

MARSHAL HENKEL HABEAS CORPUS MADDUX CASE

Linton Road Tragedy Comes Before Judge Bronaugh.

Judge Bronaugh will determine this afternoon whether Mrs. Hazel Maddux and Frank E. Rodman, in jail charged with having run down and killed Mrs. May Deal on the Linton road on the morning of August 1, shall go free or remain in jail.

This morning the two prisoners were brought into court at the time set for the argument of the petition for the writ of habeas corpus filed by George W. Caldwell, their attorney. Instead of making the argument, however, Mr. Caldwell asked for an extension of time until 1:30 this afternoon in which to file a reply to the answer of the sheriff. This extension was granted and the prisoners were taken back to the jail to wait for the argument this afternoon.

Attorney Caldwell will argue this afternoon that the two prisoners are held in jail without warrant of law. He will set up the contention that they were arrested and thrown into jail in violation of the grand jury without legal formality and held there until the present. The so-called warrant, so Mr. Caldwell will contend, was not served until day before yesterday, and therefore antedates the arrest of the prisoners and their detention.

Other than the habeas corpus proceedings there seems to be no new developments in the Real-Maddux case. The grand jury has issued subpoenas for a number of the police and detective force, including Chief of Police Cox, but it is not known whether these witnesses have anything to do with the Real case or whether their evidence is desired for some other matter under consideration.

It is said now that there will be no indictment returned in the case during the day, which leads to the belief that the Real case is temporarily being held in abeyance. It is believed, however, that indictments will be returned before the end of the week.

Mrs. Maddux, when brought into court this morning, was very nervous and fidgeted around in her chair, plainly showing the strain under which she was laboring. During the time she was in the court room her husband attempted to converse with her, but was restrained by the sheriff. Later Judge Bronaugh allowed Maddux to hold conference with his wife.

Rodman, on the other hand, displayed no signs of nervousness and calmly through the session of the court.

OXNARD FOREST FIRE REACHES OIL WELLS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Oxnard, Sept. 15.—Two forest fires that have been raging in the mountains near here, met early today on the crest of the Balcombe grade and are sweeping down the Balcombe canyon. The scores of fire fighters, weary from their exertions of the last three days, have been rushed to the new danger zone and are making an apparently futile stand against the advance of the flames.

The Bardale oil wells, property of the Union Oil company, which lay directly in the path of the flames, are burning, according to reports brought to this city by couriers, who were sent for more fire fighters.

Several men, when fighting the fire, were overcome by the heat and exhaustion and were brought here from the Oxnard region today for medical attention. They stated that the fighters were making headway against the flames and conditions were much improved.

The ranch homes of Miles Balcombe and R. Shipley have been destroyed.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 15.—Forest fires that have been raging near Bacon, Idaho and Desha, San Diego county, since early yesterday, are reported today to be controlled. Several square miles have been swept. The fire that has followed the banks of the Sweetwater river has been turned and the fighters believe the danger in that section is passed.

OLD MARS SETS GAZERS FIGHTING

Question of Habitability Embroids Schools of Theorists.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Jose, Cal., Sept. 15.—A wordy war among astronomers relative to the question whether or not the planet Mars is inhabited is expected to begin shortly, following the announcement of Director W. W. Campbell of the Lick Observatory that the planet Mars lacks water vapor and other atmospheric constituents necessary to sustain life.

Recently Campbell headed a party which made a number of observations from the summit of Mount Whitney, where the water vapor of the earth were reduced to nil. There, according to their observations of the distant sphere, its atmosphere is diametrically opposite to the atmosphere accredited to it by astronomer Sillpher, who studied the globe from Flagstaff.

As a result of Campbell's complete overthrow of the time honored theories regarding the probable habitability of Mars, the group of scientists siding with Lowell and Sillpher, and the believers in the canals, are expected to question the deductions of Campbell and his colleagues and attempt to support their own views.

GUS CARLSON'S WIFE ACCUSED

Inquest Casts Doubt Upon Her Story of the Two Robbers.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Nanaimo, B. C., Sept. 15.—As a result of the inquest into the death of Gus Carlson, who was brutally murdered in his own home Monday night, supposedly by burglars, his wife is in jail charged with perpetrating the crime.

On the witness stand the woman never altered her version of the tragedy nor became confused even when subjected to a merciless cross examination. The police produced three pillow slips, two of which were badly splashed with blood.

The medical evidence had revealed that Carlson's skull was fractured and the theory is that he was struck in bed, that the rope was wound around his neck and that he was dragged into the room where his body was found.

The appearance of the room and the position of the body, together with the discovery of the bloody pillow slips, all strengthen the theory that Carlson was first rendered insensible and afterward dragged to where his body was found.

Late Monday neighbors were attracted to the Carlson cottage by the screams of Mrs. Carlson, who was found tied to her bed. She declared her husband had arisen to investigate a noise in another room and shortly thereafter two men had entered her bedroom and after robbing her of all the money in the house had bound and gagged her. She succeeded in removing the gag soon after the alleged robbers departed, she claimed, and had then called for assistance. Her husband's body was found in an adjoining room with a rope about the neck.

USED TELEPHONE AS A BEDSTEAD

N. H. Fuller, a laborer, imbibed last night and finally ended the revel by going to sleep leaning against a telephone pole at the corner of Second and Burnside streets.

He had been dozing about 15 minutes when Patrolman Small appeared on the scene. Small, raised one of the man's feet and tickled it with his night stick.

"Get out of my room!" roared Fuller, awakening and slinging a savage kick at the officer. "I ain't a-go'in' to get up until 7 o'clock."

The officer asked him where he thought he was. "Why," said Fuller, "I'm in a room at the Portland hotel."

Fuller then turned on a stream of profanity and abuse. He was fined $10 by Municipal Judge Frank S. Bennett today.

Asher Accused of Larceny.

Arrested on a charge of larceny, M. L. Asher, proprietor of a loan office at the corner of First and Main streets, will be arraigned in municipal court Saturday. He is at large on $150 bail.

Asher was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Louise Schaner, who lives on Carson Heights. Alleging that she left her watch at Asher's loan office several days ago to be repaired, she asserts that she found the watch in a man's pocket when she returned to her home. When she demanded reimbursement, Asher says the woman asked too much for the watch.
