

DRAWBRIDGE ON COWLITZ RIVER NOW REGULATED

War Department Issues Rules and Regulations Governing Opening of Draws at Kelso and Forks.

Numerous complaints have been made recently by operators of steamers and other craft in regard to the opening of the draws of the bridges across the Cowlitz and Lewis rivers, and rules and regulations for the operation of the drawbridges across the Cowlitz river at Kelso, Wash., and across the Lewis river below the Forks, Wash., have been prescribed by the war department at Washington.

Section 5 of the river and harbor act of August 18, 1894, says in part, that "whenever, in the opinion of the secretary of war, the public interests require it, he may make rules and regulations to govern the opening of drawbridges for the passage of vessels and other water craft, and such rules and regulations, when so made and published, shall have the force of law, and any violation thereof shall be punished as hereinbefore provided."

In the regulation it is provided that the drawbridges across the Cowlitz river at Kelso, and across the Lewis river below the Forks shall be promptly opened for the passage of steamboats or other craft upon the following signals: For the Cowlitz river bridge, one long blast of the steam whistle followed quickly by one short blast, and for the Lewis river bridge, the signal of the opening of the draw be the same as that for the Cowlitz bridge.

SULLY MAKES QUICK PASSAGE

French Bark Arrives in 163 Days From Hobart.

All went well with the French bark Sully, Captain Blanche, and she had fine sailing until she was 48 days out of Hobart, at which time she crossed the latitude of Bora-Bora. At that time the wind sprang up and she bucked a headwind that at times developed into a gale, for the next 15 days, when she finally reached the mouth of the Columbia river, 163 days out of Hobart, which was better time than the average passage.

ICE IMPEDES WORK

Removal of Obstructions at Three Mile Rapids Delayed.

F. C. Schubert, assistant engineer, corps of engineers, United States army, who returned last night from Three Mile Rapids, says that progress of the work at that point has been somewhat impeded by the ice in the river. He says, however, that if the ice does not melt, the water will be at a good stage for rapid work, the river being 6 feet there.

HAS NEW MOORINGS

Steamer Capitol City Removed From Foot of Jefferson Street.

The steamer Capitol City, belonging to the Regulator line, was taken from the moorings at the foot of Jefferson street, yesterday afternoon, and moved down to the North Bank dock, by the steamer Bailey Gatzert of the same line. The steamer was removed from the foot of Jefferson street at the request of Harbor-master J. Speier, who has decided that the old steamer tied up there must be taken to some other place. It is rumored that the owners of some of the steamers tied up there do not believe it is possible to make them find other moorings, and that they will make a test of it. Harbor-master Speier says, however, that he does not believe any of them will try to make any trouble.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT.

Carrying passengers and freight, the steamer George W. Elder, Captain Jensen, sailed last night for San Pedro and way ports. Her cargo was made up of wheat and general freight.

With 200 tons of general freight and 75 passengers, the steamer Breakwater, Captain Mackinn, will sail tonight for San Pedro and way ports. Laden with general cargo from the Orient, the Portland & Astoria liner Selja will be due to arrive January 8.

Commander J. M. Elliott, inspector for the Thirteenth lighthouse district, left last evening for San Pedro and the stations as far south as Cape Blanco. He goes from Astoria on the tender Heather.

The British bark Kelburn commenced loading lumber this morning at the Inman-Poulson mill. The steamer Mascot was aground at the mouth of the Lewis river for about three hours yesterday, on account of the low water, but finally managed to get out.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS BY CHAMBERLAIN MYSTERIOUS MAN IN FLOODS OREGON WITH LETTERS

Oregon Senator's Waterpower Conservation Bill Embodies Roosevelt Policy.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Jan. 5.—Senator Chamberlain today introduced a bill for the protection of water power sites, the purpose being to prevent private corporations from obtaining permanent title to them. The bill in all details agrees with the Roosevelt water policy. It provides for leases for 30 years and application fee of 10 cents per horsepower, and established water power fund; and an annual license of from one-half of 1 per cent to 1 per cent of gross receipts, readjustable at the end of each 10-year period. The government under the bill is to control charges for power sold to consumers.

SPRY RED ROOSTER GUARDS HENS FROM BLOODTHIRSTY FOES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Humus, Wash., Jan. 5.—A big red rooster on the ranch of E. D. Osborne, two miles up the river, has won the reputation of not being afraid of anything under the sun. He is in his glory when a chicken hawk makes an appearance, and has killed two that were molesting his flock. A dog is not safe near the feeding grounds of the fowls.

ELECTION OFFICERS TO BE CHOSEN IN JUNE

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 5.—Attorney General Crawford today rendered his opinion to the effect that the county courts of the several counties shall make their appointments of election officers for the general election to be held this year, November 8, at the June term of the county courts. He also said that the appointment of clerks and judges of the general election was made in January for June, 1908, amending the constitution and changing the time of holding the general elections from June to November, and the act specifies that all preparations for the general election will take place at the same period of time prior to the November election as it did heretofore before the June election.

