OLSON AND SPEAS SHOVE RUN OVER

Portland Takes Opening Game From Angels in Twefith Frame.

Portland won the opening game from Los Angeles yesterday, 4 to 3, after 12 innings of good baseball, when Olson was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Speas' pretty single to right field.

Jack Graney tossed the game away in the sixth inning after the Beavers were two runs to the good, by a poor throw to Ort on Dillon's sacrifice. The ball went into the bleachers and Daley and Godwin scored.

The Angels put over the first run in the third inning, when Orendorff walked, was sacrificed to second and came home on Daley's single and Ryan's juggle.

The Beavers opened up in the fourth when McCredie registered on his single, Johnson's single, Ort's sacrifice and Breen's infield.

They made two in the fifth, when Graney lifted the ball over right field fence for a home run, and when Ryan walked, stole second and registered on Dillon's error.

HARD LUCK GAME GOES TO SPOKANE

Chinault Holds Indians Down to Two Hits in Eighth Inning.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Spokane, July 21.—Two hits in the eighth inning, all that Big Bill Chinault allowed the Indians yesterday, gave them the only two runs of the game, although the Colts made thrice as many safe wallops.

Connors made the first hit of the eighth inning, a liner down the third corner. Then James worked his way on base and Chinault regarded Brown as easy meat. He shot a swift one straight over the plate and Brown rode it down between Staton and Cooney at a terrific clip and Connors and James were home.

Phil Cooney started off with a double in the first inning, being the only Portlander to reach second base. Good fielding on both sides kept the plate clean, until Brown slammed out the ball in the eighth.

Chinault had the edge in the pitchers' battle with Wright.

Umpire Frary pulled off the game ni an hour and 12 minutes, which is a local record.

MULTNOMAH TRACK TEAM IS SELECTED

The team to represent the Multnomah club in the national championships at Seattle next month has been chosen by Manager Watkins and consists of the following well known stars:

Sprints—Oliver Huston, of University of Oregon; Harold Reed, Stanford; H. A. Meier.

Quarter mile dash—Rube Williams, Oregon Agricultural college.

Half mile—Miller, East Side high school.

Mile—Burns, Hill Military academy.

High jump—Chapman, Oregon Agricultural college.

Broad jump—Dan Kelly.

Hurdles—Forrest Smithson.

Weights—Harry McKinney, Oregon; Carl Wolff, Oregon Agricultural college; Conoway, University of Wisconsin, and Baker, Cornell university.

There are several events the Mulnomah men will not enter, but they hope to win many points in the events in which the stars will participate.

This team, all of whom are stars of the first magnitude, will work hard to get into trim for the championships in Seattle the second week in August.

VANDY NEAR DEATH

W. K. Vanderbilt Jr., whose picture is here shown, had a narrow escape from death on the Long Island Motor Parkway recently. He was driving his big 100 horsepower racing machine at the rate of 90 miles per hour, striving to break a record, when the accident occurred to the machine, and only by his strong grip on the steering wheel was he prevented from being hurled from the auto which meant instant death.

LONGEST HIT EVER SEEN IN NEW YORK

In this photograph, Harry Davis, of the Philadelphia Athletics, is seen lining out a hit that won a game for the Athletics from the Yankees recently. It is the longest hit ever seen on the New York grounds, the ball sailing over the fence in right center by fully twenty feet.

CHATTER GLEANED FROM DIAMOND

Gossip of the Players and Their Part in the National Game.

A nice start.

* *

Only 38 points behind now.

* *

And we always had an edge on the Angels.

* *

Wouldn't Henderson give us a trio hard to beat in any league? Ben is slated to work as soon as he arrives.

* *

Those famished Angels wanted company and they got it. The 12 innings lasted till 6:10 and most of us were pretty hungry.

* *

It was the largest Tuesday crowd of the season. The visiting Elks returning from Los Angeles helped swell the gate receipts. And they all rooted for the home team, too.

* *

'Twas good to see Johnson and Ort whip that ball across the diamond to each other in practice. Time and again they lined it from one base to another not more than five feet from the ground.

* *

Ivor Olson's gingery baserunning was responsible for the winning score, although he might never have reached home had Billy Speas not hit in the pinch. Ivor slid about 20 feet headlong into the base pulling off his steal of second.

* *

Speas caught his batting eye along in the latter part of the game, slamming out singles in his last two times up, the tenth and twelfth. His bingle that scored Olson was a beauty out in the direction of the flagpole.

* *

Manager Bob Brown, the most panned man in Spokane, has figured directly in both victories of the Indians. The hammersmiths will probably put their implements of war in the garret now.

