TOO HIGH, SAYS LACEY Prominent Lumberman, Heavily Interested on Pacific Coast, Expresses His Views on Taxation, Tariff

Revision and Future Prospects.

What Mr. Lacey Believes. Taxation entirely too high on timber lands in Oregon State should make substantial appropriation for forest fire protection.

Everybody should take lively interest in the matter of conservation of natural resources.

Duty of $2 per 1000 feet of lumber should be retained to keep capital from drifting over the border to the north.

Above are the views of James D. Lacey, one of the largest timber dealers in the world, and a large holder on the Pacific coast and in the south.

"Lumber is the chespest commodity in the market today, considering the cost of production and the value of the raw material," said James D. Lacer, millionaire timber dealer of 'Chicago, who is in Portland for a few days look-ing over his interests in the Pacific northwest.

"To remove or greatly reduce the tar-iff on lumber would be to inflict an in-calculable hardship on the most import-

I have been sick with stomach trouble, cramps and fainting spells for a long time. I came to Portiand for treatment. One doctor told me that he could cure me in about three months or one year, another said that I needed an operation. Finally I came to Young Ming Medicine Company, 247 Taylor St. After taking four doses of their wonderful remedies from herbs and roots, I am well and all right again.

MRS. EMMA ENYART, Fossil, Wheeler Co., Oregon ant industry on the Pacific coast, and divert large amounts of capital across the border. Not only would timber buyers place investments across the buyers of American machinery manufactures and supply houses. And they would take from the working men one of the main sources of employment, whatever injures the lumber industry buy everybody, from merchant down to farmer, is more or less dependent upon to the testion of the mills from Oregon to British Columbia would mean a tremulation among the masses. It is a more serious matter than is realized by the matter has not yet been definitely is thought in the medium of under the tariff as solution. The present lumber tariff of per thousand feet is very low, special taxation. The present lumber tariff of the per thousand feet is very low, special the tariff is reduced we suffer, and holders of foreign timber are ben-

Taxation Important Question.

Taxation Important Question.¹ "But a matter of deep importance also is the taxation of timber lands in this state," Mr. Lacey continued in a way that carried the greatest conviction, "and that should be taken up for con-sideration at once. Taxes on timber lands are too high in Oregon, and should be reduced, or it will have a tendency to tom now going on for conservation of our natural resources. Unjust taxes in-duce owners to log lands at the test in-timber man to out in places where he otherwise would swatt more suitable conditions." Beforestation and Conservation.

devastating work to go on continually," devastating work to go on continually." went on the speaker, "for they have come to realize that concerted action in this regard will be essential, and it will be taken by the government and the people. The government must do its part, and the public will do its. In view of this fact, I think there is little real cause for fear that in a few years comparatively speaking the forest lands will have been entirely denuded by the stalwart logger. But it will require the concerted action which now appears is being almed at. Reed Better Fire Protection.

Need Better Fire Protection.

"Another matter of the deepest im-portance to the timber industry is prop-er fire protection. Oregon as a state is not doing its share to safeguard the imnot doing its share to safeguard the im-mensely valuable bodies of timber with-in its borders. Fire is the greatest ele-ment of risk to the timber owner, and while of course he should carry a part of the burden himself, a substantial state appropriation should be made for having the timbered districts very close-ly guarded during the dangerous periods of the year. Sight should not be lost of the fact that every dollar's worth of timber destroyed means the loss of 80 cents worth of labor, as it would cost exactly that much to have that bit of wood manufactured into merchantable lumber. Considers Values Eigh.

Considers Values Migh.

Considers Values Eigh. "As to valuation of timber lands at this time, I think it has reached about all it will stand in many places, timber being higher proportionately than the value of lumber, and unless there is an increase in lumber values, stumpage values must go down instead of up. "The sawmill man has made no money for several years, notwithstand-ing popular rumors to the contrary. It seems that the public has become so fa-millar with the term lumber baron' and wealthy lumberman' that it is thought these people are simply coining money right and left. But I know differently. Profits have been very light in a good many instances. Of course, the man who bought stumpage for 25 cents where it is now worth $1.50 has made money by the enhanced valuation of his timber. But then he has had to carry it for some time, which meant not only

Reforestation and conservation are two topics upon which Mr. Lacey is per-maps as well posted as anyone in or out of the timber business. He is fully confirmed in the opinion that something must be done to prevent the waste of

Speaking of Portland, Mr. Lacey ex-pressed a surprise at the way the city has progressed since he was here last, and gave the same idea in regard to the whole state. He looks for a prosperous year throughout the continent, because crops look good in every locality through which he traveled coming west. He also looks for a rapid improve-ment in the demand for lumber which has been exceedingly spotted since the

ABSENT MINDED MAN FORGOT TO WEAR HIS PANTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) North Yakima, Wash., July 22.-Women everywhere may forget their expensive furs and even their bables and men in other cities may walk off absent mindedly without their hats, umbrellas, or canes, but it has remained for a man in a city with such a name as North Yakima to. actually forget his pants-and, to make it even worse, to forget his pants in which there was a wallet containing $170.

Jack Callahan, who lives at the Yakima hotel, returned from a horseback ride late Sunday evening. After a refreshing bath in the bathroom on his floor and not far from his sleeping room, Callahan left his trousers hanging near the bathtub. When he awoke early Monday morning the trousers he had worn the day before were missing and with them the wallet containing $170.

After an exciting hunt in which the hotel manager and the local police force took part, the $170 was found in the possession of one of the hotel clerks , who had seen the wallet sticking out of a pair of stray pants in a bathroom where any guest at . the hotel might have taken it. . The clerk got $10 for being . thoughtful and honest.

DIGNITY OF THROUGH STREET CAR CAUSES TRAFFIC DELAY

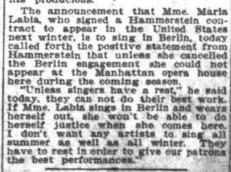

Differences in social caste and the question who shall be first and who shall go last, are not confined to the titled aristocracy alone. It is no un-usual thing for earls and counts, and more especially their wives, to have contentions over the right of priority, but who would have expected it of streetcar conductors and motormen? Since a single track has been laid on Eleventh street motormen must gauge their running time carefully or they will be forced to wait on the switch at Eleventh and Yamhill. Yesterday afternoon a Sunnyside car their running time carefully or they will be forced to wait on the switch at Eleventh and Yamhill. Yesterday afternoon a Sunnyside car that ends its course at Yamhill, was hitting off the notches on schedule time. It turned the corner of Morrison just in time to sight a Mount Tabor car whose course goes to Monigomery street, bearing down upon it. Both mot-ormen refused to stop and the cars met headon just past the opening of the switch. Neither could proceed without the other's backing up. The Mount Ta-bor conductor commanded the Sunny-side man to back up and let him on the switch to hasten down town. He not try to steal time again.

CIGARETTE LAW TO BE FOUGHT IN SUPREME COURT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., July 22. Nearly 100 cigarette amokers, who are grateful to Frank Neal for his action in carrying a test case on the Washington anticigarette law to the superior court, where it was declared unconstitutional by Judge M. L. Clifford, have subscribed to a fund to assist Neal in fighting the case in the supreme court, where it will be carried on appeal. A local cigar dealer has the list at his store and amounts ranging from $1 to $25 are being subscribed. The case is expected to come before the supreme court in September. In the meantime Pierce county has abandoned the enforcement of the law against the individual smoker, though the sale of the "pills" is still under the ban.
