Plans for making Portland the city beautiful of America were discussed by business men yesterday. The organization of a civic league together with authority to employ E. H. Bennett, municipal architect of D. H. Burnham & Co., a well known Chicago firm, are preliminary evidences that the plan general will be adopted. The meeting held in the Commercial club, attended by the city beautiful committee of 100 and many others was characterized by its enthusiasm. Dr. J. R. Wetherbee presided. He unfolded the plan for making Portland beautiful.

The plan consists in giving the city a boulevard circumference and a business center with radiating transportation arteries. It includes the building of broad streets, the construction of adequate terminal facilities for all railroad systems, a "back in" depot that will open upon lower Park street, and a sewerage system; all these to be made equal to the necessities of a city containing 200,000 people.

See Immense Metropolitan. In the view of many who expressed opinions yesterday, Portland will pass New York and London in size. But the lack of foresight in building London, which today makes that city a conglomerate mass without plan, should be abhorred in plans for the future Portland. It is worth any reasonable cost, it was pointed out, and the investment makes returns of magnitude to plan a city which commercializes aestheticism.

Many cities, said Dr. Wetherbee during his address, have taken counsel from previous construction folly and are rebuilding. The cost thus to do is incalculable, and the labor past undertaking. Portland is at the place in her history where the future may be provided for at a comparatively small cost. Growth of the town into a metropolis is certain. Power, influence, prestige and intrinsic value will attend construction made for the future as well as for the present.

"Portland," exclaimed Dr. Andrew C. Smith, clinching this thought, "may well become not only the Paris of America, but the artistic gem of the earth."

"I favor a bond issue for the purpose," said J. C. Alsworth. "I consider the employment of Burnham and Bennett a wise plan and worth paying for."

Wants Permanent City. "I believe," said T. B. Wilcox, "in the utility of private citizens putting up buildings which will be permanent."

CAIRO'S MAYOR DEFENDS CITY

Executive Declares Crime Had Become Rampant and Had to Be Stopped.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Cairo, Ill., Nov. 13.—There has not been any mob; it was simply an uprising of business men determined to put an end to outrages against law and order.

Major Parsons thus declared himself to the militia officers today in referring to the lynching Thursday night of the negro Will James, accused of the murder of Anna Pelley, a white woman, and Henry Salmer, held on the charge of wife murder.

In making the statement Parsons declared he was expressing the sentiments of nine tenths of the inhabitants of Cairo.

Regarding the punishment of the lynchers Sheriff Davis stated this morning that he would confer with Governor Densen before taking any action.

The streets of the city have taken on a normal appearance again. The troops have the situation well in hand, and no more violence is expected.

Arthur Alexander, the negro who James implicated in the murder of Anna Pelley, arrived at Champaign last night on a special train under a military guard. There is a bond issued for his safe keeping as the mob had threatened his life. There was no demonstration at Champaign on the negro's arrival there, as few knew that he was in town until he had been safely lodged in the prison cell.

IMPORTANT WITNESSES IN REAL MURDER CASE

Mrs. R. Becker Jr. and Miss Ethel Noss.

What the Defense Has Shown.

Mrs. Hazel Maddux denies that she confessed the killing of Mrs. Real to Miss Ethel Noss in Seattle.

She admits that she was automobile riding with Frank E. Rodman, co-defendant, that night, but asserts that she arrived home by 1:15 o'clock.

Frank E. Rodman testifies that he drove Mrs. Maddux to her home about 1 o'clock; that he drove a Pierce-Arrow car and left it at his home on East Morrison street for the night.

Patrolman C. W. Maddux testifies that his wife arrived home soon after 1 o'clock, driven to the corner by Rodman.

Defendant's testimony does not explain where Mrs. Maddux and Rodman had been.

The two witnesses testify that male members of the Real party were intoxicated after the accident, except Chauffeur Kelley.

MRS. MADDUX DENIES SHE CONFESSED

Defense in Real Manslaughter Trial Rests Case After Accused Woman Has Been Asked Three Carefully Prepared Questions.

