Former Portlander Returns After Interesting Experiences.

Possessed by the wanderlust spirit which has borne him through an event-ful decade of life, C. H. Brown, formerly of this city and one of the most picturesque solders in the ranks of fortune, is spending a brief visit in Portland. He has just concluded a trip to the Seattle fair where he only remained one day before his unrest called him to new pastures. He will probably leave for San Francisco tomorrow on a lengthy journey to the orient in the transport service.

Brown is a young man still in the twenties and possesses considerable natural and acquired refinement and polish. He has served in the army and navy of Uncle Sam and has also managed to become identified with several inbroglios of South American republics as an officer. After being mustered out of the volunteers at the conclusion of considerable active service in the Philippines insurrection, he went to England on a tramp steamer and enlisted under King Edward's standard. Finding the piping times of peace too monotonous for his adventurous spirit he purchased his discharge and shipped on a vessel bound for the Mediterranean and Black seas. At Algers he found French troops with trouble on their hands and secured a probational commission.

In Egypt and Turkey.

Less than two months after his appointment by the French territorial government, Brown left for Alexandria, Egypt, where he again saw service as a civilian employe of the British troops. Thence he moved to Stamboul, Turkey, where nothing but his American citizenship saved him from dire punishment as a champion of the persecuted Armenians. At Crete he secured another army commission but arrived too late to see service and resigned in disgues after waiting several months for hostilities to open up.

Brown's next movement was a trip to Guatamala where he took part in guerrilla warfare as a teniente of rursles. He was caught by ladrones and held in captivity as g hostage for the return of insurgent prisoners, but escaped in almost nakedness.

Eight months of this life sufficed for him and he went to Manila, where he engaged in hemp and copra dealing until the Moros and Mindoro burnt him out during a series of battles with the native constabulary with which Brown was fighting.

Accuse United Railways of Failure to Carry Out Promises.

A delegation of citizens of Linnton called on the members of the county court this morning to ask that something be done to hasten action to put the road in repair through Linnton and north of that town. The road was torn up when the United Railways line was built, and ever since it has been in bad condition.

"You people have good cause for comdelegation of citizens of Linnton built, and ever since it has been in bad condition.

"You people have good cause for complaint," Judge Webster told the delegation. "The county court has urged the United Railways to do something to put the road in condition, and the railway officials have promised and promised, but done nothing.

"They have said that they could, not get the rock for macadamizing the road, and that is probably true, but the company could have done much to even up the road, fix up the crossings and remove rocks from the county road. I recognize that, and I have thought some of the plan of forcing the company to do something by tearing up their tracks, but I do not know that we have the right to tear up their tracks.

"Now, I can assure you that the county will take up the question of your roads without much further delay. Next week we expect to begin active operations at the new rock quarry, and then it is our intention to use the first material for roads where the most good can be done. I think you may have no apprehension that present conditions will last into next winter. It may be a few weeks yet, but as soon as possible the county will repair this road for you."

the county will repair this road for you."

The spokesman for the delegation gave the United Rallways several sharp prods, saying that the company has falled to do almost everything it promised. The company promised a 5 cent fare to Portland, but it was necessary to bring a suit in court that is now pending to enforce the promise. The company promised to give a stop in Linnton, and it was necessary to go to the state railroad commission to compel stops in the town. The company also promised to put the county road in the same condition existing before it was torn up, and failure to keep this promise has caused great inconvenience, loss of time to teamsters and trade to merchants.

WIDOW SEEKS MASON: OFFICERS HAVE HIM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., Aug. 18.—Arrested for swindling N. P. Strange, a wealthy farmer of Walla Walla, out of $2500, W. B. Mason now seems to face a breach of promise suit at the hands of Chicago widows mrs. Ella Weaver arrived from Chicago, Sunday, and after telling the story of her life to Chief of Police Gurdane, took the chief's advice and followed Mason to Walla Walla, where he is in fail.

lowed Mason to Walla Walla, where he is in jail.

