

OPPOSE PLAN TO LEASE DRYDOCK

The Central Labor Council Passes Resolutions Denouncing Scheme.

The Central Labor Council and the Port of Portland are at odds over the proposal to lease the Port of Portland drydock at St. Johns. At a meeting of the council last night resolutions were adopted denouncing the proposed lease, and authorization was given the officers of the council to use all efforts to prevent the lease being given.

A plan is on foot to lease the Port of Portland drydock at St. Johns to the Oregon Drydock company. It is contended by the labor council that the Oregon Drydock company is merely an adjunct to the Williams Iron & Steel works, and that this corporation already has a drydock, recently built. It is argued by the council that the Oregon Drydock company desires to lease the Port of Portland dock in order to secure a monopoly of the business on the Willamette river, and thus raise the cost of repair work done on vessels coming into Portland.

In the discussion of the question last night the opinion was expressed that the labor council should see to it at the next session of the legislature that the members of the Port of Portland commission should be made elective officers instead of appointive. It is contended that the present system of appointive members of the commission leads the control and management of the body into the hands of the interests of Portland.

Resolutions were also adopted at the meeting last night protesting against the action of the Spokane authorities in suppressing the free speech of its citizens. An attempt was made to have the labor council arrange for a mass meeting of protest, but the council refused to do this. The members stated that they had no sympathy with the Industrial Workers of the World as an organization. They were opposed to the curtailment of the freedom of speech by the authorities of Spokane, however, and accordingly adopted the following resolutions:

"Whereas, In the city of Spokane, workmen are being thrown into jail because of their free speech, and because of an ordinance prohibiting the holding of meetings in the streets of that city, the imprisoned workmen having exercised the constitutional right of free speech, and

"Whereas, The trust forces of the United States are oppressing labor by reduction of wages and increase of the hours of labor on one hand, and by increasing the cost of living on the other, and

"Whereas, Only through the fullest exercise of the rights of free speech and free press can oppression be resisted and true progress made; therefore, be it Resolved, By the Central Labor Council of Portland and vicinity, that we hereby strongly denounce the action of the authorities of Spokane in imprisoning men and women who exercise the right of free speech in the streets of Spokane."

HORSES, TOO, SAW NEW MOTOR CARS

Staid old Portland horses who have been driven into town every morning for the past 20 years to the merry tune of the Fourth street locomotives and the rattle of the Fourth Street Limited for freight and passengers, and who have seen the evolution of the automobile from the little runabout days to the present mile-a-minute limousines and ambulances without more signs of perturbation than a conventional shiver or two gave up the fight yesterday. Old backs ached, old muscles quivered, manes and tails that have decorously hung downward with the rain these many years suddenly were elevated to unheard of heights.

DOG POISONER GETS BUSY AT ATHENA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Athena, Or., Nov. 11.—A $100 reward that will lead to the identity of the person who has caused such a disturbance in the canine family of Athena has been offered. During the past few days eight dogs have been found dead on the streets, due to poison distributed over town in pieces of beef carefully wrapped with a string. The two fox terriers of F. B. Boyd and H. I. Watts were the first victims. They were valued very highly by their owners. The dogs highly valued are not allowed to run loose any longer, and the grey hounds, owned by the Stone brothers, have been sent to a ranch in the country for the present. Every effort is being made to find the guilty person.

START PAVING ON THE DALES STREETS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., Nov. 12.—Yesterday the Warren Construction company laid the first hard surface pavement ever put down in The Dalles, having begun to put the finishing touches on Second street in the block in front of the post office, and by night the entire block will be completed. Nearly all the excavation on the entire street has been finished, and laying the bituminous pavement will progress rapidly from this time on if the weather remains favorable. Superintendent Church says he can complete the entire 18 blocks inside of six weeks, unless work has to be suspended on account of severe weather. The paving of the 18 blocks that have been contracted will cost the property owners along the street a little over $25,000.

THE STRANGER WITHIN OUR GATES

Herman J. Mull, Seattle, Wash.—Spokane has ever been the home of crooks and foes to good government. Last summer one could hardly cross from one street to another because of the public speaking going on on nearly every corner. It used to be the worst place for outdoor meetings I ever saw, and I can readily understand that strict measures had to be adopted.