Resting upon a denial by Mrs. Hazel Maddux that she confessed to Miss Ethel Noss in Seattle that she and Frank E. Rodman ran over Mrs. Clara May Real on the night of August 5 and upon the testimony of Mrs. Maddux, Rodman and Clifford W. Maddux, husband of the defendant, that Mrs. Maddux was home by 1:15 o'clock that fatal night, the defense finished its testimony in the Real manslaughter case at 10:50 o'clock this morning.

The direct examination of Mrs. Maddux was confined to three questions, which had been carefully framed to prevent the prosecution from subject-

What the State Has Shown.

Miss Ethel Noss tells of confession by Mrs. Maddux in a confidential talk between them in Seattle last August.

Miss Noss and Mrs. Maddux Becker identify Mrs. Maddux as having passed their house at Twenty-sixth and Savier streets about 11:30 o'clock the night Mrs. Real met her death. She was in an automobile, accompanied by a man, proceeding in the direction of the Linnton road.

Bartender at Claremont tavern identifies Rodman as man he served twice with either high balls or whiskey that night, leaving the tavern about 12:30 o'clock. He was accompanied by a woman.

Proprietor of Cliff Inn tells of man and woman who arrived at the inn while the Real party was there. He thought they left in from 15 to 25 minutes after the Real party left.

Patrolman Stanton tried to stop auto without headlights shortly before 3 o'clock at Twenty-first and Quimby, containing man and woman.

Members of Real party say auto that killed Mrs. Real was running with side lights only and give general description of a red car containing a man and woman.

MURDERED BY THREE THUGS

Bold Job Under Arc Light at Los Angeles—Coachman the Victim.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—Three thugs shortly after midnight shot and killed P. A. Widdell, a coachman, in West Twenty-third street, the most fashionable residence section of the city. Ten minutes before the murder of Widdell, the footpads fired four shots at W. B. Elms, a department manager in the Broadway department store, who was hurrying toward his home with a large sum of money in his pockets. Elms disregarded their commands to halt, and made his escape amid a fusillade of bullets from their revolvers.

Within five minutes after Widdell had been shot down scores of citizens were helping the police search for the trio. Good descriptions of the murderers were furnished by persons who, attracted by the shooting, saw the men running from the spot where their victim lay beneath a brilliant arc light.

Widdell's pockets had been rifled and two bullet holes in his head showed that his death had been instantaneous.

One suspect was arrested by the police, but released when he proved an alibi. Chief of Police Dishman today detailed a dozen detectives on the case.

HIGHER-UP HAS BEEN INDICTED

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Nov. 13.—The federal grand jury yesterday afternoon indicted James Broadwater, former superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery of the American Sugar Refining company, charging conspiracy to defraud the government by using false weights. Broadwater has been arrested.

CREMATORY PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS READY FOR BIDDERS

Plans and specifications for the proposed new garbage crematory to be erected north of the city, have been drawn up by City Engineer Morris and Superintendent of the Crematory Napier and have been examined and recommended by the board of health. The city auditor has been authorized to advertise for bids. There is a bond issued, voted by the people, for $150,000 for the proposed garbage crematory, but it is not thought that the bids will run nearly so high.

The first will be a handsome building, equipped with every modern convenience, both for burning the city refuse and for health, safety and convenience of the employees. A brick or concrete chimney set less than 150 feet above the furnace will carry the fumes of the burning refuse into the air and provision will be made to prevent ashes and bits of burning cinders, papers and other refuse from escaping.

Bids for erecting the building will be accepted any time up to 10 a. m. December 15, when the auditor will close the books.

GRAND RONDE HAS SNOW STORM

Entire Valley Enveloped in White—Over Foot Deep in Adjoining Hills.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Union, Or., Nov. 13.—The Grand Ronde valley is enveloped in a mantle of white this morning, snow falling all night and continuing this morning. The snow of the past three days is earlier than usual in this section and while beneficial to the farmers, will put a damper on the wood hauling from the mountains, as the snow is reported to be more than a foot deep in the hills.

