Advance sales seem to insure financial success and those who have attended rehearsal are sure that it will be a clever, artistic and amusing performance throughout.

BALLOON PUTS OUT EAST SIDE LIGHTS

Captain Carlos Wilder, one of the balloonists who made an ascension from the Catholic Young Men's fair yesterday afternoon, came near meeting his death in the descent, and incidentally left several thousand east side homes without lights at about 8 o'clock last night. The near tragedy as well as the temporary inconvenience to householders was caused by the captain's parachute fouling a high power wire at East Sixth and Wasco streets.

Wilder had presence of mind to turn loose the parachute when he saw it had fouled wires, and in falling about 30 feet sustained a badly sprained ankle. He was at once removed to the fair grounds at Williams avenue and Stanton street, where his injury was attended to. It is not thought that he will be laid up more than a few days with the injured ankle.

The balloon was entirely successful, as he lit in an open space near Holladay school. Aside from the accident to Wilder's parachute, the balloon race was altogether successful. The ascension was made at 7:38 o'clock yesterday afternoon and both balloonists cut their parachutes loose, 10 minutes later. De Nova and Wilder are both pupils of Professor Frank Miller, the veteran coast balloonist and parachute jumper.

Within a still smaller calamity circle they're bound to drop with a terrible thud most any day now—but you wait and see! Real estate was never more healthy than it is today. With thousands of eastern people making their permanent homes in Portland every month, values are bound to go higher—do you doubt it? You won't need to do much long division to discover where your profit is coming from when you buy a lot at Westmoreland. Look into the matter—it's worth any man's attention.
