

ADMIRALS ARE SHOWN THE CITY

Battleship Officers Entertained at Portola Festival—Big Social Event Tonight—Everyone Has Carnival Spirit.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Oct. 20.—The officers of the various battleships in attendance at the Portola festival today on a sightseeing trip about the city in automobiles. After passing through the decorated downtown streets, where they were cheered by the crowds, the visitors were taken to Union Square, where they were greeted by a children's chorus of 6000 voices, under the leadership of Miss Estelle Carpenter.

This afternoon the visitors were given a reception by the merchants of the city at the Merchants Exchange building. The entertained men of the warships will be given a smoker, and entertainment at Dreamland rink tonight.

Grand Ball Tonight.
The big social event of the celebration will take place at the Fairmont hotel tonight, when the grand ball in honor of Queen Virginia and Don Caspar de Portola will be held. It is expected that the ball will be one of the most brilliant social affairs ever held in the west. Most elaborate preparations have been made for it, and the "upper tennor" will have this special opportunity of greeting the carnival rulers. The ball includes supper, to be served in the Norman court of the big hotel. The invitations have been in great demand. The charge is $10 for men and $5 for women.

Everyone Has Carnival Spirit.
The manner in which the festival started yesterday and the enthusiasm with which the city and the throngs of visitors entered into the carnival spirit last night have surpassed the expectations of the committee in charge.

Market street and the whole reconstructed business section, where the festival is centered, were packed with people until long after midnight. With the illuminations and fireworks, and the general acceptance of the decree banishing all serious matters, the town simply threw itself into the celebration, and San Francisco never saw such a night of celebration, even in the palmist days of the "old town."

Many Athletic Events.
In addition to the set entertainments and the official affairs, many athletic events round out the program of each day's events. Today there are golf, tennis and swimming contests. Just to keep the late crowds amused the committee have arranged for midnight tight wire walking exhibitions to be given at a central point on Market street.

Tomorrow morning the big "Portola parade," to be composed of elaborate, emblematical floats, will be a big feature.

PORTOLA EULOGIUM RISES FROM BANQUET BOARD IN NEW YORK

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Oct. 20.—California and well-wishers of San Francisco, 400 strong, gathered around the festival board at the Waldorf-Astoria last night and mingled their toasts and cheers with those that rang around the world yesterday in honor of Don Gaspar de Portola's discovery of San Francisco bay and of the rehabilitation of the metropolis of the Pacific coast.

Entwined around the American flag in the banquet hall were the Portola colors, while the native Californian and the typical New Yorker joined in an ovation to the plucky and never say die spirit manifested by the citizens of San Francisco in building a more beautiful city.

California wines, California nuts and California raisins were on the menu, while the great seals of California and of the city of San Francisco were emblazoned on the souvenirs.

New York city was officially represented at the celebration by President sent at the celebration by President Patrick McGowan at the board of admirals. In a speech filled with eulogism he voiced the appreciation of the east for the great triumph of San Francisco in the west.

John McNaught, formerly engaged in newspaper work, acted as toastmaster. At the speakers' table were Paul Morton and Mrs. Morton, Patrick F. McGowan and Mrs. McGowan, John S. Partridge, Joseph Grismer and Mrs. Grismer, Ogden Mills, Calvin B. Brown, Don C. Zeitz and Mrs. Zeitz and Mrs. Varian.

The end of the dinner was the signal for an outburst of cheers for San Francisco, and the speechmaking started. The opening remarks of Toastmaster McNaught aroused the highest enthusiasm, as did the eulogies of the other speakers.

NEW YORK FIGHT

recting this exertion of pressure would be Mr. Roosevelt.

If the Plan Should Win.
Underneath all of this municipal politics with national bearing is the new always present problem of the future of Mr. Roosevelt's action when he returns. It is apparent to the least instructed that Tammany's defeat would be the complete demonstration of Mr. Roosevelt's continued control of the New York state Republican organization. It would throw the Tammany influence into eclipse, throw into disorder the Cannon machine throughout the country, throw into ill political repute the allies of Cannon in the New York state Republican ranks, and throw upon the screen of national politics the outlines of a figure well known to every human being throughout the civilized world—Theodore Roosevelt.

Taft Deceived.
Still further interest is given to the city campaign by the intimation that President Taft was deceived as to the real situation, and that he was induced to publish his letter endorsing Mr. Bannard without being informed as to the possibility that the Cannon-Parkinson deal last February and March would be brought into the fight, and that it would be claimed on good authority that there had been a deal the other way, which was the subject of the deal.

The friends of the president assert that had he been told the true situation he would not have given out his endorsement of Bannard, and thus would have avoided being drawn innocently into that controversy, so serious in its national bearings.

Fight Upon Cannon Renewed.
The word that comes to the national capital from all parts of the country is that the disclosures of Herbert Parkinson of the Cannon-Tammany deal for the upholding of the house rules are revolutionizing the entire political situation, and that it presages some radical changes in the next house. Many Republican members are known to be preparing to throw over Speaker Cannon, and that in many districts failure to do that would inevitably mean defeat for present members.

