

WRIGHTS ARE NOT EMOTIONAL

Refuse to Be Awed by Army Officers and Are Indifferent to Honors.

By John E. Lathrop.
Washington, Aug. 6.—According to good authority, Orville and Wilbur Wright obtained extension of the time for their compliance with the airship contract only by appealing to Secretary of War Dickinson on the grounds that Fort Myer the last day of the contract period after they had failed to make successful flight.

It is related and with excellent foundation that Chief Signal Officer Arthur H. Wright, that unless they fulfilled the contract requirements before midnight, July 28, the government would reject their aeroplane. That night when 15,000 people journeyed from Washington to Fort Myer reinforced by hundreds from New York and other eastern cities, together with many world famed scientists. The aeroplane was brought from the shed, the engines cranked up, and the flight was about to begin, which was to result, if successful, in transferring to the government one of the Wright machines for $25,000 government money to the Wrights.

President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Speaker Cannon, Secretary of War, Secretary Dickinson, Postmaster General Hitchcock, and a host of men and women distinguished in politics, business, science and society were there, hovering in innumerable hordes.

The engines wouldn't work properly; so the machine was hauled back to the shed, and the crowd dismissed. The Wrights had been granted three days extension by Secretary Dickinson in person, who, according to report, overruled Allen.

Just why Allen had decided not to grant the extension may never be known. But it is believed that the difference of the Wrights to the formalities of the army; the manner in which they have treated the military men—operated to produce the officers against the airship inventors.

Both of the Wrights practice perfectly-maddening manners towards the army men, and the crowd dismissed. The Wrights had been granted three days extension by Secretary Dickinson in person, who, according to report, overruled Allen.

It is that so," said Orville with emphasis on the "so," said Wilbur, with emphasis on the "so."

And that was all the attention they paid to the matter.

It is alleged that certain attaches of the French embassy here faintly when told of the Wrights' indifference to the honors which they had been awarded as one of the highest honors possible of attainment in the world.

The story goes that like sang froid toward the army people offends them, and that they are not at all enamored of Chevalier Orville Wright and Chevalier Wilbur Wright in their role of don't care much for anything.

Dr. B. H. Evans of "brainstorm fame" was never recalled. He declared that Thaw never was a paranoiac. When Jerome took his mind to her cross-examination, he and Dr. Evans engaged in lively tiffs, in which the "inventor of the brainstorm" fared comparatively well.

At length the judge interrupted to ask if Thaw ever expressed to the witness more extreme beliefs than White's practices than he had admitted on the stand. Evans replied:

Only during my first three visits to him in the Tombs."

SUSPECTED OF MURDER

James Kelly Claims to Be Detective on Case and Is Arrested.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
San Jose, Cal., Aug. 6.—James Kelly, a painter, is in jail here and the police suspect he may know something of the murder of Manuel Garcia, the ranchman who was foully slain on his ranch near Livermore Wednesday.

Kelly was arrested for vagrancy yesterday. He talked continuously about the Livermore tragedy and professed to be a private detective working on the case. He was unable to produce credentials to prove his claim.

The theory of the police concerning Kelly is based on a description of one of the two men seen by John Gleason talking to Garcia shortly before he was killed. In addition to the arrest of Kelly, the authorities are following a clue implicating one of these two.

Search is being made for the man and Sheriff Veagh of Contra Costa county stated today that circumstantial evidence pointed strongly to the suspect they are trying to apprehend.

WOODMEN RALLY AT CAPITAL CITY

Parade of Three Thousand Choppers in Honor of Head Camp Officers.

(By Journal Leased Salem Wire.)
Salem, Or., Aug. 6.—A big rally is to be held by the Woodmen of the World in Salem this evening. The Salem lodge will entertain many prominent Woodmen including the Council, J. B. Cook, Head Manager John Pattison, James Steinhilber, F. M. Robinson and Snodgrass.

One hundred candidates will be initiated this evening after a monster parade in which about 3,000 Woodmen are expected to take part and after an open air service in Marion square. There will be visiting Woodmen in Salem from every part of the valley.