M. R. Murphy, Rifle, Colo.—The vast amount of advertising that Oregon, Washington and Idaho are doing to promote their fruit industry is working a hardship on Colorado. Until six or seven years ago Colorado fruit had a reputation the world over, but Oregon fruit comes first in the east now every time. I am in the fruit business myself and when I was in Chicago recently the commission men did not fail to mention to make an offer for my apples. The first thing they asked me was, "Have you any Oregon apples?"

TWO LARGE PROJECTS MENTIONED IN PERMITS

Ten building permits, involving $84,200, were issued by the building inspector as follows: E. J. Wilson—Erect one story frame dwelling, Roswell street, between Patton road and Lamson; builder, same; $1000. C. Frasier—Erect one and one half story frame dwelling, East Seventeenth street, between Surman and Killingsworth; builder, same; $2500. J. Smith & W. J. Taylor—Erect one story brick foundry, Water street, between Harrison and Lincoln; builder, same; $10,000. Dr. McClean—Repair one story frame shed, Front street, between Clay and Columbia; builder, Reynolds & Weymer; $150.

C. F. Smith—Erect one story frame garage, Almsworth street, between Williams and Cleveland; builder, same; $1100. E. J. Wilson—Erect one story frame coal shed, East Thirtieth street, between Hawthorne and Madison; builder, same; $250. McKinley Mitchell—Erect three story brick apartments, East Morrison street, between Seventh and Sixth; builder, A. J. Kinney; $10,000. J. Timothy Kinney—Erect four story brick apartments, Trinité place, between Washington and Everett; builder, W. L. A. P. Willing—Erect one and one half story frame dwelling, East Seventh street, between Tacoma and Tenno; builder, same; $500. Meier & Frank company—Repair four story brick hotel, Front street, between Morrison and Alder; builder, J. Bingham; $500.

Philadelphia is trying the experiment of paving about a mile of its principal retail business street with creosote-impregnated wood blocks.

Accumulation of Gas In the Stomach

One of the Most Common Symptoms of Dyspepsia and Deranged Digestion.

The presence of a small quantity of gas in the alimentary canal may be described as constituting the ordinary condition, as certain foods, such as peas, beans, etc., naturally eliminate and create gas while undergoing digestion. It is only when this gas accumulates to such extent as to cause inconvenience, and belching, that a person may be said to be suffering from flatulence. This collection of gas becomes in extreme cases so great that a swelling presents itself in the pit of the stomach; and when this stage is reached, complaint is made that this part feels tender to the touch, the clothes of the person being loosened to obviate the distress occasioned by pressure.

Attempts are usually made to get rid of this stomach gas by eructation, and immediate relief is sometimes obtained when this is accomplished. Infants are very subject to flatulence, especially when their natural food is taken away too hastily, and when food other than that provided for them by nature is given them. Mothers and nurses are familiar with this infantile trouble, and have various remedies for it, the most popular of which is charcoal, which relieves the trouble completely by absorbing the stomachic and intestinal gases, thereby removing the colicky pains of the infant, which is the symptom which most frequently causes the nightly crying spells.

Charcoal is a marvelous absorbent, and is capable of oxidizing and absorbing 100 times its own volume in gases. It is applicable to all cases of flatulence or gas in the stomach, and as it is entirely harmless, it can be taken by any one with comparative impunity and without fear of its doing any harm whatever to the system.

Infants and old people can use it as readily as young persons and those in the prime of life, and nothing but benefit can result from its use. It can also be used in any quantity; and in this respect it differs from drugs sometimes employed for stomach troubles, as the dosage of these must be regulated by a competent physician. Not so with charcoal, however, as is shown by the fact that a French surgeon used as much as 15 ounces per day, every day of the last 30 years of his life.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges should be employed in all cases where the stomach is filled with gases resulting from the fermentation and decomposition of food and also from the use of those vegetable foods which seem naturally to engender and promote the accumulation of gas. These wonderful little lozenges which have an enormous and ever-increasing sale, are made from best willow charcoal, combined with pure honey, and furnish to the sufferer from stomach gases and foul breath, the very best and most palatable and delightful form in which charcoal can be administered to the stomach.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are exceedingly agreeable to the taste, in striking contrast and contra-distinction to the ordinary powdered charcoal, which is a most unpleasant dose to take. Purchase a package of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges today from your druggist for 25 cents, and send us your name and address for free sample package. Address: F. A. It is in time of sudden mishap or accident that Chamberlain's Lintment can be relied upon to take the place of the family doctor who is absent. It is found at the moment. Then it is that Chamberlain's Lintment is never found wanting. It cures all cases of rheumatism, sprains, bruises, Chamberlain's Lintment also soothes the soreness and drives away the pain.