No particular cold accompanies the snow and while there has been one or two freezes, no damage has been reported. The snow is melting rapidly and roads reported to be in bad condition.

La Grande, Or., Nov. 13.—Breaking all records for November, snow storms of the past decade, six inches of snow fell here last night and it is still snowing. The temperature is not sufficient to hold the snow more than a day at most.

Hood River, Or., Nov. 13.—The first snow of the season fell here this morning. It has been snowing for several hours, and the surrounding hills are covered. The apples are all harvested, and no damage will result.

"UNCLE JOE" IS REAL ANGRY

Says Newspapers Causing All His Trouble Because of Wood Pulp Tariff.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 13.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon's fender is up. In a speech here last night the speaker handed out the bitterest exhortation of his enemies that he has yet delivered.

"Uncle Joe" declared the newspapers of the country are after his scalp because the free wood pulp bill failed to carry and that they are trying to make Cannonism an issue.

In his speech last night Cannon alleged that Herman Ridder, president of the American Publishers' association, headed a deputation which demanded that he "railroad" through congress by illegal means a bill removing the duty on wood pulp, promising Cannon the support of the country's big newspapers in return.

Cannon declared that he refused to be bought or cajoled and that the big publishers then went out after his scalp.

HERMAN RIDDER SAYS "A LIE, A BASE LIE"

New York, Nov. 13.—"It's a lie, a base lie." This was the statement made by Herman Ridder today when shown the speech of "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

MADE IN MUD BUNKO ROOST ON STREETS LOCATED BY SLEUTH OF CITY

Residents Send Flood of Complaints to City Officials—Hawthorne Avenue Left in Wretched Condition by Paving Firm

The deplorable condition of many streets throughout the city is causing no end of complaint from indignant citizens. In several places where contracts have been let for months the work of repair is no further along than that the street is torn up, blockaded and so sloppy and muddy that wagon traffic is practically defied.

Thousands of complaints about the condition of Hawthorne avenue between Grand avenue and East Twelfth street have been registered during the last three weeks, yet nothing has been done in the way of improving the conditions, which are regarded by the people living in that vicinity as disgraceful.

At the corner of Grand and Hawthorne avenues, which is the largest transfer point in Portland, thousands of people are forced to wade ankle deep through the mud if they are to get on or off the cars. The suburbs reached by the cars which leave Hawthorne avenue at Grand are thickly settled, as Mount Tabor, Sellwood, Mount Scott and all way points depend on these cars for service.

Indignation is at a high pitch. The residents and storekeepers at the transfer junction are of one mind—that something ought to be done. No less than 500 people at a time stand on this corner every evening between 4 and 6:30 o'clock, they say, and many of these

Gang of Fake Bookmakers Who Robbed a Nevada Miner Had Room 26 in Selling-Hirsch Building Place Found Deserted.

After searching two days, Captain Baly, head of the detective bureau of the police department, has found the room in which Emory Buren claims he was fleeced out of $500 by a gang of fake bookmakers. The room is in the heart of Portland's business district, and the gang have been operating there for two months.

The room is in the Selling-Hirsch building on Washington street, between Tenth and West Park streets. It is number 26, and has been in charge of a man who gave the name of J. L. Smith.

Smith has not been seen around the place since Saturday, when Buren caused the arrest of Frank Watson, whom he claims "steered" him into the place. Neither has the room been occupied, and all bookmaking paraphernalia Buren claims was in the room has been removed.

Baly is Certain. The room now contains a flat top desk, a typewriter desk, and a quantity of literature pertaining to real estate. A small peep-hole by the door knob has been covered with tin from the inside, and a Yale lock is also fastened to the inside of the door.

"I feel certain that in the room," said Captain Baly, "I have been working on the case since Wednesday, and Detective Price and I found this place yesterday. While there were no bookmaking or other gambling fixtures in the room, the operators had plenty of time to get it out of there. We don't know this man Smith, and cannot find out anything about him."