* *

Two prominent southern baseball men were in the grandstand with their families yesterday. They were O. B. Andrews, owner of the Chattanooga club of the Cotton State league, and J. S. Rohr, a director of the Montgomery club of the Southern association. Both were members of the Elks excursion returning east from Los Angeles.

* *

An industrious rooter from the land of the olive and the volcano, furnished much amusement to the crowd in the grand stand. His "Goodda da boy da Bas'". "Giva da bigga da hit, Mac," "One more da Jack da homa da run," threw the fans into convulsions.

* *

Fisher's coaching reminded one of the famous Hughey Jennings and his "Ee-yah." The Beaver backstop put a lot of ginger into the game with his small talk.

* *

Armbruster's arm was working nicely, and he nipped the attempt of every Angel but Beall in stealing second. He caught two or three of the visitors way off the bag, which goes to show what hot weather will do for an arm.

* *

The Angels hopped off the delayed train, grabbed a car and got to the grounds about 15 minutes late. It was necessary to postpone the game until they could warm up. Nagle's sole sustenance since morning had been a sandwich. He did not try to use much speed in his weakened condition, but his lobs puzzled the Beavers.

* *

Jack Graney pulled off about the fastest double play seen on the grounds this season in the fifth. He nabbed Nagle's dinky fly off his shoetops and without stopping doubled Delmas out at third. It was a case of quick thinking. Then, just to cap the climax, Jack lifted the second ball pitched to him over the right field fence, as the first man up in the last half of the fifth inning.

* *

But Jack was guilty of a careless toss to first of Dillon's bunt. He got the ball in time to throw "Pop" out by a mile, but Jack hoisted it about eight feet over Ort's head, and before it could be returned to the diamond Daley and Goodwin had scored.

* *

Umpire McCarthy should have chased Orendorff out of the game in the fourth, when McCredie scored on Breen's infield out. Orendorff danced in front of him like a crazy Apache, and said all sorts of things. Three or four times during the game Orendorff committed like tricks, and any other umpire on earth would have nicked his pocketbook then and there and chased him to the clubhouse.

* *

By the way, somebody ought to call Ump Mac's attention to the vociferous rooting of the Angel crew from the bench during the game. Never saw anything like it.

* *

Goodwin caught out three men in succession, two in the eighth and the other in the ninth. His catch of Ort's foul fly was peachey, and before he could recover himself he was carried up the bank near the left field bleachers. The boy was given a hand all the way to the bench.

OUTLAWS STICK IN STATE CIRCUIT

Henderson and Pfyl Declared to Be Unknown Quantities Still.

By Hiland Baggerly.

San Francisco, July 21.—There seems to be nothing in the story sent out from Portland to the effect that Benny Henderson and "Slugger" Pfyl would desert the Outlaws to join McCredie's team. Both stars of the independents state they will stick to their clubs, and it looks like another wild rumor spread for unknown purposes, presumably to hurt the state leaguers.

Pfyl, who was in the grandstand at the Coast league game in Oakland yesterday, seemed perfectly satisfied with his present berth with Stockton. "If I play on the coast, I will finish the season out with the club I am now with," said Pfyl, which would indicate that nothing short of a big league offer would make him pull stakes from the Stockton club. The heavy hitter would not say whether he had been approached. He seemed more willing to discuss the playing of Oakland and the Seals than talk about himself.

It is understood that Ben Henderson has a flattering offer from McCredie, but will turn it down. According to a general report, Henderson is interested with Moreing in the Oakland Outlaws, and it is not probable that he would desert the team and thus injure his stock in the organization.

The Stockton club has made Johnny Farrel, an ex-big-leaguer, manager in place of Danny Shay, who is on his way to join Kansas City.

The seat of war has been suddenly transferred to Sacramento. President Ewing is pulling all his wires to keep the Outlaws out of the capital city. Strong pressure will be brought to bear upon the owners of the Sacramento diamond to cancel their bargain with the state league. Whether the Coast league will succeed next Saturday will tell when the first game is scheduled.

BATTLE GOSSIP FROM THE FRONT

Coffroth Happy Now—Papke Instead of Ketchel—Montell Coming Fast.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 21.—When Jim Coffroth was informed that Battling Nelson announced in Chicago that he would be glad to meet Packey McFarland before the Sunshine club this fall, and that he would not insist that McFarland make 133 ringside, Coffroth was more than happy.

"That makes it easy to bring the boys together, and I guess I'll have to get on the job at once," he said today. "I may go to Chicago to clinch the match, because it is a much more satisfactory way of doing business than conducting business by wire."

