

FRIENDS GIVE UP ALVERSON SEARCH

Insane Ellensburg Lodge Man Thought to Have Perished in Mountains.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Ellensburg, Wash., July 27.—Today marks the sixth of W. T. Alverson's wanderings, and his friends, unable to secure the slightest trace of the demented man, even with the aid of six trained bloodhounds, are returning to this city. Except the sparse sustenance that he might have picked up in the forests of the Cascade mountains, Alverson has been 150 hours without food or shelter. He is believed to have perished.

A painstaking search of Natum canyon and its tributaries Saturday and Sunday proved futile. Friends of Alverson find a faint ray of hope in the story told by a couple of men who came over the mountains from Wenatchee yesterday. They said that when they were near the summit of the range they saw a man, hatless, coatless, and in his stocking feet, sneaking and crawling through the underbrush as if to escape detection.

Not knowing of Alverson they continued on their way without making an effort to intercept the man. Some hold the belief that the missing man may have made his way over the summit into the Wenatchee country and have found shelter in some rancher's cabin in the upper reaches of the creeks which flow into the Columbia.

Sheriff Ed Ferguson of Okanogan county has been notified of Alverson's disappearance, and with a posse of Wenatchee lodgemen he will today make a thorough search of the country on the other side of the divide. Men who were with the searchers say that the man seen yesterday could not have been Alverson.

Yesterday, Sheriff Crowley and Deputy German, who are directing the search, made another organized search over the country about the McLeland camp and the various water courses. Every thicket was carefully searched, creeks were followed to their source, every sheep trail was examined, but after hours of painstaking effort the searchers returned to camp and confessed themselves beaten.

Dogs belonging to T. M. Maxey and Deputy Sheriff E. H. Bean of Prosser, searched over the possible course of Alverson, but the keen nosed hounds did not have better success than the men. Yesterday, Crowley directed Maxey and Bean to return to this city.

Oregon Cherries Make Two St. Louis Tots Long For State

St. Louis Girls Prize Oregon Cherries.

Two little St. Louis girls, Misses Della and Lucy Lasar, are reveling in Oregon cherries and have written to tell The Journal about it.

Not only have they enjoyed eating the cherries, but they have decorated themselves with wreaths and bouquets of them as well. Their letter speaks for itself of their appreciation of Portland. It says:

"Dear Journal—So anxious for you to know there are two little girls, Della and Lucy Lasar, from St. Louis, Mo., who have been here visiting our aunt the past two weeks.

"We have enjoyed eating so many of the delicious cherries you have. I wish we lived here, the flowers are so beautiful.

"Enclosed is a picture of us which I hope you will find space for in your paper and can use it. If so please send a copy to our dear daddy, Ed F. Lasar, Wright building, St. Louis, Mo., and we may be able to coax him to buy us a little cherry farm where we can spend the summer. Our mother is with us. With many thanks for our happy visit.

"TWO HAPPY GIRLS,
"Della and Lucy Lasar, aged 12 and 17."

UTAH FUEL COMPANY LOSES COAL LANDS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, July 27.—Attorney General Wickersham announced yesterday that the Utah Fuel company, a subsidiary corporation of the Denver and Rio Grand railway, had settled pending government suits for recovery of illegally acquired lands by paying $73,000 cash and reconveying to the government 800 acres of coal lands, appraised at $40,000.

The attorney general stated that a rigid investigation would be made into the company's ownership of other lands.

TO TAKE INDIA FROM ENGLAND

(United Press Leased Wire.)
London, July 27.—Big British business interests are in panic today over the threatened boycott of English goods in India, even more than they are over the anti-British demonstration planned throughout the country August 7. If the boycott could be made permanently effective England might still be able to hold India, but it is doubtful if it would be worth holding. The country has wonderful resources of its own and enterprising German, French and Chinese firms are keen to break the English monopoly of trade there.

Native professors of the leading Indian colleges are publicly advocating the anti-British movement and are urging the people to join the boycott. Ait Singh, deported at the same time as the famous disturber Lala Lajpat Rai, and subsequently allowed to return, and Arabindo Chozo, another widely known anti-English agitator, are going through the country preaching passive but stubborn resistance to British authority. Sedition continues to spread. While the India office in London was at first disinclined to take the situation seriously, by the veiled threat by Sir Norman Baker, who recently told the Bengal council that if the Indians did not cooperate with the government there would still be a solution but neither a peaceful nor a painless one, has shown the government officials that Englishmen actually on the ground do not regard it lightly.

SOUVENIR HUNTERS DESECRATE THE GJOA

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, July 27.—Though the tiny ship Gjoa survived the icebergs of the Northwest passage under the able guidance of Captain Amundsen, when she made the first known voyage through the long sought for straits, the little vessel is being wrecked by the continual of curio hunters armed with knives. The ship, was hauled to its rest in Golden Gate park a week ago, a regiment of souvenir hunters has made a wholesale attack on the wooden sides. Huge pieces have been whittled away and now the police have been instructed to arrest those who desecrated the brave hulk.

To apprehend the culprits who have already defaced the craft, the police have copied the initials carved in the wood and all of those who can be traced will be charged with malicious mischief.

at the sanitarium say that her mental condition appears no better today than yesterday. She slept soundly part of the day and partook of some light food.

Judge L. P. Willis, who has applied to the county court for commitment to an institution for the insane, says that there is no question in his mind of the woman being mentally weak. He expects to have the matter some before the court in a few days. Arrangements will be made to place Mrs. Collins in a private sanitarium instead of allowing her to be sent to the state asylum.

"Of course, commitment of Mrs. Collins to an institution for the insane, would not formally release her from the charge of murder," Judge Willis said