NATIONAL BASEBALL COMMISSION MEETS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Cincinnati, Jan. 5.—The National Baseball commission convened in this city today, with Thomas Lynch, Ben B. Johnson and Gerry Herrmann present. After Herrmann's report as president for the past term was read the commission will vote on a matter to direct the affairs during the coming year. It is thought in baseball circles that Herrmann will be re-elected.

John Kling, the Chicago National league player who was suspended for a violation of his contract when he failed to appear for practice last spring after he had been refused a higher salary, will evidently not reenter organized baseball. No application for reinstatement had been received from him up to the time that the commission convened.

Boys shot an eagle near Arago, eight feet across wings.

Signs Himself "Edwardo A. McDonald," and Appeals to Supposed Relatives to Aid Daughter.

Portland and the state of Oregon are being flooded with what have lately become commonly known to the postal authorities as the "Spanish letters." Recipients of the amusing missives, each with a cool demand for money, are urged to send them direct to Postoffice Inspectors Clement and Richards of Portland.

Postmarked "Madrid, Spain," the letters, laboriously penned, have been sent all over the United States, usually, however, to isolated villages and communities. In this they differ from the letters with the person to whom the scheme is considered supremely clever by the authorities, so far as has been contributed cash, though several have answered.

The letter, painfully inscribed and giving evidence of education on the part of the writer, follows: "My Dear Sir: I find myself in a grave situation and I cannot, by myself, resist a very great temptation to write to you when I write this, when I tell you my mother was your kinwoman, you will know our relationship.

"Counting on your discretion I will freely explain to you my situation, although I am afraid this letter will be of little use, as my situation cannot accept delay I send this letter on which will depend the salvation of my dear daughter of 14 years of age, who today has the protection of no one."

"My father was a very notable engineer working many years at the orders of the French engineer, Mr. Ferdinand de Lesseps, during the time he was studying for the construction of the canal of Panama. Then my father and later my wife, after bearing my children, died. Alone in the world with my dear daughter, I was always, in the best possible way, fulfilling my duty toward her."

Here the letter rambles with a long description of how the writer obtained a large block of stock in the Panama Canal. Further, he explains he was arrested in Spain for a crime of a political nature, and is looking for some relatives to care for the "dear daughter" and the fortune while he languishes in some Spanish bastille.

"If you will take my daughter and give her a home," continues the missive, "I will give you the fourth part of my fortune. As you will realize the anxiety with which I wait to hear from you I ask that you answer by letter or cable at once. I am, Edwardo A. McDonald."

Answers sent to the letter received speedy responses from Edwardo who, despite confinement, seemed to have plenty of time in which to correspond. The second letter usually told of the daughter, an amazingly beautiful Spanish girl of 14 years, who was at the time confined in a school near Madrid. Here the writer says that a crime, which was especially of the nature of a lawless financier, were laying plans to capture the fortune of $7,500 sterling.

Arrangements, so said the letters, had been made for the transportation of the daughter, in care of a padre, to America, and $2500 was asker to defray the girl's expenses. With the daughter in the care of friends and a little American gold to flash in the eyes of his enemies, the father, Edwardo, wrote he would obtain possession of his fortune and journey to the United States.

BALLINGER OBDUATE IN SILETZ MATTER

Washington, Jan. 5.—The Oregon delegation in congress, with Oswald West, who represents the original settlers on lands in the Siletz Indian reservation in Oregon, is in session at the Interior department today. Each member of the conference insists on such action as will bring out all the facts, exposing any fraud but safeguarding all who have rights. Secretary Ballinger seems disposed to refuse to give any assurance of action looking to relief, so it may be necessary to resort to legislation to get the relief desired.

"SURE SHOT JACK" TAKEN AT UMATILLA

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 5.—One of the most desperate criminals in the northwest, known as "Sure Shot Jack," a box robber, is now in the county jail here and will face the grand jury tomorrow. He was caught red handed at Umatilla early yesterday morning while boarding a train for Walla Walla.

On his person he had valuable hand painted china and French bric-a-brac, which he was taking to Walla Walla to dispose of.

Lack of Virility or Vital Power

Is one of the most depressing and important conditions with which physicians have to deal. The nerve origin being in the lower brain, the medulla oblongata and medulla spinalis, and center of the lumbar enlargement, as well as the glandular and muscular apparatus, remedies must be used with these facts in view, and it stands to reason that treatment of these important centers should not be entrusted to quacks or experimenters. If you have an ailment of the delicate or sensitive centers, come and talk your case over with me. If after a thorough examination and understanding of your case I find it to be incurable, I will frankly tell you so and not cause you to spend time or money. I will not charge you a cent for any information I may be able to give you, and if you feel convinced that I am the right man to handle your case I will do so on eminently satisfactory terms to you if the case is curable.

BILL MAKES CHANGES IN COMMERCE LAW

Washington, Jan. 5.—Representative Mann has introduced in the house a bill that would make sweeping changes in the interstate commerce law for the regulation of railroads. It is in accordance with the administration bill, but it does not create an interstate commerce court. It provides for the establishment of a bureau of transportation in the department of commerce and labor, to hear complaints. Under the bill the shipper would have the alternative of filing a complaint with the bureau or with the commission.

The measure permits the granting of transportation to newspapers.
