The fire was so flerce that the fire department with its chemical engine hose and six foot stream of water, was powerless. The city hall, a block distant, caught fire from a flying spark, but watchful eves there and elsewhere saved further spreading of the flames. At the Port-land hotel, next to the Morrow store, there were narrow escapes from loss of life. One roomer, C. P. Wot Yet Decorsted. There was much comment here this evening because the king did not dec-orate Dr. Cook during the adulence. It is considered certain, however, that he will decorate the discoverer before he leaves Copenhagen. It was announced semi-officially that the reason the king did not decorate Cook this afternoon was that he was informed that Americans were opposed to decorations. It is not known wheth-er or not this was the work of jealous enemies of the American hero. The American legation at lunchen. In a brief speech he referred to the honor that had been bestowed upon him and of the crown prince coming out to meet the Hans Egede. Among other things Dr. Cook said: "I do not take the tribute of the Dan-ish people as a personal affair, alto-gether, but regard its warmth largely as a tribute to America." The injured were laid on rough rock ballast and the physicians administered relief by the light of lanterns. Dill and Wheatcroft were horribly crushed and death must have been in-

as a tribute to America."
