AGGIE TOSSERS TO PLAY ALUMNI

Famous Old Stars Will Line Up Against Varsity Next Friday.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Dec. 15.—The O. A. C. basketball team will get its first tryout Friday night, when it lines up against some of the old stars in the annual alumni game. The alumni team will be made up of some of the best basket tossers ever turned out at O. A. C.

Harry Moore, who was chosen for the All-northwest team last year, will play forward with "Skeeter" Swan, whose reputation as a basketball player is state-wide. "Rat" Rhinehart, who coached the Hill Military football team this fall, and who is now coaching the academy basketball team, will journey to Corvallis and show the youngsters how the guard position should be played.

JACK DEMPSEY'S NATAL DAY

Forty-seven years ago today in County Kildare, Ireland, was born a fighter who was destined to become one of the most famous pugilists of all time—Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil. Fourteen years ago, November 1, Dempsey died in Portland of consumption, brought on by the hard training for his ring battles.

There never was another boxer who was held more in esteem than Jack Dempsey. That's why they called him the Nonpareil. He never fought for the big stakes of the present day, for in his time fighters were fighters and not financiers. They backed him for the limit, his betting friends, and they failed to cash in but few times in his long career.

A glance at his record shows a long list of "K's" and "W's", the official mark of the "knockout" and the "decision." In his 33 fights the "K" appears but twice, while in only one is the "K by" recorded.

Fought Here in Mayday. Although Dempsey was born in Ireland, he never fought abroad. Portland fans saw the little assassin in action three times in the heyday of his career, and the memorable battle between Jack and Dave Campbell, the present chief of the Portland fire department, is still recalled. This fight took place in an open field on the Cowitt river, in Wash-ton, and although Dave was a heavy-weight, Dempsey made a chopping block of him, finishing the Portlander in three rounds.

Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, is trying to master the intricacies of the center position. Pugh and McLaughlin are doing the best work at guard. With so many candidates to try out, the team work has suffered, and the alumni are expected to win.

Jack Dempsey.

rounds and leaving a broken nose. Tom Barry and Mike Keogh he fought in Portland, the former just 24 years ago tomorrow. Both were defeated.

Dempsey's longest fight went for 45 rounds. It was against Johnny Reagan and ended in the knockout of Reagan. This occurred at Long Island, N. Y., December 12, 1887. It was Dempsey who stopped the noted, although now barred, "pivot swing" of George LaBlanche, the marine, in San Francisco, August 27, 1889, in the 3rd round.

Up to that time Dempsey had been slugging LaBlanche. LaBlanche would never enter another ring with him. Had Never Seen Fitz. Up to the time he crawled through the ropes at New Orleans that January day in 1891, Dempsey had never seen his first conqueror, Bob Fitzsimmons. Jack was a little fellow, weighing 150 pounds, and he stood 5 feet 8 inches in his stocking feet. He had won his battles because he was clever and could hit hard and quick. Those little hands of his tore through an opponent's guard like a Mauser bullet.

Fitzsimmons had been kept concealed from Dempsey and none of his friends had a line on the Australian. "What big men they grow out there in Australia," observed Dempsey, as Fitz climbed into the ring. "That fellow's a heavyweight." But Fitz was no heavyweight, although he had the shoulders and hitting power of one. He weighed under 160, but he stood 5 feet 11 1/2 inches in his stocking feet, and his arms hung like a gorilla's.

What happened to poor Dempsey is too painful to recall. Fitz begged him round after round to quit fighting and give up. Those heavy fists of Bob's were cutting him into ribbons, but he was too game to quit. Finally in the thirteenth round the Cornishman crushed down his defenses and mercifully ended the unequal battle. They afterward said Dempsey died of a broken heart over his defeat by Fitzsimmons, but consumption really carried him off.

He made his last public appearance at a benefit in New York, June 8, 1895, and then came to Portland to live, his wife having been a Portland girl. He died six months later and his remains are now reposing under a modest shaft in Mount Calvary cemetery.

Taylor Captain OF OREGON TEAM

Crack Oregon Halfback Will Lead Varsity Football Eleven Next Season.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Dec. 15.—In their annual banquet last night the football team elected Charles Taylor to captain the varsity for the season of 1910.

Charles Taylor, or "Chuck" as he is known on the campus, is one of the best halfbacks Oregon ever had. He came to Oregon after distinguishing himself at H. M. A. and without difficulty made the '07 team in his freshman year. He played consistently all year and was spoken of as All-Northwest material.