According to the story she told Gurdane, the woman met Mason in Chicago last spring. While in Chicago he stayed at a rooming house conducted by her. He cultivated her friendship and after coming west he induced her to sell her rooming house and come out to become his wife. He was at Nampa. Idaho, when he wrote, but when she arrived in that town Mason had fied. The woman found a brother of Mason there, but he could give her no information as to the whereabouts of the man who was to make her his bride. Finally sho went to Portland in search of him and was there when she saw the article in the paper telling of the Walla Walla bunko case.

tenant Brown went to Japan and of fered his services in the mikade's army with the condition that he would not be expected to take arms against America or Great Britain. The honorable adventurer's offer was blandly turned down by the Japanese government who, in addition, made their hospitality so cordial as to almost suggest suspicion and the enterprising soldier of fortune had some difficulty in withdrawing with grace from the Flowery Kingdom.

Tropical at Formess.

Things were made even warmer for him when he tried to effect a landing at the island of Formosa a few weeks later, as the Japanese troops were having trouble with the tribesmen at the time. Nominally the guest of a high ranking army officer there, he was really a prisoner until the Japanese were satisfied that his intentions were not harmful to the mikado's policy.

From the orient Brown went to Barcelona, Spain, and subsequently engaged in iron mining in Bilbao. A rumor of insurrection in Brazil caused him to throw up his interests in Spain and he landed, almost broke, in Para to find things monotonously peaceful. He then shipped as a cook on a "windjammer," went to England where he served as a private detective, and recently returned to the United States.

Brown now frankly calls himself an adventurer and says he can't heip it. He is on the lookout for the thrills of stirring times in the field or at sea, and believes the ordinary repose of everyday life would kill him. Attired in serviceable field dress of a semi-army uniform style, with a large sombrero, and wearing two foreign decorations on the lapels of his coat, his appearance attracts attention on the street and, at the Winchester hotel he attracted so much notice that he changed his quarters today. Brown's visiting card bears the le-gend: "Lieutenant C. H. Brown, Adven-

Al Miaca Has Made People Laugh for 25 Years.

"We are celebrating our twenty-fifth year in the circus business this season, says Al Miaca. "Bw we, I mean the Ringling Brothers and myseif of course, it is true that the Ringling Brothers began as owners and proporticors, while I began as and an still a clown but that fact in no way alters the situation insofar as this jubilec year is concerned. It's also my silver anniversary, and when congratulations are being handed around please don't overlook 'yours truly.'

"Two been a clown for a quarter of a century, It's not so easy to make people laugh as it was once. All I had to do in the old time one ring circus was to get into the ring and look around. Every one laughed. Then a little line of talk—awful thin talk—was good for 20 minutes any time. But those days are gone. Now it is a queetion of being 'Johnny-on-the-spot' with new ideas every new moon. This being an satist is all right, of course, but asometimes I think Id rather be a plain. old fashioned clown.

"For a clown there's no living on his part reputation. If he tries it, he'll find he's a sure enough clown, all right of the course of the something more than mere actor—he's a creator. Tou see, he's in me. He thinks out a bit of play and then goes and does it.

"It's no cinch to be a good clown, and every clown can't be a clown. Lots of men break into the a bit of play and then goes and does it.

"It's no cinch to be a sood clown, and every clown can't be a clown. Lots of men break into the business for a little while and don't last. Sometimes they haven't the talent and sometimes they can't stand the life. The city men in particular don't like to play in two feet of mud, but old ring men like myself don't mind. It reminds us of old times when we were with the most sgiantle show on earth—one elephant, one clown and three cart horses."

A. P. Maney, Hawthorne terrace, Portland, Oregon, says: "My work subjects me to much folting and as a result my kidneys became disordered causing sharp, knife-like pains in my back. This trouble bothered me a great deal while working, and being desirous of ridding myself of the misery, I decided to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial, procuring a supply at the Laue-Davis company. I found quick relief from their use, and finally a complete cure. Although this was over three years ago, there has never been a return of the trouble since, clearly showing that when Doan's Kidney Pills cure, they cure permanently."