A careful review of the American newspaper press discloses that probably more than 80 per cent of the papers are saying editorially that they believe Congressman Parkinson's charges.

This is taken to mean that candidates for reelection will simply have to declare against Cannon or meet defeat, and that their anti-Cannon pledges will have to be made in writing, and so plain that they cannot be repudiated later, as was done by some members of the present house who while candidates, had said they would not support Cannon.

magazine articles. As a result of this, she stated the Mexican government is determined upon revenge.

De Lara is confined in the Los Angeles county jail as a federal prisoner. A representative of the United Press was denied permission to interview the prisoner, on the ground that such permission would have to be secured through the channels of the immigration department at Washington, from which the orders for the arrest of De Lara came.

A request for this permission was denied by the immigration officials on the ground of "possible international complications."

According to Mrs. De Lara, her husband accompanied Turner on a long tour through Mexico, pointing out to him the wrongs for which he held the Diaz administration responsible. De Lara completed the trip in disguise and was not recognized in the Mexican republic.

MISSING BOOK MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

when the Order of Washington had a large debt due the bank. Insurance Commissioner Shively of Washington said the insurance company of Idaho passed upon the status of the organization and recommended that it join hands with the National Indemnity Company of Chicago.

According to this recommendation made by the two insurance commissioners, the Order of Washington was taken over by the National Indemnity company and Mitchell took the books to that city where they were turned over to the indemnity company. Mitchell went with the books and is now working for the indemnity company.

At the present time the Order of Washington is maintaining a branch office in the Mitchell building, O. N. Ford of Arleta is the state agent of the National Indemnity company and now has agents out over the state, while dues in the Order of Washington are being received at the branch office at the Marquam building.

Morris Was Director.
At the time Mitchell took the books and went to Chicago, N. A. McPherson, former head of the Order of Lions, went with him and aided in the consummation of the deal. The board of directors of the Order of Washington was composed of W. W. Terry, president; J. L. Mitchell, vice president; W. C. Morris, treasurer; and Dr. Tilzer, supreme medical examiner.

The grand jury is still digging into the Order of Washington matter and expects to put a day more at the work before it will have mastered all of the ins and outs of the transaction.

Following the investigation into the connection between the business of the bank and the Order of Washington, the grand jury will take up the consideration of the Pacific & Eastern Railroad deal and various other phases of the bank's transactions.

It is the intention of the grand jury to call all persons who might know of the subject of the bank before it for explanations of the manner in which the business of the institution was conducted.

None of the directors will be examined at the time, as the state does not desire to void the action through allowing the

MRS. MORRIS IS CRITICALLY ILL

Prominent Woman Suffers From Paralytic Stroke.

Mrs. B. Wistar Morris is critically ill at her home on Flanders street, and at last reports she was not expected to last through the day. She suffered from a paralytic stroke Monday about midnight while she was in bed, and has not since regained consciousness. Dr. Holtz, C. Wilson is her physician and has been in constant attendance, but he extends no hope.

Mrs. Morris is the widow of Bishop Morris, who passed away three years ago last spring. She will be 55 years old December 30, and Dr. Wilson said the stroke was merely a result of her extreme age, although she has been subject to slight heart trouble all her life. Mrs. Morris was Miss Hannah Rodney, and she buried her sister, Miss Clementine Rodney, last week. Her friends believe that the death of her sister was a great shock to her, though she is a woman of wonderful self-control, and suppressed her feelings throughout the death and burial. However, she showed signs of physical exhaustion after the funeral.

Paying Teller Heard.
Lloyd Smith, who was a former paying teller of the bank, was before the grand jury the greater part of the morning, and told of the violation of the by-laws providing for the savings department. These provisions stated that the funds deposited in this department were to be loaned only upon first class municipal securities, or first class mortgages on realty, and that no money deposited for this cause should be used otherwise. This was held out to the depositor as a sure place to place his savings, and that he was assured that the deposits would not go to any scheme or investment but the best.

In recounting the way this department was handled, Smith stated that the funds of the savings department were not segregated from the other funds of the bank, and that money and checks were drawn upon the department without regard to the by-laws, and that a general violation of them was never considered or given any thought. In fact the exact amount in this fund could not be determined at times, as it was all mixed with the other funds of the bank.

In this reckless and slipshod manner the funds of the savings department, it is alleged, were used promiscuously and without regard to the depositor. It is estimated that fully $50,000 was checked against this department, and that amount drawn from the small savings of depositors.

HINDU POLYGAMISTS DENIED ADMISSION

(United Press Leased Wire.) Seattle, Oct. 20.—Because several of them expressed a belief in polygamy, and because they also were not properly equipped financially, nine Hindus of a party of 11 who arrived here on the steamer Shinano Maru have been refused admission to the United States by the local immigration authorities. The other two were admitted. This is the second lot of East Indians who have been turned back recently as a result of their professions that they considered two or three wives preferable to one.

The nine brown men who have just been refused permission to enter the United States have the privilege of appealing to the secretary of the department at Washington, D. C., and it is said they all intend to do so. They will be detained here until the result of this appeal is made known.

THOS. E. CLARK

The Wireless Wizard.

