

SPECIAL PLAN FOR BRISTOL CASE

Underwood-White Salmon-Bingen-Lyle Route Not Favored by Legislature.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) Bristol, Wash., July 13.—That considerable interest is taken in the proposed state road along the Columbia river, connecting Underwood, Cook's Addition, White Salmon, Bingen and Lyle, was manifested at the Bristol District court's regular monthly meeting last night, notwithstanding a discouraging letter received from Secretary Van Hook from the state highway commissioner Joseph M. Snow.

WOMAN TALKS

(Continued from Page One.) Johnson, "for the doctors have told me that my heart is weak, I will die before I get out of Seattle. If I thought I would live I wouldn't tell this story."

Lived by Duping Women. "Four years ago my health failed. My heart was broken by the death of my sweetheart in Germany, and I took to making a living by duping the women."

My second marriage was to Mrs. Sylvia Pollard de Bonnet at San Rafael, in December, 1906. She gave me $500 on the day of our marriage, and I deserted her in New York two days later.

"I remained in Portland two months but only married one woman. My name was Eliza Jones, if I remember correctly. She had been divorced from her husband and owned a third interest in the largest coal yard in Portland. I got $1800 from her, but I feel sure she would have given me $25,000 if I had asked her for it."

"I met Mrs. Jones at Oakland and left her there. Then I went to Los Angeles and on to Memphis, Tenn., where I married Mrs. Bertha Jones. I left her in Louisville, Ky., in May, 1907."

CASE KNIFE SAVES PRISONER'S NECK

Jacksonville Jail Inmate Attempts Suicide With Blanket Rope.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) Jacksonville, Or., July 13.—James Wilson tried to commit suicide in a cell of the county jail last night. He made a rope from a blanket, attached it to the roof of his cell, and standing upon a box kicked it from under him at the psychological moment.

ralment and sailed forth. As a result he has a bet on that he will appear in blue and white at the ringside tonight, when the Oregon bunch will be gathered to watch Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast. Even staid Billy McGee is going, while the history of the fight is familiarizing himself with the past history of Wolgast and it is a safe wager that they will be the leaders of a large delegation.

Baker City to the Front

Baker City worked its way to the front in convention circles when it became known that the Queen City of the Inland Empire had brought the Blue Mountain District brass band and it was immediately seized upon to give a concert at the Hotel Alexander, the leading hostelry of the city, last night.

Will LeVins, district deputy of the Elks for Oregon, is leading the Baker City contingent rapidly into popularity and has combined with the Portland delegation and other Beaver lodges in a reception to be held Wednesday night at the Angulus hotel, which will be preceded by a woman party. At that time another of the Rose City, which have made a big hit, will be distributed. The headquarters has been thronged with former Oregonians and visitors to the special train.

J. B. Kelly, now of San Jose, where he had been for four years, was so impressed with the showing of the Oregonians that he announced he would dispose of his interests at once and return with the party.

George Cronquist, who was reared largely under the guidance of "Doc" Cornelius, and is now an elocution instructor here, has been captured by the women to assist in their reception program. Gus Kilne, erstwhile mine host of the Edmond hotel, also appeared and visited the special train.

Jack O'Neill, after having worked his way into favor as one of the most popular Harriman officials, announced today that he would return to Portland at night.

ESPEE CONTINUES DESCHUTES WORK

Court Decides Right-of-Way Cases Shall Not Interfere With Progress.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) Moro, Or., July 13.—The special term of the circuit court is now in session, with Judge R. B. Butler presiding. Several right-of-way cases for the Deschutes railroad were up for trial, but Attorney Spencer for the company secured a stipulation that railroad work was to go on. The cases are to go to trial next fall at the regular term to ascertain the assessment of damages due the property.

There has been but one jury trial, in which J. B. Hosford and Judge E. V. Littlefield, both of Portland, were opposing attorneys. The case was a well-drawn affair, both sides claiming the drill got caught in the well through the carelessness of the other party. Attorney Hosford for the well-drillers secured a compromise verdict.
