St. Helens Quarry Co. Closes Contract With Willamette Works. contract was closed this morning y the Willamette Iron and Steel works the construction of a new steel barge for the St. Helens Quarry company, to be used for carrying crushed

The barge will be built entirely of steel, except the decking, and will be 150 feet long, of 30 feet beam and with 816 feet depth of hold. The carrying capacity will be about 950 tons. material has been ordered from the east, that of the three new steel barges to be built for the Columbia Contract company, and work will commence on all of the barges at about the same The three barges for the Columbia Contract company are a trifle larger han that ordered by the St. Helens Quarry company, as the former will have a capacity of 1000 tons. The one which the contract was just closed will cost about $16,000.

STEAMER BRINGS BERRIES

Large Shipment From Coos Bay on the Alliance.

The steamer Alliance, Captain Pardock at 11 o'clock last night, brought Portland. the first shipment of cranberries from Coos Bay this season. She had aboard 200 boxes of the berries, 60 tons of general freight and 40 passengers.
Although cranberries have been coming up here on the boats from Tillamook for some time, this is said to be the first shipment from the Coos Bay country. On her way up here the Alliance was in a northwest gale all of the time, and it is reported that a very heavy sea was running.
