

PURE MILK FOR OREGON CONSUMERS

Five Deputies to Take Field Under Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Food Commissioner's Staff.
 J. W. Bailey, state dairy and food commissioner.
 R. V. Williamson, chemist.
 Paul V. Maris, deputy commissioner, Multnomah county.
 M. S. Shrock, deputy, Tillamook county.
 W. E. Catterlin, deputy, Marion county.
 Two more deputies to be appointed this week.

Paralleling the wonderful growth which Oregon has made as a center of the dairy industry prominent creamery men of the state in session in the parlors of the commercial club last night made arrangements for the appointing and supporting of two extra deputies and inspectors for use in field work throughout the state of Oregon. This will give Commissioner J. W. Bailey a force of five inspectors with whom he expects to bring about a great revolution in the creamery business in the state.

The movement for more deputies started last night was carried out to live up to the promises made to the state legislature last winter when the passage of the bill providing for the three inspectors recently appointed was under discussion. At this time it was promised that should the state provide for three men as inspectors the creamery and dairymen of the state would provide for another man to be appointed by the state dairy and food commissioner and to work under his direction. At last night's meeting the creamery men went this one better and provided for one man and backed it with $500,000 of providing for the second. The difference in this amount will be made up the first of the week and the appointment announced as soon as possible.

Back to the Dairies.
 The feeling expressed at last night's meeting was in line with the movement for better creamery and dairy products, which has slowly but surely been sweeping over the state for several years. To accomplish this aim it was found necessary to go right to the sources from which the cream comes and to see that from the time the cream leaves the udder of the cow till it reaches the consumer it is handled in a sanitary manner. This task is to be entrusted to the hands of the three inspectors recently appointed and who will commence their real work Monday morning, and to the two others whose appointment will probably be announced later.

Provisions made by the state legislature are a salary of $1200 a year and an expense account of $800 a year besides. At last night's meeting the creamery men subscribed for enough money to support one inspector alone while the other creameries all had subscribed for the support of the second man. Complete returns from the creamery men to be made this week will probably complete the fund necessary.

Methods of Inspection.
 Besides the proposition of sufficient inspectors, considerable time was spent at last night's meeting in discussing the proper methods of reaching the farmers and of doing the inspection. A favorable report was received from

M. S. Shrock, who has been out for several days on an inspection tour to the effect that the farmers are not nearly as antagonistic to the inspectors as was expected. Some persons, fearing that the new laws were going to work to their disadvantage, have been filling the minds of the farmers with ill reports of the intentions of the inspectors but nevertheless they seemed inclined to listen to reason and were not at all hard to convince that the inspectors were really their friends. SALMON PACK IS BELOW NORMAL

Outlook Not Encouraging, According to Drift Netters—More Gear.

Astoria, Or., June 19.—The salmon are still running slow and the pack is said to be considerably below the normal. Unless there is a material change for the better the season's pack is likely to be a comparatively poor one. Because of the fact that there is more gear in the river than last year the catch to date is probably ahead of last year's.

Thus the canneries are perhaps better off than last year at this time, but because of the greater number of fishermen the individuals are said to be making much less money than last summer.

So sudden and thorough are the changes in the running of the salmon that the season may turn out well yet but the drift netters think the outlook bad.

Death of Mrs. Hawkins.
 Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hawkins died at her home, 424 Marion avenue, Sellwood, last night of consumption. She is survived by her husband and several children.

ENGINE PLUNGES; TRAIN ON RAILS

Great Northern Passengers Saved by Airbrakes Set Automatically.

Vancouver, B. C., June 19.—The Great Northern express train to Vancouver had a narrow escape from disaster this afternoon, the engine going into the Fraser river. Engineer Zeigweid and the fireman were drowned. The cause of the accident is a mystery. The putting on of the airbrakes when the engine broke away from the train saved the passenger coaches from going into the river. The accident occurred on the Westminster side of the great bridge which spans the Fraser river.

A wrecking crew was dispatched from Vancouver this afternoon and will attempt to save the engine, which lies in deep water. The passenger coaches were brought to Vancouver at 4:30. Few of the passengers knew what a narrow escape they had had, until told by the newspaper men.

MANY ODD THINGS LAND IN MAIL BAGS

A box of strawberries came through the local postoffice a few days ago, but due to their over-ripe condition, Assistant Superintendent of City Delivery J. Ross was compelled to throw them away.

have found many unusual things in the mail boxes and bags lately," said Mr. Ross, and when asked the nature of these articles he procured a large recorder from which he read: "A hair curling iron, a purse, several keys, a pocket knife, one dollar, a child's white hat, a lodge button and many other things."

A great deal of small change and not infrequently $5 and $10 gold pieces creep into the mail bags, and the owner can furnish sufficient proof such money can be reclaimed.

A great many of these losses are due to carelessness while mailing letters in the post boxes, and they cause the mailing clerks much extra work and inconvenience. Every article has to be recorded and then forwarded to the dead letter office in Washington, D. C. One of the clerks ran the point of a pair of scissors an inch into his hand while handling the mail bags.

STRIKE LEADERS AT M'CLOUD DESERTED

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
 Yreka, Cal., June 19.—Four Italian strike leaders from McCloud who are in jail here awaiting trial in the superior court for participation in the riot during the recent strike have been deserted by their countrymen. Though the aggregate bail required to give them liberty is only $150 cash, no one in McCloud will stand sponsor for them, and they will have to lie in jail until September, the earliest time at which they can be tried.

TEACHERS NAMED FOR ALBANY SCHOOLS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Albany, Or., June 19.—The Albany school board has added four more teachers to the long list chosen at the last annual meeting. Miss Mona Gile of Sheridan will have charge of the seventh grade of the Madison street school; Miss Edith McCourt of this city, the fifth grade of the Maple street school; and Miss Riffner of Ashland the second grade of the Madison school. The board will hold a meeting Monday when bids for the building of the new high school will be opened.

