

AMBITIOUS STUDENTS GIVEN RARE OPPORTUNITY IN JOURNAL CONTEST

Eight Free Scholarships in Representative Institutions of Learning Among the Prizes—Only a Few Weeks Required to Win Them—Few Candidates.

A rare opportunity is afforded ambitious students in The Journal's Fourth Annual Circulation Contest in which eight free scholarships are offered among the prizes. Any young person who enters the race without delay has a splendid chance to win one of them. All that is required is a few weeks' effort to secure as many paid in advance subscriptions to The Journal as possible. Only a few of the contestants have high scores and the best of them could easily be surpassed by a worker determined to win the first prize. Of the 25 candidates whose names appear in the score list only 11 have brought in 10,000 or more votes. Two new one year subscriptions count that many votes.

If You Are Fat and Hot Read This Article

There is no necessity of fat people suffering as they do. Most fat people are so good-natured they do not care how they look or how they get along during the hot weather. As a matter of fact there is a natural fat reducer that in the past several years has been demonstrating that it will reduce fat and not tear down the body or leave big flabby rolls of skin and wrinkles. This method in the famous Marmola prescription, which is now prepared in tablet form to meet the demands of fat people in the summer and to enable them at all times to take their fat reducer after each meal. One of these little tablets taken after a meal turns that meal into good food for the blood and stops all fat-producing elements from going into the system. Marmola Tablets has an army of men and women who testify to its success, and you would tire reading what they say of its triumphs. Marmola tablets not only stop producing fat in the body but they reduce flesh at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless and do nothing but assist nature to give to the body the nourishment it requires. They are sold at all drug stores, price 75 cents, or you may write The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich.

prizes, one of which entitles the winner to a full course in the commercial, typewriting and shorthand departments. The benefits to be derived from such a course are incalculable, for it may mean the difference between wealth and financial success in after life and life of poverty and continued struggle to make both ends meet.

Few practical business men of today are willing to give employment to inexperienced help of any kind. They have no time to break in new men. Those who enter upon a business career without a practical business course, almost invariably find the others advancing over their heads in the office. Students in a modern and well equipped business college, on the other hand, are assured of good positions, paying liberal salaries, and offering ample opportunities for advancement, immediately after graduation.

If you are contemplating starting out in the business world enter the contest today and set to work at once securing subscriptions to The Journal. If you do not win the $100 scholarship there are two others in the same school, one entitling you to the full commercial course, including bookkeeping and commercial law, and the other to a full course in typewriting and stenography.

At present the candidate entitled to the $100 scholarship in the Holmes Business College has but 670 votes to his credit. This score could be exceeded by a single new one year subscription and one new half year subscription. In the same way a candidate for the commercial or shorthand scholarships needs but a single new paid in advance subscription for one year, or two renewals for the same period. What boy or girl worthy of a free scholarship is unable to secure that many votes any day he or she so desires?

Oregon Conservatory.

There are probably many young people with musical tastes and inclinations who would be glad to study at the Oregon Conservatory of Music for a year if they were able to afford it. A full course of instruction in this highly recommended school is included among the prizes in The Journal's contest this year. Fifteen thousand five hundred votes is the score that would place you in line for this valuable award at the present time. Two new one year subscriptions and four for six months would place you way ahead of that number. How long would it take you to get six new subscribers? Haven't you that many friends who would subscribe to help you improve your musical ability? Try your next door neighbors.

International Correspondence Courses.

For those now employed, who desire to better their condition, the free scholarships in the International Correspondence school should strongly appeal. The school has been in existence about 18 years and has grown with tremendous strides due to the success of the methods employed. The company has a paid in capital of $5,000,000 and occupies three large buildings in Scranton where 2800 people are employed, including 360 experts and instructors engaged in revising textbooks and in examining and correcting the work of students.

Students may do their studying, at any time most convenient to themselves, lessons and instructions being mailed to them as frequently as they have mastered what has already been sent. Examination questions are mailed to them and their answers are carefully gone over at the home office where the papers are marked and criticized and returned with comments.

A great variety of courses are open to the winners of the scholarships which include one for contestants residing in Portland and others for those residing in the outside territory.

The school and its courses have been indorsed by nearly all the large industrial and railroad corporations of the country and more than 100,000 successful graduates testify to the merits of the system.

Portland Academy Scholarship.

A prize which should incite you to your best efforts in this campaign for subscribers to The Journal is the Portland academy scholarship, good for one year's free instruction in this excellent school. The cost of the instruction is $120 a year, yet some one will win it by only a few weeks' work during the summer vacation and will still have ample time for a good long rest before the commencement of the school term. Three new one year subscriptions will place you on a par with the candidate now entitled to this prize. Do not lose this opportunity. There are only a few more days in which to make entry. See the contest manager today.

How to Enter the Race.

Entries can be made in The Journal's race at any time up to the middle of July, but as the proverbial early bird is the one that catches the worm, an early start is a big advantage. Upon deciding to enter the race, either call on or write to the Contest Department of The Oregon Journal and the necessary receipt books, voting coupons and advertising matter will be sent you as soon as your qualifications are passed upon by the management.

How to Get Votes.

Candidates should at once interest their friends in the contest and by united effort and action induce as many people as possible to vote for them by subscribing to The Oregon Journal six months or so in advance. The prizes will be awarded in accordance with the number of votes a candidate has at the close of the race. The contestant having the greatest number of votes being entitled to first choice of the awards, the contestant standing second having second choice and so on until all the prizes have been awarded.

KEEPER AND CHARGES AT CITY PARK ARE THE BEST FRIENDS

Kind and sympathetic treatment and careful attention to their wants have made the animals in the City Park menagerie and Charles Hermann, their keeper, good friends. Yesterday, in showing a Journal reporter the different cages, a fat little black bear from Japan stuck his nose out of the bars of his cage, and Mr. Hermann took the bear's head in his hand, while the beast pawed at his clothes in a most friendly manner.

"Does that look as if I didn't treat them all right?" asked Mr. Hermann, with a smile. And, passing along a row of clean, well-kept cages, the occupant of each seemed to recognize the keeper.

"There are women," said Mr. Hermann, stopping before the cage of the polar bear, "and others who know very little about the habits of this species, who feel that he is being very unjustly and very cruelly treated. As a matter of fact, it is a part of this polar bear's nature to act as he does."

All the animals seem to be in a particularly flourishing condition at the present time, and not a small share of the credit for this is due to Mr. Hermann, who is headkeeper of the birds and beasts at the park. In talking with Mr. Hermann, one feels that he is a real lover of animals and is fully in sympathy with his charges.

"You'll always find me here," he said, "in my working clothes. There is always something to be done. If it's not one thing, it's another."

Despite the inclement weather, a great many people, grown-ups as well as children, are attracted to the park these days, and find especially interesting the menagerie which contains birds and mammals from all parts of the globe.

SEATS ARE SELLING FOR THE BLUE MOUSE

Seats were placed on sale this morning at the Lyric theatre for the engagement of the Messrs. Schubert gorgeous production of "The Blue Mouse" which begins Monday evening and continues for one week. The demand for seats is unusually brisk, and every indication points to "The Blue Mouse" selling out extremely large and fashionable audiences, making this engagement the first of the "Independent" attractions in this city a record breaker.