* *

Now that the Langford-Ketchel match for Labor day in Ely is as good as off, Coffroth may make an effort to bring Ketchel and Papke together in a 45 round fight next month. So far as Papke is concerned the match is as good as made, and if nothing better turns up in the way of a purse offer, it is not likely that Ketchel will turn down the proposition to stack up against his ancient foe for the fifth time.

* *

Frank Mantell, who has been coming to the front by leaps and bounds since he came to this coast, may be given a trial by Coffroth in the very near future. Mantell's win over Jack Twin Sullivan at Sacramento has boosted the easterner's stock considerably, and if he makes good in his tryout he will be given a match with one of the top notchers in his division.

* *

Stanley Ketchel, who was caught in an automobile jam on Monday, was not so badly hurt as was reported. The champion sustained a few slight bruises and scratches, but beyond that was not injured.

* *

Six scraps that promise all sorts of thrills will be put on by the West Oakland club tonight. Jimmy Carroll and Jockey Bennett are down for the star event, and there are five other good bouts on the card, including a six round clash between Jeff Perry and Johnny McCarthy.

FAST PACERS MEET AGAIN

As predicted in last night's Journal, the owners of Lady Lovelace and Blue Jacket, the two pacers which have been such bitter rivals for the past two years, got together last night and before they parted another meeting between the two horses had been arranged. They are both to enter the fast pace at the matinee given by the Riverside Driving club at the Country club track Saturday afternoon.

While there will be other horses, and fast ones at that, entered against the two pacers, the side bet is to be decided regardless of place in the race proper. Seven hundred dollars is the size of the bet and the horse finishing in the best position in the race will of course take the money. It should be a great race.

Although Lady Lovelace is a favorite owing to her victory in the last race, many horsemen figure that the big gray, Blue Jacket, will be winner in the coming event. While Lady Lovelace went through the last race in fine fashion, she is rather inclined to be unsteady, and with a large field such as will be entered in the fast pace next Saturday, is quite apt to break and lose out in this way.

Blue Jacket, on the other hand, runs steadily at all times and while he has probably a trifle less speed in the straight aways, he more than makes up for this by his gameness and his steadiness. At that, however, the hard work which Shea has been giving Lady Lovelace in the past three weeks may have worked much of the skittishness out of her. It is bound to be an interesting contest.

While interest surrounds the big match between these two horses, the other match race between Zoe, the bay gelding owned by G. K. Howitt, and Altas, the bay owned by Thomas Murphy, is also attracting a great deal of attention. Both horses have been performing on local tracks for some time and have shown great form. Zoe won the first meeting this year and Altas the second in which they met, so that this will be the rubber.

Krupps to Destroy a Village.

Berlin, July 21.—The small village of Schlagbruecker has been bought outright by the Krupps, who intend to raze it to the ground. The village is located near the great Krupp gun factories, and damage has often been by projectiles during the testing of the big guns. Compensation for this damage has been a big item of the firm's expenditure, and it was decided that it would be cheaper in the end to put the village out of existence.

CHAGRIN FELT BY ENGLISH SPORTS

Lack of Public Gymnasiums Held Responsible for Athletic Deterioration.

By Richard Dahlgren.

London, July 17.—Englishmen do not attempt to conceal their chagrin over the defeat of their hitherto invincible polo team, and today there are murmurings loud and deep. Notwithstanding that Englishmen are naturally pessimistic, it is the general opinion that Great Britain will have to trail in the rear for many years to come as far as polo is concerned. The cup, which has been in England for 23 years, is likely to stay in America for as long a period. Whenever sporting men congregate the talk invariably turns to England's many defeats in the field of sports during the past five years. We have been defeated time and again at almost every sport except that of horse racing. Our yachts have gone down to defeat before the superior models and sailing masters of America. Our pugilists have invariably been defeated in their own country when pitted against the superior boxers of the United States, and it is only when our men have gone to America, learned American methods of boxing and training that we have been able to hold our own, and then with only the little fellows. And now we have lost the rowing championship to the Belgians.

Many reasons are assigned for the tumble in British athletics in the last few years. One is that there are so few athletic clubs where the amateurs can train. There are plenty of gymnasiums throughout the United Kingdom, but these are chiefly owned and run by men for their own pleasure, and not for profit, and few of their members take part in international games.

The average British athlete does not make his living by following the padded ring, playing polo, etc., and there are no purses offered here which would warrant an ambitious aspirant for honors in any branch of athletic sport to forsake his regular employment to enter upon a course of training that would, as you say in America, "bring home the bacon." The decadence in English sports has been a fruitful topic of discussion since the Belgians won the grand challenge cup at Henley. Even our national hold on the time honored game of cricket has gone to one of the colonies, Australia, and our swimming championship to Germany.