The janitor of the building said that Smith came to him about two months ago, and rented the room. He represented that he was in the real estate business, and he saw several men go in there. He states that he does not know who Smith is, where he came from, or where he has gone. The man paid his rent by the month, and has it paid for November.

The man is described as being tall, light complexion, and wears short side whiskers. The janitor also saw the same men entering the place, and that no women were ever seen there.

Buren Had Left Town. Attorney Sebaca, Foucault represents Buren, and Wednesday took his client out and found the building within an hour. At that time, no one was in the office, and that night Buren left Portland, presumably for his home, and failed to appear Thursday when the case was called against Watson in municipal court. Attorney Foucault failed to notify the proper officers that he found the room, and says that Buren is still in Portland, but does not know where he is stopping, or on what street.

Attorney John Manning represents Watson, who waived a preliminary hearing when Buren did not show up, and will go before the grand jury on the charge of larceny.

Watson is also accused of being a member of a gang of bunko men who prey upon tourists.

Robbed of All He Had. Emory Buren came to Portland last Friday, and Saturday was approached on the street by a stranger, who, with Frank Watson, now under arrest, induced him into a room where there were three other men, and they won $2000 for Watson on a horse race. The room was fitted out as that of a bookmaking shop, and Buren was induced to bet on a horse race, and when he displayed his money, he said, Watson and

PRINCETON 11 ON THE FIELD WITH YALE

Yale Wins by Score of 17 to 0—Harvard Beats Yale Freshmen—Lineup for Big Game—Other Eastern Contests.

Final score—Yale, 17; Princeton, 0. Final score—Harvard Freshmen, 11; Yale Freshmen, 0. Final score—Michigan, 22; Pennsylvania, 6.

Final score—Harvard, 12; Dartmouth, 3. First half—Navy, 5; Reserve, 6. First half—Cornell 0; Chicago 6. Final—Navy 17, Reserves 6.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 13.—Yale is a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting for the annual gridiron struggle to be decided here this afternoon. Although Yale is expected to walk away with the game much interest is being manifested because of sentimental reasons.

The lineup follows:

|           |                        |
|-----------|------------------------|

O. A. C. READY FOR BIG GAME

Oregon Agricultural College Corvallis, Or., Nov. 13.—Everything is ready for the big fray Washington arrived yesterday in charge of Manager Zedick and Coach Bobie, and spent an hour on the field going through light practice. Dr. Johnson has given orders that Keck, the best man in O. A. C.'s back field, must not play today. As Keck does all of the kicking, his loss is more serious than any suffered this year. Keck sprained his ankle running in from the field a few signs ago, and has been in bed ever since.

The students had a big rally last night, parading the streets, followed by a big buffet and speeches. The lineup today will be as follows:

- |                   |                        |
|-------------------|------------------------|
| O. A. C. Position | Washington             |

MILITARY ASKS FOOD FOR I. W. W.

Workers Say They Will Soon Have More Recruits and Defy Authorities.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Spokane, Wash., Nov. 13.—It is reported today that the military authorities at Fort Wright, where 100 industrial workers are imprisoned in the guardhouse, are insisting that the prisoners be given food. A majority of the men confined there are still on hunger strike, and many are too weak to rise from their cots.

The police authorities believe there have been no deaths under control, but the industrialists declare they are still waiting for recruits to arrive from the northwestern states to continue the demonstration.

Fifty men arrived today from Billings and Great Falls, Mont., and more are expected from Portland today.

The employment agencies in Spokane have announced that they will not take members of the Industrial Workers of the World as clients. A majority of the men claim they are willing to work and cause dissatisfaction among other employes.

"This strike has not yet had the effect of the industrialists' desire, but it is feared that the situation will become more serious if the strikers continue to refuse to work. The strikers are still on hunger strike, and many are too weak to rise from their cots. The police authorities believe there have been no deaths under control, but the industrialists declare they are still waiting for recruits to arrive from the northwestern states to continue the demonstration.
