MARBLE HALLS ARE RESERVEDPresident Taft Sets Aside Great Caves of Josephine County.

District Forecaster E. T. Allen has just received a telegram stating that the president has signed a proclamation whereby one square mile of land surrounding the entrance to the famous Oregon caves or "Marble Halls of Josephine county" is reserved from any form of disposition and set aside as a national monument.

These wonderful caves are located within Siskiyou national forest, about 30 miles south of Grants Pass, Or., in Cave mountains, which is one of the peaks of the Grayback range. The mountain rises to an elevation of about 6000 feet and is of limestone formation. The main openings to the caves are at an elevation of about 4000 feet. The entire mountain side for five or six miles shows caverns of various sizes and it is believed that the interior is honeycombed with caverns like those which have already been explored.

The cave were discovered in 1864 by Ellis Davidson while bear hunting. As far as known they have never been carefully explored. They appear to be made up of a series of galleries rather than rooms or caverns, although many beautiful rooms have been discovered. There are thousands of passageways leading in all directions, many of which are partly closed by stalactites. Small streams are found at different elevations, and large bodies of running water can be heard in pits, the bottoms of which have not yet been discovered. It is thought this running water accounts for the currents of wind which in some of the galleries blow so hard as to extinguish an open light.

The lime deposits take many beautiful forms; massive pillars, delicate stalactites of alabaster whiteness. From the points of which suspend the crystal drop of water carrying its minute deposit of lime from which they are formed, and broad sheets resembling drapery with graceful curves and waves that seem to have been made by varying currents of wind.

Many beautiful and valuable specimens have been broken off and carried away by visitors during the past years, and it was this fact as well as to retain these natural wonders as public property, that led to the establishment of the national monument. The act under which the monument was established makes it an offense, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, to appropriate, excavate, injure or destroy any objects which possess historic or scientific interest.

TEACHER DIES OF HUNGER IN CHICAGO

Chicago, July 15.—Clarence Ruggles, a Denver teacher who was found several days ago suffering from hysteria, produced by hunger and exposure, died in a hospital today. Ruggles came to this city to take a teacher's examination. Failing to pass the tests he was unable to find employment and slowly starved to death. He was found lying in a doorway and taken to a hospital.
