MURDERS BROTHER; FACES PRISON TERM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Wash., Sept. 25.—John Fortier, on trial for murder of his brother Michael last May, was found guilty of murder in the second degree this afternoon. The jury deliberated for hours. Fortier's attorneys gave notice of an appeal. They used the insanity plea in their fight to save Fortier from the gallows. George F. Van Derveer, the prosecuting attorney, announced after the verdict had been read that he would file an information against Fortier charging him with the murder of his brother's wife, Mrs. Marie Fortier. Fortier is alleged to have shot his brother, stole a team of horses by forcing a small boy to turn them over to him at the point of a gun, then driving to the Fortiers' home, where he called Mrs. Fortier to the door and shot her. She died within a few days.

TAXICABBIES QUARREL; SKULL IS FRACTURED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Wash., Sept. 25.—Because he took his comrade to the hospital, a taxicab driver was arrested by the police, H. H. Fisher, a driver of the Seattle Taxicab company, was struck on the head with a heavy monkey wrench wielded by Louis Stabler, another driver, in the garage at 1403 Broadway. Fisher's skull was fractured. He was taken to the Seattle General hospital. Immediately after the assault Stabler was discharged from the employ of the taxicab company. He is now a fugitive. Both Fisher and Stabler had been arrested for violating the ordinance governing automobile traffic. At the garage Fisher complained that Stabler was raising a racket by driving taxicabs and was raising a racket against taxicab drivers. The argument raged until Stabler hit Fisher with the heavy monkey wrench.

BUILD POWER PLANTS ALONG LINK RIVER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Klamath Falls, Or., Sept. 25.—It is the intention of the reclamation service to make preliminary arrangements for the establishment of power plants along Link river. The government already owns one site on the west side of the river and an option has been taken on another site on the east side. The water for the latter will be taken from the old Ankeny canal which passes through the city and which was recently declared a nuisance by health officers. The power to be created will be used in operating pumping stations in connection with the Klamath reclamation project. The complete drainage of the marsh diked by the railroad grade will be accomplished by pumping. This would reclaim about 40,000 acres of rich land within a very few years.

DEATH OF BABIES

Manuel Hallack Makes Startling Charges in Divorce Action.

Charges that a cruel, neglectful mother left cups of concentrated lye and carbolic acid where her children could reach them and that two children lost their lives by drinking the contents of the cups are charged in affidavits filed in the circuit court by Manuel Hallack to support his refusal to pay alimony to Cora D. Hallack, whom he is suing for divorce. Hallack alleges that a third child has been possibly permanently injured by the treatment of its mother. He is now taking care of the child, hiring a nurse with money borrowed from his brother, he says. He obtained a restraining order a few days ago to prevent Mrs. Hallack from kidnapping the child, as she attempted to do one night last week.

Telling the story of the other children, Hallack says that his wife placed Chester, 2 years old, on a high chair near a table one day last March. The child reached a cup of concentrated lye and drank it, dying afterward in great agony. The body of the child is alleged to have survived up until its limbs were no larger than a silver dollar. The other child, Violet Hallack, is alleged to have died from drinking carbolic acid placed on the sink where the children were accustomed to drink.

Hallack imputes to his wife a desire that the children might die, alleging that she once told him, "I will not raise any children for you, at the same time calling him a vile name. Hallack says his wife works in a restaurant and he has brought her the divorce suit, he says, and unable to pay the $100 that she has demanded as money.

Mrs. L. Baldwin, who is nursing the surviving child, has made an affidavit supporting Hallack's charges against his wife. Mrs. Baldwin says that when Mrs. Hallack came to the house and tried to steal the child, she pretended to be very friendly until the little one was in her arms. The resulting commotion brought 100 people to the place at midnight when the nurse again took charge of the child, she says, she found that the inhuman mother had pinched it until it was black and blue.