SQUIRREL RIFLE SHOT MAY BE FATAL

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Dallas, Or., Aug. 6.—Harry Krebs was critically injured by the discharge of a 22 calibre rifle yesterday and now lies at the point of death at his home in Falls City about eight miles west of Dallas. The bullet entered his left breast just below the heart, glanced on a rib and passing downward, was buried in the muscles of the back near the kidneys. The shooting was at first thought to be accidental but the report was later circulated that it was an attempt on the part of Krebs to commit suicide.

PLAINTIFF CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

Salem, Or., Aug. 6.—The railroad commission has fixed Monday, August 16, as the date upon which the matter of the alleged overcharges complained of by the Bridal Veil Lumber company against the Mount Hood railroad will be heard. The hearing will take place at Hood River at 11 o'clock.

The lumber company alleges that it is discriminated against for the reason that the railroad has given more attention to the wheat market than they are giving this year. First, they object to the increased storage charges which

FARMERS' REARMS AROUSED BY TRUST

Walla Walla Grain Growers Refuse to Pay Advanced Warehouse Charges and Threaten to Pile Grain in Fields.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, Wash., Aug. 6.—Declaring that they will not haul a sack of grain to the warehouses of the Pacific Coast Elevator company, the Puget Sound Warehouse company, and the other concerns that have declared the new storage rate for grain, the farmers of the Walla Walla valley will pile their grain in the fields rather than patronize the "robber" companies.

The trouble began some time ago, when the railroad commission announced that the warehouses should not charge more than 50 cents a ton for the handling and storage of grain for the first 30 days, and an additional 10 cents for each 30 days thereafter.

The former fixed 75 cents to the first of January. When the new maximum rate was announced, the warehouse companies at once went the limit, telling the farmers it was the rate fixed by law.

Attorneys declare that the commission has no right to fix the rate, or a maximum rate, but nevertheless the warehouses are charging the new rate.

Forso Farmers to Sell.
This new rate, farmers say, will have the effect of forcing them to sell their grain at the end of 30 days, thus aiding speculators to reap the harvest of a possible raise, as grain almost invariably goes up after the first harvest rush.

Most of the producers in this valley prefer to hold their grain until spring, as they claim they can get a much better price at that time. This has been amply proven in the past two years and of the outlook this year most of the farmers would rather hold their grain. This they cannot profitably do, they say, if warehouse rates are raised.

In speaking of the matter, W. D. Paul, secretary of the local farmers' union, said:

"The raise is without warrant of law or necessity. Fifty cents to the first of the year is enough. This union made 10 per cent on this rate last year, and 75 cents certainly ought to be enough. I will pile my grain in the fields until I can sell it. This can be easily and safely done."

May Try Piling Grain.
R. J. Tompkins, a well known Eureka Flat farmer, says piling the grain is the best solution where the farmers themselves do not own warehouses.

"The grain can be piled at a cost of 35 cents and it will keep without any danger whatsoever."

Grain is yielding well throughout the valley and it is said to say that while the crop will be no record breaker, it will be above the average. W. E. McKinney of Watsburg, has just finished harvesting 100 acres of barley that went 30 bushels to the acre. Incidentally he turned out 1280 sacks of barley in one day with a combined harrow, which is believed to be a record for this part of the country.

Another farmer's work was done in that vicinity by a stationary machine, which threshed 2283 sacks of barley. Ray brothers own this machine. Every-where quoted at San Francisco, Chicago and eastern markets.

Many of the farmers of this section are intending to cover their wheat in the fields and leave it there until the warehouse companies assume different attitudes.

LEWISTON OFF FOR THE FAIR

Special Train of Boosters Will Advertise Idaho City at Seattle.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Lewiston, Idaho, Aug. 6.—A special train containing six Pullmans left Lewiston Thursday evening at 6:30 bearing a crowd of representative citizens of the Clearwater country to Seattle, where tomorrow they expect to take part in the exercises celebrating Lewiston day.

The Alaska-Tukon-Pacific exposition, the exposition containing the information that the "Big Arrow" points the first inhabitants used in their hunting, and the boosters are out for big game in their publicity warpaint. The delegation will distribute 10,000 badges at the exposition, containing the information that the "Big Arrow" points the first inhabitants used in their hunting, and the boosters are out for big game in their publicity warpaint.

The train bearing the Lewiston boosters will be the first to go over the North Bank road from Riparia to Pasco, and expects to make the fastest time ever made between here and that city.

