Family Home in South Portland.

Peter Taylor, "Father of the Portland Fireman," died, of old age this morning at his home 227 Caruthers. Mr. Taylor was one of the founders of the volunteer fire department in 1853, and was the oldest living Portland fireman. He was also the organizer of the Exempt Firemen's association, and was its president until Not until today did the reason for three years ago, when he was forced to the outburst become known among the resign through ill health,

Mr. Taylor was of Scotch descent,
born in Parth, Scotland, January 28, 1828. In 1847 he came to this country, and on June 14, 1848, he was married to Miss Sarah Heppell, in New York City. In 1852 Mr. Taylor crossed the plains announced:

He was a cabi-net maker by trade, but as there was no call for that sort of work then he took up pattern making, and was for many years associated with the Williamette Iron & Steel works. He retired from active business service 28 years ago.

Mr. Taylor was the first president and one of the founders of the Portland St. Andrews society, which is a benevo-lent Scottish organization. Mrs. Taylor died two years ago last March, and the old home at 227 Caruthers street has never been broken up.

Definite funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but interment will be in Riverview ceemtery, and it is probable that the funeral will be held Saturday from the Fourth Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Taylor was a member. Mr. Taylor is survived by one son, Doughts W. Taylor, ex-city engineer; three daughters, Mrs. L. W. Pratt, Mrs. M. K. Shipley, Miss Nannie E. Taylor, a niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Beat; 13 grandchildren and two great grandchildren, all of Portland.

MRS.OSBOURNE'S TROUBLES RETOLI

Blames Mother-in-Law, Mrs. R. L. Stevenson, for Everything.

(United Press Lessed Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 11.—In a statement published today, Mrs. Lloyd Os-bourne declared that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, widow of the noted author, is responsible for the trouble existing between her and Osbourne, which resulted in their separa-tion, and the subsequent Hitigation brought by Mrs. Osbourne in an effort to compel him to contribute toward the maintenance of his wife and two children. The sult is now pending.

A week ago Mrs. Stevenson came to this city, but left soon afterward, when attorneys for her daughter-in-law at-tempted to obtain her deposition in regard to the financial condition of her son. She went to Santa Barbara, her home, where, Mrs. Osbourne asserts, her deposition will be taken.

The friction between the two women began shortly after Osbourne's mar-riage in 1896, according to the state-

"Mrs. Stevenson took a dislike to me," said Mrs. Osbourne. "That was all, There was friction between Mrs. Stevenson and myself. Why? For the life of me I cannot tell. I refused to have my home dominated by any one. And there was the rub. Out of the midst of this petty, little life my husband went to New York. There was no agreement to separate, but I suppose we both felt that he had joined his mother and given in to her pleadings to leave me.

While he was in New York he wrote me affectionate letters. In one he referred to Mrs. Stevenson's attitude as a horrible inquisition," and in another he wrote, 'I wonder at the strange patience which upheld you so long.' But he did

The whole story, together with the letters, will be produced in court during the hearing of the suit if it is necessary. I am asking for nothing more than is just for myself and my children. I intend to hold back nothing. I have borne this state of affairs for several years, and that is long enough. My friends and others have heard nothing but one side of the story. "Undoubtedly the sriletic tempera-ment and Mrs. Stevenson's dislike for sufficient reasons for my me are sufficient reasons for my hus-hand's living in New York, but there-was another—a prosale and material ar-gument. Mrs. Stevenson has control of the Stevenson estate during her lifetime. It is her custom to send my husband substantial remittances, and perhaps these remittances might cease if—well, he is under the thumb of his mother, and knowing her as I do. I can hardly bisme him. All I want of him now is proper provision for the children."

Taylor Passes Away Contains Cuss Word and Refers to Beer-Has Been a High Favorite.

> Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 11.— One of Stanford university's most popular college songs is about to be placed inder the ban because it contains a cues word and refers to beer. The song was composed by Will Irwin a gradu-ate of Stanford, who is now a well known magazine writer, and is written to the time of "A Son of a Gamboller." In part, it is as follows:

> Oh, there's the road to Mayfield, as plain as plain can be;
> And if you want to see a wreck, just take a look at me.
> For I have been to Mayfield and tasted of the beer
> And that is why my eyes are weak; I'll have to rest a year.

But we'll cheer for dear old Stanford,
where the color of life is red.
We'll rise and give the "varsity" from our coffins when we're dead.
And when we mount the golden stairs we'll give St. Peter the cue.
To join the relicking chorus—"To hell with the gold and blue."

PRESCRIPTIONS FAILED: CUTICURA CURED HIM

'I have used the Cuticura Remedies

"I have used the Cuticura Remedies for a very bad case of eczenia with complete success. About fifteen or eighteen years ago the disease developed in the shape of a large pinhead on top of my hand. It burned and itched so much that I was compelled to show it to a doctor. He pronounced it ringworm, and made very light of it. He gave me a wash and told me to apply it before going to bed and all would be over in the morning. But the next morning my hand was all swollen up and I poulticed it. When the doctor came to his office I showed him the hand and to my surprise he told me that he had never experienced such a case in his practice and said it was well I poulticed it. After trying his different remedies the disease increased and went up my arms and finally to my thighs and legs generally and finally on my face. The burning was something terrible. After I had tried this doctor, as I thought, long enough, I went to another doctor who had the reputation of being the best in town. He told me it was a bad case of eczena and that if would take quite a while to cure it. His medicine checked the advance of the duesase but no further.

"I finally concluded to try the Cuti-the advance of the duesse but no further.

"I finally concluded to try the Cuticura Remodies. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Cintement and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and found relief in the first trial. I continued until I was completely free from the disease and I have not been troubled with another attack since. I still use the Cuticura Cintment in my family as it is one of the best remedies to head a some or other injury rapidly. I can freely and truthfully say that the Cuticura Remodies are the tent so far as my experience went with them and I am still recommending them, feeling sure I am not making a mistake. C. Burkshart, 236 W. Market St., Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 19, 1908."
