Woman Writes Book and Says Irishman Was First in America.

Boston, Sept. 11 .- Mrs. Marion Me-Murrough Mulhall, widow of the late Professor Michael G. Mulhall, whose fame as an Irish statistician was world-wide, has written a book which has ai-ready started animated discussion in lit-erary and scientific circles on both hem-

The title of the work is 'Explorers in a New World Before and After Columbus."

The purpose of Mrs. Mulhall's most exhaustive researches is to prove that Columbus had predecessors in the new world. The author contends that an Icelander named Ari Marson, who was the great grandson of Kiarrial (O'Carroll), king of Dublin, sailed to this western continent in the year 983, fully 500 years before Columbus made his voyage, and that his ship was wrecked on that part of the coast which is now the state of Florids.

Trishmen in Iceland.

Trishmen in Iceland.

In addition to this contention, Mrs. Mulhall holds that there is documentary proof that Iceland was visited by Christian missionaries from Ireland as early as 796, and that it was from Irish traditions of the discovery of America (then called Ireland-a-Mikla or Great Ireland) that Eric the Red, and later his son Lief were inspired to explore the western seas, resulting in Lief's discovery of Vinland (the present New England) about the year 1900, as alluded to by Irving in his "Life of Columbus," and other historians.

M. Rafn, in his "Antiquitates-Americanse." says that the people speaking the Irish language were found in Florida in the eighth century. Von Tschudi, the distinguished writer on "Peruvian Antiquities," says that the country along the Atlantic coast from Chesapeake bay to Florida was peopled by Irishmen centuries before Columbus.

Taking the evidence altogether, it would seem that the Irish had more on Columbus than Verrazzano has on Henry Hudson.

Writings of Unique Value.

Mrs. Mulhall appends to her work a somewhat detailed history of "The Rise and Fail of the Jesuit Missions of Paragusy," and includes a number of South American historical sketches, with stirring accounts of the various English, Irish and Hiberno-Spanish notabilities of that continent, from the sixteenth century onward. teenth century onward.

Her writings possess unique value, not only from the individual viewpoint of the author (a previous work of hera was devoted to tracing the Celtic sources of Dante's Divina Commedia), but also on account of the opportunities of many far and out of the way countries which she visited with her late husband. Modestly disclaiming all originality in her present work, Mrs. Mulhall refers scarchers after the same facts as she has found to the manuscripts of Edrisl, the fashous Arabian geographer, now preserved in the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris, and the Bodleian library at Oxford.

As an appendix to her remarkable

As an appendix to her remarkable book, Mrs. Mulhall tells a touching story of the Jesuit missions in America, which she describes "as a brief and accurate statement of one of the noblest and saddest episodes in the history of mankind."

Muzzle for Roosters.

Washington, Sept. 11. — The recent municipal edict which may spell the banishment of the insomnia producing rooster within Washington's city limits has aroused the inventive genius of a man who has devised a rooster music. His idea is to kill the crow, but save the rooster. This advocate of a noise-less chanticleer believes that if the authorities will sanction the use of the device, which consists of a simple collar of leather with a small cotton pad fastened around the rooster's neck sufficiently tight to throttle the vocal organ, both the community and the rooster can live in peace and quiet.

Population of Portland

The population of Portland today is upwards of 275,000.

New people are coming at the rate of more than 35,000 a year. In three years the population of Portland will exceed 400,000.

Seventy per cent of the people of Portland now live on the East side of the river. Building statistics of the city show that for the year 1908, of 3021 new residences built in the city, 2747 were erected on the East side, and only 274 on the West side.

For the first eight months of 1909, out of 1791 new residences erected, 1633 are on the East side, and only 158 on the West side.

In other words, there were ten times as many residences erected on the East side as on the West side, during both years.

These facts show the trend of the residence growth of the city.

The Addition with Character

Is located in the very center of the East side residence district, and by reason of its location, improvements and building restrictions, is the most desirable property in

Plans are being made to improve the streets of LAURELHURST, and a contract will be let within 10 days for laying ten miles of cement sidewalks, grading five miles of streets, laying 95,000 square yards of asphalt payment, and laying sewers, water and gas mains on all the streets improved.

This will be the largest single contract for street improvements ever let in Portland.

These improvements are made necessary immediately by the active demand for high-class, close-in residence lots. The erection of a large number of residences will be commenced as soon as the streets are opened.

Those who are buying in LAURELHURST are buying from one to six lots each, consequently less than 1000 homes will absorb the whole 442 acres.

If one in twenty of the new residents of Portland locate there, all of the lots will be sold in a very short time, and we expect to locate more than one in twenty.

There is a scarcity of such property as LAURELHURST in the city of Portland. and that scarcity will always exist, therefore those who are wise will investigate it at claim to be proficient in the treatment of all human allments. To attain the highest possible degree of proficiency in all departments of medical science would require half a dozen lifetimes of study and as many more of a practical experience. The regular practitioner is proficient in a large number of the commonest and most easily conquered ailments. The specialist must first become proficient for general practice and must then go on to proficiency in a few of those conions and allments more difficult to unde stand and more difficult to cure.

STOMACH CURE

I have been sick with stomach I have been sick with stomach trouble, cramps and fainting spells for a long time. I came to Fortland for treatment. One doctor told me that he could cure me in about three months or one year, another said that I needed an operation. Finally I came to Foung Ming Medicine Company, 247 Taylor St. After taking four domes of their wonderful remedies from herbs and roots I am well and all right again.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

A Patient Threatened With Paralysis Says: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many

I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my trouble. My back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first class physicians, were an electric belt for three months, went to Hot Springs for baths, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Oregon Medical Institute Specialists, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New System Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."
