There is reason to believe that next week will, in many ways, prove an interesting one to the enthusiastic workers in the Journal's big subscription contest. Two or three special moves are contemplated by the contest department, which are calculated to still further arouse the interest of the public in the success of the contestants, and all are advised to watch the stories every day with special care.

The contest is now fairly started, and although there is still an element of chance for anyone with the time and inclination to put in the next few weeks most profitably in securing subscriptions to the Journal, votes and subscriptions are being received at the office in large numbers every day. The best chance, perhaps, is for contestants in the rural districts and in almost any of the towns and cities outside of Portland. Residents of those districts have few calls made upon them, owing to their comparative inaccessibility, yet they are usually well to do and would be glad to receive in their mail every day metropolitan newspaper of the standing and importance of The Journal. They are all interested in the news, and may be seen by the numbers in the hotels and public places, reading the Portland newspapers, yet too few of them have seriously considered the advantages of subscribing to the paper in their own names. Some of our contestants have secured subscriptions from their neighbors and friends in the outlying districts, and merely telephoned them. How many, then, would secure subscriptions upon a personal interview?

contest department, or for some other reason. The best contestants find that by keeping in close touch with the office, either by letter or by call, they can sometimes be materially aided in their work, and the department is glad to receive letters from those out-of-town, showing the progress they are making and the interesting features of their work.

The Eilers Piano.
It was originally the intention of the contest department to give away the Eilers piano to some church, lodge or society competing for it, but as it appears difficult for such organizations to make arrangements to compete, it has been decided to allow all contestants in the race an opportunity to win this high grade instrument. Many of the ladies who have entered have expressed a preference for one of the pianos and there could, perhaps, be no more popular prize offered. The contest on or before July 5, competition for the Eilers piano will be opened to all.

The Scholarship Prizes.
As yet there are few energetic boys and girls who want to win one of the scholarship prizes in the race. This is a short time to prove your ambition and fitness for a thorough and practical education. There is no surer road to success in any line of endeavor than thorough preparation, and to the boy or girl, man or woman, about to enter upon a business career a practical course in one of the business colleges of this city will prove of inestimable advantage.

Few business houses are willing to employ inexperienced help of any kind, and the candidate who applies for a position, and can show satisfactory references from the business college from which he or she has graduated is certain to be given a preference over other applicants. In scarcely more than a month's time you may be able to earn a free scholarship which will give you a thorough and practical insight into business methods, or will otherwise fit you to fill an honorable position at a good salary. Is the reward worth your effort? What do your parents think? They will gladly help you to win, and so will their friends, and by putting forth your best efforts you may be able to win the Buick automobile, which you could sell for enough to put you through college and give you a snug little sum besides. Call on the contest manager today and start work at once. You can win if you try.

How to Enter the Race.
Entries can be made in the Journal's race at any time up to the middle of July, but as the proverbial early bird is the one that catches the worm, an early start is a big advantage. Upon deciding to enter the contest, call on or write to the Contest Department of The Oregon Journal and the necessary receipt books, voting coupons and advance matter will be sent you as soon as your qualifications are passed upon by the management.

How to Get Votes.
Candidates should at once interest their friends in the contest and by united effort and action induce as many people as possible to enter the race. People at home or abroad may be induced to subscribe to The Oregon Journal six months or so in advance. The prizes will be awarded according to the number of votes a candidate has at the close of the race, about eight weeks from this date. The contestant having the greatest number of votes being entitled to first choice of the awards, the contestant standing second having second choice of the awards, and so on down until all the prizes have been awarded.

Over Twenty-five Prizes.
With over 25 prizes offered, each contestant who makes an effort is assured of receiving some remuneration. No element of chance enters the Journal contest, as a cash commission on new subscriptions will be paid to those contestants who remain in the race to the end, and do not flinch among the prize winners.

Monday morning he will go from Beverly to Norwich, Conn., to attend the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the city. After spending three days in Plattsburg, Burlington and other places in their vicinity he will return to Washington Thursday night.

SUPPOSED TO BE BRITISH BARONET

Man Dead of Alcoholism at Yuma Apparently Sir Arthur Stepney.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Yuma, Ariz., July 3.—Papers found in the pockets of an aged man who was found dead in the conductors' room of the Southern Pacific station here late yesterday are thought to establish the fact that the man was Sir Arthur Cecil Stepney, English baronet and scientist of international reputation. The verdict found by the coroner's jury attributes his death to excessive indulgence in drink. He had registered at a hotel here as from Seattle.

In the dead man's pockets were bank notes and gold coin to the amount of several hundred dollars. A pass book on a Los Angeles bank showed deposits aggregating $13,000. A firm of London solicitors, whose address was found among Stepney's papers, was called for instructions concerning the disposition of the body.

Stepney several years ago renounced his inherited titles, and came to the United States. Although many Englishmen have dropped their titles of nobility upon coming to this country, Stepney is thought to be the first that ever divested himself of his honors through legal channels.

Stepney was divorced from his wife in London in 1903. The case was one of the most unusual ever heard in the British courts. He was married in 1871, but soon after the birth of a daughter he left his home. He was examined because of mental delusions, and suffered by several English specialists, but was never adjudged mentally unsound.

