Lawyer Must Pay Client—Max Cohen must pay back the $150 which he collected as attorney for Richard Scammon and failed to turn over to him, according to a verdict given by a jury in the circuit court yesterday afternoon. Scammon hired Cohen to represent him in the settlement of a $29,000 claim which was compromised by Cohen for $250. Cohen kept the money and Scammon sued him for it. Cohen admitted having kept the money, but said that it was his own money. He was given a $100 fine, two days' trip to Goldendale, $200; searching the records and passing on title, $50; filing legal papers, $20; another trip to Goldendale, $20. This trip Cohen said he afterwards found to be a mistake. He is now in the county jail on $100 attorney fees.

Miss Led to Prison—E. C. Riddell, the man who sells meat, waived examination yesterday before Justice of the Peace Olson and will go before the grand jury on a charge of selling a fake scheme to F. S. Lindley of St. Johns. Riddell sold him a half interest in a proposition that was to guarantee bank depositors their money when banks failed. Riddell retained the other half of the business just to show Lindley he had confidence in the plan. He secured $100 from Lindley and Riddell was recently arrested for selling a "civil service school," which was supposed to prepare men for government coast positions. He returned the money in this case and prosecution was dropped. He is now in the county jail upon default of bail.

Bought by Michigan Men—Acting for Whitney & Stinchfield, wealthy Michigan timber dealers, Rumsen yesterday purchased a 50 by 100 foot lot on the south side of Taylor street, between Sixth and Seventh. The lot is across the street from the Taylor street entrance of the Y. M. C. A. building and is considered especially desirable for business purposes. While the price paid by Mr. Hawkins for the property is not definitely known, it is believed that it was between $40,000 and $45,000. Whitney & Stinchfield are heavy owners of Detroit, Mich., property and only recently have become interested in Portland as a profitable investment center.

SAYS LINE WILL BE BUILT SOON

President of Coos Bay, Oregon & Idaho Railroad in the City.

Francis H. Clarke, president of the Coos Bay, Oregon & Idaho Railroad company, which is surveying a line between Coos Bay and Roseburg, is in the city on business connected with that project. Mr. Clarke says the company has located 50 miles of the proposed road and intends to have the survey between the two places completed this year. F. A. Haines, formerly in the service of the Chicago Northwestern, and who located and built the line from Casper to Lander, Wyo., the line from Rapid City to Pierre in South Dakota, and also the system of narrow gauges in the Black Hills to Mr. Haines' chief engineer, and he has found a pass and obtained less than a 1 per cent grade. Mr. Clarke is very positive in asserting that his is a steam road and that it will be pushed eastward to a connection with Lander, Wyo., as rapidly as the survey can be completed and the right of way obtained. "There are no heavy grades to overcome on the Coos Bay road," he declared. Mr. Clarke, "and to go to the great expense of installing a power plant and equipping the road with costly electrical appliances, would be very objectionable to Mr. Haines' chief engineer. The road will be constructed to meet the requirements of heavy freight transportation."

Asked if he would like to make a Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, owing to the meeting of the State Bar Association on those days. This action has been taken in order that the judges of the circuit court may be able to attend the meetings of the association. All of the cases set for Monday will be cases to be considered by the court without jury.

statement for publication, Mr. Clarke said that his company was working quickly and did not need to advertise his actions. "One thing you may say," he continued. "We are not going to ask aid from the state, and we do not want to be known as in the field for such favors. This road will be built in the same way that other roads are built, financed the same way and will be absorbed by a great system with which it will be ultimately connected. We want to go to all the important cities on the route, including Roseburg, but do not have to force ourselves on them. If they do not want us, the object is to open up Coos Bay to the world and give the states of Oregon and Idaho a straight line through their rich centers."

MYSTIC SHRINERS LEAVE FOR ALBANY

Al Kader Temple special, made up of eight Pullman coaches overflowing with Shriners, pulled out of the Union depot at 10 o'clock this morning, bound for Albany, where a class of 60 will be initiated into the mysteries of the order tonight.

Over 300 Shriners, 50 of whom were accompanied by their wives, boarded the Albany-bound special, which will arrive at the Linn county metropolis at 1 o'clock this afternoon. At 4 o'clock the entire Portland delegation, headed by the Arab patrol, will parade through the streets of Albany.

Following the initiatory exercises, the newly made Shriners will entertain their visiting brethren with a banquet. The ladies of Albany have made arrangements for entertaining the wives of the visiting Shriners with a reception. The pilgrimage is the most pretentious affair of the kind ever undertaken by Al Kader Temple, even eclipsing the journey two months ago by the same organization to Baker City.

At 1 o'clock tomorrow morning the Portland Shriners will leave for Portland, arriving here three hours later.

HOOD RIVER IS FOR GOOD ROADS

Commercial Club of Apple Country Will Assist in Movement.

Working in harmony with Portland professional and business men, the Hood River Commercial club has taken up the good roads improvement movement and within a short time will hold a routing meeting in conjunction with local enthusiasts.

Appointed by the Hood River Commercial club as one of a committee to take up the matter of the improvement of highways, J. A. Epping, the "apple king" of Hood River, was in Portland today conferring with local people interested in the movement.

Mr. Epping testified that the good roads movement was spreading like wildfire throughout the state since the recent meetings of the Oregon Good Roads association at the Commercial club. Mr. Epping declared that Hood River was willing and anxious to do its part for the furtherance of the plan.

"Just now," averred Mr. Epping, "we are especially interested in getting a good automobile road from Hood River to Portland, and are expending our best efforts to that end. Hood River, as a region, is ideal, but, like other parts of the state, lacks good roads."

Our most crying need is a good highway from Hood River to Portland, and with the help of Portland professional and business men we can gain our end. Regrading and improvement work on only about eight miles of the old military road is all that is necessary to stretch a perfect highway from the metropolis of the state to its most prolific agricultural region.

"Thorough examination has shown us that for about $45,000 the road between the two cities can be put in perfect shape."

"In Hood River we are all anxious to see a good system of roads and highways in the state. For years we have been attempting to bring about just such a movement as Portland members of the Oregon Good Roads association have started. People throughout the state do not realize the enormity of the plan, or the great benefits which must accrue if it is carried through to completion. For myself, I am in favor of the bonding system, and a plan allowing each county to do its own work, under the supervision of the state engineer."

Boy Plays With Gun; Loses Finger. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Forest Grove, Or., Nov. 12.—A boy and a gopher fight, an explosion. Result: Two fingers on left hand badly mangled. Little Freddie Hill was the victim, and the gun was located on the college campus, where the janitor had set it for the purpose of shooting the rodents. The boy, aged about 4 years, was playing about the campus and firing the gun, proceeded to investigate the workings thereof. Dr. Brown amputated the first digit, the lad refusing to make an outcry while the painful operation was in process. A rapid recovery is looked for, but the boy will never be able to "point" with his left hand again.
