, Mr. Gompers replied that there were many things more important to the laboring man than that. He declined at this time to discuss the present situation in congress.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome

SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following prescription will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

First get fifty cents' worth of compound fluid balmwort in a one-ounce package, and three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Mix all in a six or eight ounce bottle, shake well, and take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

WOULD ALWAYS BOOST FOR CUPID

Typical Texan Visits Portland and Hands Out Philosophy.

"Like a long-horned steer caught napping in a lady's dressing room; that's the way I felt in Seattle, but coming to Portland and looking upon the roses and feeling the thrill of growth and energy that being here brings, I feel at home—back among the boosters again."

Portland has a visitor a real Texan of the expensive Texan type. He is Mayor F. C. Highsmith of Mineral Wells, in the Lone Star state, but now adding to his first quoted opinion of the Puget sound atmosphere, he says he may never go back to Mineral Wells again, because he has fallen so completely in love with Portland that he believes he will stay and make membership in the booster's club a serious occupation.

Judge Highsmith, as he is called among his countrymen, has been traveling in the west for a month. "I had seen all the rest of the country and wanted to look upon the scenery out here," he explained while at the Portland yesterday afternoon. I'm going to confess, now that it's safe to do so, that while the A-Y-P Exposition is very nice, I've found more beauty, more taste, more live enterprise and more congeniality in Portland and Portland's rose show in a day than during my whole stay in Seattle attending Seattle's exposition."

Judge Highsmith is the leader of a peculiar crusade. Mayor Franklin B. Stoy of Atlantic City issued an edict that in the seaside resort match-making was forever done away with. Mayor Highsmith of Mineral Wells, where 150,000 guests are entertained annually by 10,000 people, retorted with a proclamation all the star-gazers could come to his town and find a welcome.

"What made you issue such a statement—desire to get even with Stoy?" was a question put to the Texan during a conversation yesterday afternoon.

"No, sirree," came the answer in the judge's vigorous style. "I acted on the principle that as long as marriages are made in heaven you can't very well stop match-making here below. I've seen more than 1200 couples made happy for life as a result of that proclamation. And what is better," admitted the mayor of Mineral Wells with deep satisfaction, "every one of those couples have my picture over their mantlepiece, and frequently when the first has been a boy he bears the name of F. Highsmith.

"I don't believe in interfering with providential arrangements. I can't see that any mayor has the right to stop innocent hand-holding. I don't believe in crime. I always kept the criminal away and those that slipped in to our town were punished right."

Judge Highsmith plunged into a defense of his views. These are some of his most expressive periods:

"I like the music of the youth who bill and coo together. I'd just as soon expect to make mud pies in heaven as stop love-making here. It's easy to see that the bigger the spoon, the more one can dip from the cup of happiness. Cut out the spooning and you take all the yeast out of ecstacy. Spooning is a game two can play at and both win. It is a game where every card in the pack is a trump and the more you play trumps the more trumps you have left. The joker in the pack adds a zest that makes it satisfying to the heart and hopeful to the soul."

In a poetical strain he added: "I say, come ye where the woodbine twineth; come ye where the soft shadows play hide and seek 'neath cosy bowers. Come ye where ye may sigh and know there are thousands of others sighing about you. Come ye where the marriage clerk is genial and will fit your requirements and pave the way for a lifetime's bliss.

"I would like to make clear my position," said Judge Highsmith, concluding. "I believe in happiness. I don't like the knockers. I despise the soreheads and the grouchy ones. I think special transportation out of town should be provided for those who wear sour looks and criticize. I believe the happiest peple are the best. You don't find crime associated with happiness. The more happy homes there are the stronger our nation. The happiest people are those who live naturally. And to be natural all young people must hold hands, gaze deep into each other's eyes during unnoted hours and finally subscribe eternal vows to 'love cherish and obey' and the rest of it."

WANT INDIAN LAND OPENED TO ENTRY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Husum, Wash., June 12.—Along the northern boundary line of Klickitat county the Yakima Indian reservation extends into the county for a distance of about five miles, the territory covered east and west being over 30 miles in width. Senator Jones has sent to the interior department a petition asking that certain isolated tracts in this county held by the government for the Indians be made available for homestead purposes. Settlers have been using this land for many years, and would now like to obtain possession in a legitimate manner, but on account of the withdrawal of the land from entry have been unable to do so. At the time of the withdrawal there were a large number of Indians in this particular locality, but as they have moved to other parts of the domain there seems to be no apparent need for the reservation of the lands.

J. R. and P. B. McCracken, two miles up the river from here, sold 60 acres of their orchard property Thursday to parties from the east. One tract contains 40 acres on the north adjoining their orchard, the other 20 acres to the south.

WILL WORTH $100,000 IN OLD SUITCASE

Denver, June 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Crow Hosford, the latter being the former Miss Helen Youngerman, daughter of the late Carl Youngerman, millionaire cigar manufacturer of Des Moines, Iowa, have become suddenly wealthy over night and have gone to Rulo, Neb., where a fortune of $100,000 awaits them.

Young Hosford, instead of being disinherited, as he believed himself, after years of wandering, suddenly found himself wealthy when his wife, a few days ago, opened an old suit case and found therein a packet of paper given her by her father-in-law upon her marriage, with instructions not to open it until after his death. She had forgotten the packet until she found it in the unused suit case. It contained the elder Hosford's last will, reinstating his son as heir.