A peculiar feature of his mental condition was a belief that improper pictures of his young daughter were being produced in England. He is said to have written several impugning letters to Lady Stepney regarding this subject.

In this country Stepney's scientific reputation grew rapidly. He was a fellow in the English Royal Geographical society. He also was a member of the Brooks and the Travelers' clubs of London. The Stepney baronetcy was created in 1871.

PRESIDENT KERR TO SPEAK AT EXPOSITION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 3.—President Kerr yesterday accepted an invitation from the Oregon Agricultural College to deliver an address in Seattle July 14 before the educational convention to be held in connection with the exposition during the week of July 12 to 15. A five days' program has been arranged. President Kerr is to deliver the principal address on the subject "Moral and Religious Education," and President Hill, of the University of Missouri.

New Laws in Iowa.
Des Moines, Iowa, July 3.—The laws enacted by the thirty-third general assembly of Iowa are to come into effect tomorrow. After that date it will be illegal for first cousins to marry in this state. Other new laws of importance concern the providing of stricter regulations governing the sale of liquor by druggists and making owners liable who lease their property for immoral purposes.

FLATHEADS NO LONGER A TRIBE

Will Melt Into the Mass Following Final Powwow and Dance.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Missoula, Mont., July 3.—For the last time in history the Flathead tribe of Indians, 1000 strong, will celebrate the sun worship, a festival of thanksgiving and the dance of death at the big powwow to be held at Saint Ignace mission on the Flathead reservation on Monday. Thus by a curious trick of fate will the Redskins sing their own swan song on the anniversary of the signing of the declaration of independence by their pacifist conquerors. For centuries the Indians have observed the annual worship of the sun, the ceremony occupying several days. On Monday the last dance will be given. The 10 chiefs of the tribe having met in solemn conclave today and decided that with the opening of their hunting grounds to the white homesteaders by the government this summer they will abolish the tribal relation.

Wonderful in barbaric splendor is the sun dance of the Flatheads, eclipsing the famous ceremonies of the Sioux and Apaches. The decision of the chiefs' council today is history making. The first time in the history of the white man's occupation of North America that an Indian tribe has formally acknowledged the hopelessness of tribal government.

DENVER THROGGED WITH TEACHERS

Denver, Colo., July 3.—With flags flying and the city decorated in holiday trim, the capital city of Colorado began today the "entertainment of the thousands of school teachers who have gathered from all parts of the country to take part in the forty-seventh annual convention of the National Educational association. The first business of the convention was a meeting of the council of education today, when committee reports were discussed and prepared for presentation to the general sessions. The convention proper will open the first of next week. San Francisco has sent a large delegation with a view to getting the 1910 convention of the association. From all indications the convention will be one of the largest ever held by the association. Many educators of wide prominence are scheduled to address the main sessions and the many departmental conferences which make up the convention.

Pretty Wedding at Prineville.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Prineville, Or., July 3.—A pretty wedding took place this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Booth, in this city, the bride being Eva E. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Booth, and the groom James C. Price, of Salem. Many friends of the young couple were present, and the beautiful home was decorated fittingly for the occasion. The happy couple will live in Salem, where Mr. Price is engaged in business.

Descendants of Signers.
Philadelphia, July 3.—Philadelphia will entertain during the next two days the second annual congress of the descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Tomorrow morning a reception to the members of the society will be given in Independence hall and afterward they will attend services in Old Christ church. The society also will take part in the Independence day parade Monday.

O. A. C. HAS SPEAKER AT DENVER MEETING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 3.—President Kerr of the agricultural college left this morning for Denver, Colo., to attend the convention of the National Educational association which convenes in Denver during the week beginning Monday, July 4. On Tuesday morning, President Kerr is scheduled to deliver an address before the convention on the theme "Assuming that the public schools are expected to offer vocational training, should this training be provided for in the existing schools or should special industrial schools be established?" The question is to be discussed from the standpoint of educational interests by Dr. Keyes of Connecticut; from the standpoint of economic and manufacturing interests by Dr. Monaghan of New York; and from the standpoint of agricultural interests by President Kerr.

The matter of providing for industrial training in the public schools of the country is one of the most live questions at the present time with which educators are wrestling. That President Kerr has been selected from all the agricultural college people in the country to discuss this question is a distinct honor to the state.

Costs More to Make Than Other Whiskies

The annual whiskey production of Kentucky is about 30,000,000 gallons, consisting of good, bad and indifferent whiskies—principally indifferent. By indifferent, we mean whiskies used for making so-called "blends" and concoctions, and usually sold by unscrupulous dealers as "fine Kentucky whiskies." The cost of raw materials in using the original formula of 62 years ago, prohibits the dealer from handling it for cheapening purposes. Cedar Brook is allowed to remain 8 years in wood before being bottled in bond, which makes it renowned as the best whiskey Kentucky produces. The Cedar Brook Distillery is in Anderson County—heart of the Blue Grass region—home of fine whiskey. Cedar Brook is sold wherever good liquor is sold.