MOTTOES ON COINS NOT AUTHORIZED

While the coinage of money is one among the essential features of this government and the finished product in circulation comes within the possession at one time or another of every citizen, there is less known of its history of the coin than any work done by the government or any necessity used by the people. Especially is this true in the case of the gold coins. A Portlander who has given considerable study to numismatics is D. A. Browne, 814 Savier street, who has the following to say upon curiosities in coin:

Of coins of the tenth century I might state there are very few people who know much about them. There are many curious facts about an early coinage which is very little known outside of numismatic circles. For instance, how many know that the words "E Pluribus Unum" which have appeared on various United States coins and are on the standard silver dollar and the nickel 5 cent piece of today were never authorized by law to be so placed. Very few, no doubt, know that the later motto, "In God We Trust," which appears on all the minor coins was likewise originally stamped on them without the sanction of the government. The motto "E Pluribus Unum" first appeared on an American coin in 1786. There was no motto on any of the United States. The constitution forming the union not having as yet been adopted. There was a private mint at Newbury, N. J., and "E Pluribus Unum" was first placed on a copper coin struck at that mint. Very few collections have specimens of this coin. It is very valuable.

In 1787 a New York goldsmith coined a piece of money which was known as the sixteen dollar gold piece and upon it the motto was stamped in this form, "Unum E Pluribus." Only four of these coins are known to be in existence. They are valued at more than $2000 each. New Jersey issued various copper coins in 1787 with the motto stamped upon them. A great many of our early coins bear the words "E Pluribus Unum." The U. S. mint was established in 1792 but the use of the motto on any of the gold, silver or copper coins was not authorized or directed by any of the provisions of the act establishing it. The motto remained on our early gold and silver coins until 1834 when it was omitted from the gold coins. In 1836 it was omitted from the 25 cent piece and in 1837 from all silver coins. It was not stamped on any coin again until it appeared on the nickel and the standard silver dollar.

The words "In God We Trust" were first placed on the 2 cent piece which came into our subsidiary coinage in 1864 but is now longer part of the design. The motto was placed there by direction of James Pollock, then director of the mint at Philadelphia, and not by any legislation of congress authorizing the minting of the 2 cent piece. The motto was subsequently stamped on our silver half and quarter dollar, the mint thus boldly declaring the theological status of the country regardless of the constitutional attitude on the subject.

AN INCIDENTAL SWAP

Overcoats for Watch, Watch Traded for Other Time Piece and Money. An incident of Yankee sagacity and business acumen was revealed by a young man apparently devoid of haste one day during the past week. This young man possessed two partially worn out overcoats. The second hand dealers offered practically nothing for the garments. A word ad in the "swap" columns of The Journal was suggested with offers of various articles in exchange for his two garments. The most acceptable offer was a "swap" which, after an examination was taken in trade for the two overcoats. Having met with success in his first swap, the trader got the "swap" habit. He advertised the watch asking for trade offers. As a result of the swap trade he was the possessor of $5 in gold and an open face watch of the same manufacture. This young man is still trading the swap books to several people unless you care to. The swap ad is at your disposal at The Journal office.

PORTLAND GIRL'S VOICE WINS PLAUDITS IN THE OLD WORLD

Mrs. Edith Hareke is another Portlander who has won distinction in the music field and has returned to Portland with a measure of success crowning her efforts. Mrs. Hareke was Miss Clarke, a daughter of Mrs. Bessie Clarke and a sister of Clark Bros., florists. She has been visiting with her mother for a few weeks and will leave tomorrow for New York where she will sing in concert under the management of M. H. Hanson who manages the tours of a number of big artists. In March she will sail for Germany to fill an engagement in grand opera. As Miss Clarke, the soprano lived in Portland many years ago. For the past five years she has studied in Berlin under the famous teacher, Georg Leder, who bears the honorary title of kammersänger. Herr Leder was for 13 years dramatic tenor in the opera at Leipzig and has been one of the leading instructors in Germany for years. He commends his pupil's voice highly. Mrs. Hareke has a soprano voice which by the critics is pronounced rich, pure and high. She has a large repertoire, embracing 17 roles, from the leading operas, and most of the standard oratorios and songs from the classic and modern composers. She is said to combine voice, method, style, intellect and personal charm, and she has exceedingly flattering press notices from leading papers in Germany and in New York. She also bears the indorsements of many prominent musicians and critics. It is a matter of regret that her time did not permit her to give a concert in Portland before leaving. Through-out her concert work she is accompanied by Henry Hareke.