The Idaho representatives will be the guests of the exposition officials tomorrow at Seattle, and a general reception will be held late in the day at the Idaho building.

CANNON IGNORES WESTERN STATES

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Aug. 6.—Considerable comment has been made today on the fact that Speaker Cannon's new committee for the Sixty-first congress show that the states west of the Mississippi river get only 18 chairmanships out of 62.

They say are fixed either to force the farmer to sell early or force the farmer to buy the warehouses. In speaking of the matter today, Mr. Ferguson, one of the most influential farmers of the Umatilla reservation, said:

"If we allow them to force us to buy their warehouses, then they will buy our wheat in the Portland and Seattle markets and force us to take terminal rates."

In speaking further of what conditions, he said:

"We sit up here and allow about three men to meet in Portland every morning and tell us how much they will give us for wheat on that day, and as a rule the prices are not consistent with the prices quoted at San Francisco, Chicago and eastern markets."

Many of the farmers of this section are intending to cover their wheat in the fields and leave it there until the warehouse companies assume different attitudes.

KLAMATH-NATRON CONTRACT SUBLET

Construction Company Prepares for Active Work, Directing It From Eugene.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Aug. 6.—A. O. Watts of the Utah Construction company, which has the contract to build the first section of the Natron-Klamath extension of the Southern Pacific railroad, with the twelve sub-contractors, went over the route of the proposed line returned to Eugene yesterday. Each of the twelve sub-contractors was given a certain section of the line to build, and each was to have personal supervision of his division.

The longest tunnel on the whole line between Natron and Klamath Falls is on this contract. It is located at Hazel Dell, about 35 miles from Eugene, and will be 2300 feet long. It is estimated that it will take about a year to construct it. It is the third one toward the east, the other two being short.

Headquarters will soon be opened in Eugene, and 2000 men will arrive within the next two or three weeks to work on the road.

ALDRICH CROWDS LA FOLLETTE OUT

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Aug. 6.—One of the most dramatic instances of senatorial disapproval on record is claimed by La Follette's friends was witnessed yesterday, La Follette being the victim. Aldrich and La Follette had been assigned each five minutes for closing the debate. Aldrich began at 1:50, at which hour under the agreement the final vote must be taken. Aldrich continued to 2 o'clock, when Vice President Sherman called for the vote, calling out La Follette entirely. The progressives were white with rage.

At the last moment Bourne succeeded in cancelling his permanent pair, so he could vote on the tariff bill. He voted aye, Chamberlain voted no, his being the only adverse vote west of Kansas.

U'REN LOSES OUT AGAINST N. P. CO.

Salem, Or., Aug. 6.—An order was made by the railroad commission yesterday determining the complaint made by W. S. U'ren of Oregon City against the Northern Pacific Terminal company on account of alleged poor baggage service maintained at the union depot at Portland. The railroad commission found from the evidence submitted that not sufficient grounds existed for an order relating to a correction of the matters complained of by the Oregon City man.

HANNA HALTS MEDFORD'S SYSTEM

Circuit Judge Issues Injunction Restraining the City From Entering Hanley Premises With Water Pipes—Intense Feeling.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Medford, Or., Aug. 6.—Circuit Judge H. K. Hanna this morning issued a temporary injunction restraining the city of Medford from entering upon the Hanley premises on Little Butte creek.

The order was made upon the complaint and petition of M. F. Hanley, through his attorney A. E. Beanes, who alleges that the recent term of court held by Judge John S. Coke of the second judicial district, in which damages to the amount of $400 were awarded to Mr. Hanley was unconstitutional, that the order of Judge Coke calling the special term was not properly served upon Mr. Hanley. Judge Hanna required Mr. Hanley to file a bond of $10,000 and then issued the injunction.

The case will now await a hearing in the September term of court. It will probably be carried to the supreme court.

During the session held by Judge Coke the constitutionality of the special session was questioned, but he upheld the legality of the proceedings.

Feeling is intense in Medford. This is the fourth instance where Judge Hanna has ruled against the city. The delay in the building of the system is costly as it prevents the city from obtaining a revenue with which to meet the interest on the large bond issue which taxes the resources of the city to the utmost.
