Mayor Simon and Members of Park Board Explain Plainly Their Attitude Towards Proposition Recently, Suggested.

"Of course I wouldn't want to squander any of the city's funds, but I can certainly say that the park board will lend its most enthusiastic aid to any scheme for the beautification of the city regardless of who may be at the head of the movement," declared Mayor Simon yesterday," and it is perfeetly silly for anyone to think that I or the board would be so small as to stand in the way of civic progress just because Senator Bourne is one of the men who are agitating the 'city beautiful idea.'

"I know very little about the work of the organization which has been urging business men of Portland to subscribe money to a fund to beautify, and I am sure the remark made about Jonathan Bourne yesterday at the park board session was intended to be taken as a joke.

Willing to Cooperats. "I want the public to feel that my administration is willing and anxious to cooperate with any organization that seeks to make a better and more progressive municipality. Yet at the same time such bodies should work in har-mony with the official boards of the city. I haven't seen Senator Bourne since the visit of the president, and did not know till yesterday that he was Scheme. "The 'city beautiful' movement is supposed to be one of the active workers in the city beautiful movement. If he is, it is all the better. The more sup-porters we have the easier it will be started at this time with a view to the convenience of the public when the city has grown to a population of 1,500.000. to carry out our municipal projects." Medford, Or., Nov. 6 .- Successful experiments made by David Graham, of Prospect, have added another to the many resources of Jackson county, in the shape of ginschg, the valuable medicinal root, which is so scarce that it brings big prices all the time, and instead of seeking market the market seeks the plant.

Four years ago Mr. Graham planted an eighth of an acre of ginseng on his place near Prospect, and this year he harvested his first crop, or rather partial crop, as ginseng requires five years in of tr to mature, but the plants had become so crowded that transplantation was necessary, and Mr. Graham figured that it would be more profitable to sell the roots, immature as they were, than to transplant them. Samples were sent to dealers, and from those samples Mr. Graham has received offers of from $6.40 as a minimum, up to $7.50 per

FARMERS WILL BUILD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Claiskanie, Or., Nov. 6 .- A meeting will be held at Natal early this month for the purpose of discussing the building of a farmers' telephone line from that point to Mist, to connect with the Nehalem Valley Mutual line, which has nearly 50 families throughout the lower end of the valley on its list, with free use of the Clatskanie local system and connection with long distance lines anywhere. Some of the outside timber owners have signified their willingness to contribute liberally to the fund and with the farmers furnishing their own poles and doing the labor, it is thought possible to construct the line and buy the instruments with a cash outlay of about $30 apiece. The line runs up the river seven or eight miles and some of the most prosperous farmers in the Nehalem valley are lo-cated up that direction, and their communication by telephone with the outside will prove a great convenience to Weiser has been entitled to free delivery for some time, but the matter has not been pushed. Postoffice receipts must be $10,000 per year to entitle a place to free delivery. The first quarter of the present year, the receipts were $400 more than the required amount. Sep ember 30, there was an advance over that of June, and December 31 the amount will be still larger. No postoffice in the state will be able to show the increase in receipts that will be shown by the Weiser office at the end of the year. If, as is said, the increase in population and business of a city can be gauged by its postoffice receipts, Weiser is increasing by leaps and bounds. A conservative estimate of the increase in population of the city from January 1 of the present year is placed at more than 700, and more buildings have been constructed than within the