The next season Taylor went to Cornell, but was unfortunate enough to break his collar bone early in the season. This past season he played a brilliant right half for Oregon and was given a place on the theoretical All-Northwest team by nearly all authorities.

Taylor has a characteristic way of carrying the ball and is a hard man to down, as he made many yards for Oregon by rolling and tumbling after being tackled. He is also a valuable man at handling punts and worked in the back field most of the year.

Taylor is a junior in college and is registered from Vancouver, Wash. He stands 5 feet 9 and weighs 165. He is 22 years of age. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

The elaborate banquet was held at Otto's grill and was participated in by the 18 men who had earned the official in the football contests the past season.

"Chuck" Taylor, elected to captaincy of University of Oregon team.

AVIATORS WILL FLY OVER SAN FRANCISCO

(United Press Special Wire.) San Francisco, Dec. 15.—Roy Knabenshue and Lincoln Beechy will participate in the aviation meet planned for San Francisco next February, according to an announcement today by members of a committee who have the affair in charge. Replies to the invitations sent the aeronauts were received late yesterday and the committee claims to be in a position to announce authoritatively that the proposed meet is assured by their acceptance.

The Pacific Aero club, which is sponsor for the meet, today initiated a financial campaign and its officers believe the necessary $50,000 will be subscribed within a month.

THREE GAMES ARE WON BY KLICKITAT QUINTET

Barnes (175 lbs) in four-hour typesetting contest for $1,000, solid minion type. 1890—At Louisville, Prof. W. F. Geertz, who fast together, kicked an object at a height of 7 feet 3 1/2 inches. 1902—At Philadelphia "Charlie" McKeever and "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien fought six rounds, no decision. 1906—At Los Angeles, "Kid" Herman won a contest over Eddie Hanson in a two-round contest. 1908—At New York, six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden won by Fred and Popler.

JOCKEY MIXES IT WITH WELTER BOY

Little Boxer Has Wind That Surprises His Followers —Long Skidoos.

Jockey Bennett rattled off four fast rounds with a welterweight opponent at the Tracey club training quarters yesterday afternoon and when it was over he was breathing as easily as if he had just finished punching the bag.

Bennett's wind is in grand shape and when he faces Jimmy Carroll, the clever 115 pounder from San Francisco next Tuesday night in Merrill's hall, the fans will be surprised at his display of that important feature of the boxer's art, wind.

Bennett roughed it with his sparring partner, took all kinds of punches in the mid section and did not come out ruffled up. He has become so accustomed that he looks far speedier than when he first arrived from San Francisco, over a month ago.

Frankie Edwards was expected to arrive today, but word reached the club that he started north later than he at first expected and it will be Thursday before he reaches Portland.

It looks very much as if Louis Long is afraid to stand toe to toe with Edwards and as soon as he returned to Portland after meeting Pete McVeigh he lit out for Pendleton. It is very likely that Long will be passed up by the club and in his stead little Pete McVeigh, the Seattle phenom, who recently went to a draw with Long, will be put on in his place. It is said that McVeigh made the better showing at Tacoma.

With these two sets of boxers, the Oregon club expects its premier to be one of the most interesting smokers ever held in Portland.

Second Teams Play.

The second team of the Third church plays the first Y. M. C. A. intermediates in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this evening. The game will start at 8:30 sharp.

Repetition of Seattle Disaster Will Be Avoided by Western Congress.

According to a letter received from the president of the Western Bowling congress at San Francisco the local bowling associations are informed that the congress will take direct charge of the accumulation and distribution of prize money at the next tournament. This movement was decided on owing to the disastrous arrangement in effect at the meeting in Seattle last spring, the prize money of which is still forthcoming with little chance of ever seeing it.

The congress will work in conjunction with the local associations where meets are held hereafter. The associations will have charge of all arrangements in the future, but the prize money will be handed out to the winners by the congress. At Seattle the prize money was spent on the current expenses and the winners went home empty pocketed.

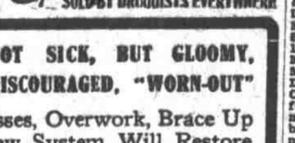

There is still owing the Portland bowlers from the Seattle nightmare the sum of $100. Portland won second money in the five man team, third in the doubles and sixth and tenth in the singles.

San Francisco will get the tournament this year and it will be held from March 26 to April 2. Many of the local bowlers are going south and it is hoped to get some of the bowlers from other Oregon towns to compete.