CROPS PROMISING ABOUT EUGENE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Eugene, Ore., June 19.—But little rain has fallen at Eugene and in the country tributary this week, but crop conditions are excellent. It is difficult to estimate the yield of wheat but it will evidently be one of the largest crops in the history of the northwest with a continuance of present conditions. Cut worms are worrying farmers of Stevens county and gardeners around Eugene.

ORIENTAL TRADE FOR AMERICANS

Uncle Sam Ready to Seize His Share, Whoever May Dispute.

(Enter cross Leased Wire.)
 Washington, June 19.—Despite the complications that have arisen through efforts of American bankers to secure a part of the Chinese loan, the Americans are "sitting tight" and waiting without the least intimation of dissatisfaction for the foreign powers to come to an agreement. The disposition of the British government to oppose a diversion of a portion of the loan to American financiers was not unlooked for. In this immediate question, however, England stands in the relation of an outside party, as Secretary Knox's coup makes the problem one of direct concern only to the United States and China as a result of the treaty of 1903, by which the empire promised to consider the United States in making loans for public improvements.

The animus behind the action of the British foreign office is not directed against the sharing of the United States in the present loan. Of far more importance is the avowed policy of the state department to make it merely the opening incident in the campaign for the encouragement of American commerce in the orient. In carrying out this policy America will come into direct opposition with Germany and England and will become a more aggressive opponent of both countries in the struggle to develop the nations of the empire as a market for the goods of the western world.

America Now a Competitor.
 In this respect the incident is of the greatest interest to European countries, which, so far, have had a comparatively free hand in the field. America ships more merchandise to China but up to this time it is the result of individual enterprise. However, gracefully, or ungracefully, England may accept the situation, the announcement is not likely to appeal to the nations of the world which have had their eyes on China. Japan, England, Germany, even Russia. States as an active competitor instead of being merely a disinterested power in the effort to keep the oriental empire from being divided into piecemeal among them. It is only natural that some effort should be made to place obstacles in the way of America's realizing its aim in this respect.

Secretary Hay's policy of the open door was accepted as a safeguard against the territorial dismemberment of China. Secretary Root took the precaution to protect the country from the commercial aggression, particularly of the orientals. It has fallen to Secretary Knox to take advantage of these measures to promote the commercial interests of the United States.

Japan a Trade Rival

In this way does the United States become still more the competitor of Japan and naturally of her ally, England. Japan has been particularly jealous of the advantages gained through the war with Russia, especially in her attitude with regards to the Hsin Mintun-Fukumei railroad and the development of Manchuria. China has been only too glad to throw herself upon the protection of America. This favorable disposition towards the United States is likely to enable American financiers and merchants to realize with the aid of the state department the plan inaugurated by this incident with comparative ease. Being interested in the Philippines, the United States is moreover by geographical position the only power outside of

STOPOVERS FOR PORTLAND, TOO

Seattle Fair Ten Day Privilege Extended by Passenger Association.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Seattle, June 19.—Frank H. Foster, joint agent in this city and in charge of the validating offices of the 54 railroads west of Chicago, in the transcontinental passenger association, announced today that for the first time in the year the roads' 10 day stopovers would be granted on all tickets at both Seattle and Portland until further notice, if tickets were one way and presented at the office within 24 hours after arrival and a fee of 50 cents paid. On the "going" portions of round trip tickets the same will apply. This is a special concession to Seattle and the exposition. Why the same rule applies to Portland he does not know. This rule applies to all classes of tickets to and from all points east of the Rocky mountains.

24 GRADUATE FROM PHILOMATH SCHOOL

(By Journal Leased Salem Wire.)
 Philomath, June 19.—At the Philomath public school commencement exercises the following program was rendered: Invocation, Rev. W. G. Fitzgibbon; solo, Alta Wright; salutatory, Margaret Newton; class history, Neta Waller; prophecy, Cecil Stephens; valedictory, Ella Warman; solo, H. H. Collins; address, L. R. Alderman; class song; benediction, Rev. G. E. Wood. The class numbered 24, as follows: Neta Waller, Ella Warman, Sadie Mason, Edna Wyatt, Margaret Newton, Neil Baldwin, Stella Jones, Robert Peterson, Merl Scott, Hazel Jones, Kathleen Archibald, Ethel Ross, James Beriman, Lorena Mason, Blanche Chapman, Cecil Stephens, Charley Keeley, Hazel Roderick, Floyd Melville, Mildred Roderick, Gertrude Sharp, Hazel Chesney, Susan French, May Harper. The class colors were cream and light blue; the motto, "Climb, tho' the rocks be rugged." Principal H. H. Collins presented diplomas. Professor L. R. Alderman of the University of Oregon made the principal address, opening it with a humorous announcement of his subject, "A Model Address," giving Webster's definition of model. "A small imitation of the real thing."

BREAKS LEG TRYING TO MASTER TRICYCLE

Baby Willis Chumard, the 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Chumard, of 1054 Macadam road, came to an early understanding of the law of fate when last night he broke his right leg while trying to educate himself in the operation of his larger brother's tricycle. The baby was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Late last night it was said the bone would knit perfectly. Baby Willis, who, according to the parents, has been of an inquiring turn of mind since birth, tried to climb on the seat of the machine. In some way he fell, twisting his leg under him.

Japan with any direct interest in China. Secretary Knox, from all appearances, is not inclined to accept the protests of the British foreign office. In the inauguration of so far reaching a policy not only in the orient but in South America he is merely disposed to wait and see how his announcement will be received by the powers of the world before taking another step.