COMEDIAN YOUNG HAS MERRY LAUGH

Musical Comedy "Lo" Given Initial Presentation at the Bungalow.

By J. F. S. It seems unkind and ungrateful not to be wildly enthusiastic over "Lo." "Lo" is so new, the press agents have said so many glowing things about it, it has been so considerably treated in an advertising way, that to admit that it isn't the best musical comedy ever seen appears to be sacrilege. In spite of O. Henry's fame and Franklin P. Adams' enormous salary as a joke-writer—or is it Franklin P. Adams' fame and O. Henry's enormous salary?—in spite of these things, "Lo" seemed to drag for those people at the Bungalow last night, who have forgotten if they had ever heard who its authors were. In spite of the entertaining work of John E. Young, the general effect of this unique musical comedy was much the same as that of many other musical comedies—apoorific. Restful and quieting, too, was A. Baldwin Sioane's music. With the single exception of the statue song in the final tableau, which was unusual and effective, and which woke up the audience in time to go home, there was no novelty in the songs which were all curiously like the songs you invariably hear whenever you take a dip into musical comedy. The uniqueness of "Lo" was no more in evidence in the music than in the plot.

John E. Young, who is a comedian with a merry laugh and a fund of actual good nature that is irresistible, worked hard to inject some of his own life and sprits into "Lo." He is no a funny man, in the strict sense of the word. He is not comical. But he seems to be immensely good humored. It pleases you to see so happy and jolly a person about you. It puts you in a happy mood to find that there is someone who can bubble laughs without an effort. He is an excellent substitute for a clever plot and scintillating lines.

Mr. Young and another merry little body—Dorothy Brenner—were very funny in one song—"Never Forget Your Parents"—which seemed rather out of place in its surroundings. It was excellent burlesque, and sounded, as though William F. Kirk had written it. Maudie Kelley is a "mistaken" lady with talent, but an unfortunate role, and George A. Lemm as Major Bing was entertaining at times, because so utterly useless. Juliette Lange was a Yucatan maiden, whose final song was effective, as has been said. David Kirkland was decidedly wooden as Whitefeather, an Indian. That sounds like one of Franklin P. Adams' jokes. It's a fair sample of the brand. "Lo" has too little spontaneity to be very refreshing. Its characters move on and off the stage mechanically; there are some funny lines, but there is the always evident effort to be funny, which invariably defeats its own purpose. "Lo" belongs to a dying race.

New Hotel Opens December 1.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., Nov. 12.—December 1 is the date now set for the opening of the new $35,000 hotel which is nearing completion, and the event is being looked forward to with much anticipation, for the citizens of this city have long wanted a first class hotel, and

Giving Alcohol To Your Boy?

Why are you doing this? He would be much better off without it. Children do not need stimulants. But they often need a tonic, something to give them more color, more life, more strength. Can you find a strong tonic without a drop of alcohol? Certainly. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is just such a medicine. Entirely free from alcohol. No stimulation. No alcohol habit. Ask your doctor all about it. Let him decide.

J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass.

Daily movements of the bowels are just as essential for children as for adults. You can easily correct any tendency to constipation by giving small doses of Ayer's Pills.

INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN GAS AND STOMACH HEADACHE GO.

A little Diapepsin will make you feel fine in five minutes.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to stomach troubles knew the treasure hidden in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sour, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like this they will certainly have when Hotel The Dalles is completed and opened to the public.

Sugar Factory Idle for a Week.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) La Grande, Or., Nov. 12.—La Grande's sugar factory is standing still this week on account of a shortage of coal, following the non-arrival of a shipment over the O. R. & N. line on schedule time. Practically all the beets are hauled in, but there is yet about ten days of work for the factory when it is again started.