Thomas E. Clark, the Wireless Wizard, of Detroit, Mich., whom Thomas A. Edison predicts is the coming factor in the electrical world, has developed a system of wireless telegraphy which stands in a class by itself, in the wireless field.

The Clark Wireless is the only successful, long distance, overland, commercial wireless telegraph in the world. The Clark Wireless Telegraph telephone company has ordered ten 25 kilowatt high-power wireless stations to be installed in Portland, Astoria, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., Spokane, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other important Pacific Coast cities. These stations will be 134 times more powerful than a number of wireless stations now built on the coast.

The equipment for the Portland station is nearly completed and will be shipped from Detroit, Mich., in a few days.

The Wireless Wizard will be here to personally superintend the installation of this superb system. These stations are expected to have a range of 500 to 1000 miles any hour of the day or night, and will be manned by three operators each, working an eight-hour shift. The busiest part of the day will be in charge of a chief operator. Messages will be sent to any of the large coast and inland cities at reduced rates.

Clark calls the Portland station his "Missouri," and he'll be here to do the showing. The Clark Wireless Company is now offering their first block of 10,000 shares of fully paid, non-assessable stock at $1 per share. A similar amount of stock will be offered for the Seattle station at $1 per share, and for the San Francisco station at $1.50. Remember this is stock in the parent company.

The Clark Company recognizes no competitors and expects to be in full control of the wireless business on the Pacific Coast, as soon as their high-power stations are completed. For further information call 411-101-1-2 Oregon bldg., Portland, Or.

OREGON SUPREME COURT OPINIONS

(State Bureau of the Journal.) Salem, Or., Oct. 20.—Opinions were announced as follows by the supreme court yesterday:

Peter O'Sullivan, appellant, vs. J. M. Blakely, respondent, appealed from the circuit court for Union county, William Smith, judge; reversed in an opinion written by Chief Justice Moore.

In the matter of the habeas corpus of Joseph Lester Barnes, James R. Barnes, appellant, vs. Cora Long, respondent, appealed from the circuit court for Union county, J. W. Knowles, judge; reversed and remanded in an opinion by Justice Eakin.

COOS COUNTY SHERIFF LOSES HIS PRISONER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Oct. 20.—Sheriff Gage of Coos county, who was here yesterday, lost a prisoner at Kamela. The sheriff was en route home over the O. R. & N. with C. M. Neal. Gage was allowing Neal a little freedom, feeling that he would not run away. At Kamela Neal slipped from the train just as it was pulling out. Sheriff Gage stopped off, taking up the search for the missing prisoner.

MILK TESTS MADE WITH ALL CARE

tions and then making untrue statements relating to the same after a report had been received.

Dr. Wheeler, state health officer, said this morning that the samples of milk alluded to by Dairy Commissioner Bailey were not brought to his office, nor did he know anything about them until Dr. Matson had reported the results to him, but that he was personally prepared to vouch for the accuracy of the work done by Dr. Matson and for his sincerity of purpose.

DR. WHEELER SAYS DAIRIES MUST BE LICENSED AT ONCE

"I want every dairy in the city limits that has no license to be closed; I want every unclean dairy to be closed until clean; I have given instructions to this end, with further instructions that no cases pending in court, no counsel of the city attorney for delay until cases have no jurisdiction outside the city, and pending in courts are adjusted, no element whatsoever, shall hinder the effective carrying out of an aggressive policy."

Dr. Wheeler, city health officer, in making this statement this morning defined his present attitude of interest and activity in the campaign to make Portland's milk clean. He added that he is thoroughly in accord with a recent announcement of Mayor Simon that Portland is in a state of campaign until dairies are regulated.

"I have been thoroughly in earnest in every statement I have made relative to the regulation of the milk supply in Portland," said Dr. Wheeler. "I must, of course, carry out this policy through the city milk inspector and the inspector has instructions not to allow the sale of milk from an unlicensed dairy. I want to keep hard after the dairymen, lifting them steadily up, making their own condition better, their product safe."

"As health officer I have assumed responsibility for the condition of the dairies within the city limits. You will find that all dairies closed for filthy conditions are within the city limits. I have no jurisdiction outside the city, and have compacted with Commissioner Bailey that while I attend to dairies inside the corporate boundaries of Portland he give as effective attention to those without. I hope the commissioner will do this, for it is assuredly a necessary service to get this bad milk supply cleaned up."

Dr. Wheeler stated that he had given the instructions referred to several days ago, but that the city attorney had counseled the milk inspector not to make more arrests until the cases pending in the courts had been adjusted. For this reason prosecutions have not followed his instructions, he says, although he wishes regulation to proceed and prosecutions to pile up, if necessary, until the dairymen positively know that they must be clean or go out of business.

THE CHOICE OF A HOME

The choice of a home is one of the most important transactions in a married man's life, and a wise choice will have a great influence upon the happiness of his wife and family.

To make a home really desirable, it must have certain fundamental elements, of which the following are the most important:

- It must be healthful.
- It must be accessible.
- It must have all public improvements.
- It must have beautiful surroundings.
- It must be in a good neighborhood.
- It must be among the homes of cultivated and refined people.

All of these elements and many more are found in