It gives little comfort to our down hearted sports that the Duke of Manchester, Lord Roxeburgh and others of the nobility have promised to organize a team that will go to America and recover the polo cup. They realize that the English players were beaten, not because they had gone back in their playing, but because the Americans had improved so wonderfully. It would be impossible to get enough polo ponies in England that would be the equal of those ridden by the Americans, and even the promise of one of the trio that he would try and induce the king of Spain to sell some of his ponies, which are known all over the world as the best of their class, gives us little encouragement to hope that the cup will again cross the Atlantic in many years.

BAT NELSON ANXIOUS TO FIGHT M'FARLAND

Chicago, July 21.—Battling Nelson announced today that he was ready to fight Packey McFarland in the fall provided the stockyard champion defeated either Ad Wolgast, Cyclone Thompson or Fighting Dick Hyland before that time.

Nelson said he would sign for a 45 round battle before Coffroth's club at San Francisco, but that he had not decided whether he would demand ringside weight. Indicating that he would not place any obstacles in the way of completing the match, the Battler said:

"I will make McFarland a proposition that he can not turn down."

As a result of the Battler's announcement it is believed here that McFarland will now abandon his proposed trip to Europe.

HUMBLE RUNABOUT SPILLS DARING RACER

Chicago, July 21.—Barney Oldfield, the "speed eater," who has risked his neck in dozens of thrilling automobile rides, is suffering injuries today after falling a victim to a humble little runabout machine yesterday. Oldfield sustained contusions and lacerations, but none of his bones was broken, and the daredevil driver probably will be on his feet a few days.

Louis Strang, who has ridden to victory in close races many times was with Oldfield at the time of the accident. Both autoists were crossing a street when two machines from opposite directions bore down upon them. Strang jumped to safety, but Oldfield, in avoiding one automobile, jumped in the path of the other and was knocked down.

BIG AND LITTLE WRESTLERS WORK

Venable to Prelim With Buzukus—Charley Olson Will Be on Hand.

Jack Curley telephoned over from Seattle last night that he intended putting on Virgil Venable, former Pacific coast amateur champion, but lately turned a professional, with Peter Buzukus, the Greek wrestler, as a preliminary to the big Berg-Yousiff wrestling match in Exposition rink tomorrow night, thereby adding much to the interest in the battle between the big fellows.

Virgil Venable is very well known to Portland patrons of the sport. He was so much better than anybody of his class when an amateur that the professional field looked very inviting and he sought some of the money that the professionals get for their services instead of medals. Venable defeated Bozukus over in Seattle last week, but Bozukus complained that he was not feeling well when he went on the mat, and his condition helped to defeat him. Now he says he is in good trim and able to defeat any man of his weight on the Pacific coast. The Greek claims to hold the lightweight professional championship of California by defeating all comers at his weight. The match between Venable and Buzukus ought to prove almost as interesting as the main event, because of Venable's popularity in Portland as an amateur.

Berg interrupted his training work the other day long enough to hurry up to the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation and draw a lot for some of the land that will be opened by the government soon. Berg is a thrifty wrestler. He conducts his business on the lines of Mike Dwyer, who invested all his earnings at wrestling in the Michigan iron mines and is now worth several hundred thousand dollars. Berg took out his naturalization papers last winter, so he would not be hampered by the federal laws on the subject.

Big Ones in Fine Fettle.

Both Berg and Yousiff are in fine fettle for the match that will decide who is the better man. Yousiff admits he was taken by surprise in the third fall in their last match, but asserts he will not be caught napping again. The match was such a fierce one and the wrestlers were working so hard all the time that they made quite a hit with the fans. In fact, their hit was so decided that it resulted in their being rematched for tomorrow night.

Whatever else might be said of Berg it cannot be denied that he is about the most willing wrestler that has been in these parts for many moons, and there is always a general rejoicing when it is announced that he will go on the mat.

Charley Olson, the light heavyweight champion of the world, has also sent word that he is coming over from Seattle for the match and will challenge the winner for a bout to be held here or in Seattle. Olson has waded through all the men in his division, and there are only one or two of the heavier wrestlers who can throw him. Olson is one of the wrestlers who will be sent against the giant Zbysco, who is coming over this fall to meet Frank Gotch for the world's championship.

Joe Acton, the veteran, will referee the main and preliminary matches tomorrow night. Joe was kept so busy the last time trailing after the wrestlers that he was about as tired as they were when quitting time came.

Reports from the Schiller and Cadwell cigar stores, where the seats are on sale, indicate that the largest house in the brief history of local wrestling will be on hand to watch the men go through their paces at Exposition rink Thursday night.
