

WOULD APPOINT MINOR OFFICIALS

Governor Hughes' Message Contains Suggestions That Extend Machine Break.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Governor Hughes does not believe the people should elect minor state officials. In his annual message to the legislature yesterday he recommended the election of the governor and the lieutenant governor, allowing them to appoint a cabinet like that of the national government.

The break between Hughes and the Republican machine is made more pronounced than ever by these suggestions, which follow the election of J. P. Aldis, a rabid anti-Hughes man, as president pro tem of the senate to succeed the late John Raines.

Hughes recommends the conservation of the state's forest and water resources. He demands that the new Erie canal be completed not later than 1914. One feature of the message is the recommendation that the legislature accept the offer of Mrs. E. H. Harriman to give the state 10,000 acres of land to be added to the Palisades Park, with an endowment of $1,000,000 to keep it in condition.

The offer of Mrs. Harriman is made on the condition that the state agree to protect her home and grounds in Orange county, where Harriman died from future confiscation by condemnation proceedings in case it should be decided later to extend the park. The 10,000 acre tract offered to the state by Mrs. Harriman is in Orange and Rockland counties and includes valuable lands along the west shore of the Hudson river.

MAKES PUBLIC REPORT OF HIS INVESTIGATION

unlawful for Mr. Ballinger to have any professional relation with claimants, because of his former incumbency of the office of commissioner of the land office, in his opinion, unsound.

"Third—The Cunningham locations in question were made in July and August, 1904. All but three of them proceeded to enter prior to May 1, 1907, the remaining three prior to October, 1907, payments aggregating $52,800 being made.

"The government had abundant time to investigate the validity of the entries. The entries certainly were entitled to know with reasonable promptness any objections to issuing patents on their claims and such objections disposed of within a reasonable time.

"The attention of the land office was directed specifically to those claims in August, 1907. They were investigated by Agents Love and Jones and their findings, together with the results of the investigation of all other Alaska coal locations, were put into Glavis' hands in January, 1908.

"Glavis' Delay Only 'Specious.'" "Glavis had the benefit of the reports of Love and Jones, and all the essential facts relating to the claims seem to have been ascertained by him in the spring of 1908. Indeed, the claimants do not appear to have made any concealment of the facts upon which the claims depended.

"He had upwards of two years to complete the investigations. The land office furnished him with all the assistance he requested. All efforts to induce him to press the investigation met only with requests for further assistance, and criticism of superior officers, as well as of other agents who had been connected with the cases. Every time the general land office urged speedy completion of the work, Glavis advanced specious reasons why he was not ready to proceed to trial.

"Contradiction of a Glavis Claim." "Fourth—Glavis claimed he prevented the government from being defrauded, by procuring the reference to the general of a question of law involved, and through the overruling by him of an opinion written by Pierce which would have enabled the Cunningham claimants to secure patents of their claims. This is disproved by the records, which show that the letter submitting the questions to the attorney general, the form of which was prepared by Schwartz in conference with Glavis and was in part suggested by him, by its terms excluded any possible reference to the Cunningham claims. With the exception of a somewhat ambiguous phrase, "initiation of entry," used by Pierce, his construction of the statute did not differ from that given by the attorney general in his opinion.

"Fifth—The intervention of the forestry service, procured by Glavis, is shown by the record to have been unnecessary to protect the interests of the United States. It was even unnecessary to secure a postponement of the hearing of the Cunningham claims, as Special Agent Sheridan of the land office, who was sent to conduct the hearing of the claims, conducted in the visibility of his postponement of the completion of the field examination.

"Sixth—Glavis' report and summary abound in contradictions and misstatements. He omits, to a degree that amounts to absolute suppression, letters, telegrams and other documents, some of which were in his possession and others of which were available to him, completely rebutting the inferences he seeks to have drawn from those he does submit.

"Inquiry Needlessly Prolonged."

"Seventh—The action of each and every official of the land office referred to in Glavis' charges appears to have been inspired by a proper desire to bring to a conclusion an investigation which had been prolonged beyond all reason, and which, had it been prosecuted with due diligence, and had Glavis properly availed himself of the assistance placed at his disposal, should have been completed and ready for trial not later than the autumn of 1908.

"The claimants were entitled to have the objection to their claims formulated and brought to hearing with reasonable promptness. The interests of the government were not advanced by the long delays in Glavis' actions.

"Says Glavis a Fault Finder."

"Glavis appears at all times to have been prolific in criticisms and fault finding with other officials of the department; desirous of increasing his jurisdiction; ready with reasons for delay, but never ready to complete any duty when he complained to Secretary Ballinger in person that he was being forced into the hearing before he was ready with the necessary evidence, and was referred to Schwartz.

"Glavis' Motives Impugned."

"That he could have had no lack of confidence in Schwartz is shown by a personal letter he wrote Schwartz, dated July 31, 1905, in which he expressed friendship for Schwartz, and told him that, in his opinion, neither Ballinger nor Dennett could last, and advised Schwartz to try for Dennett's place, with the obvious suggestion that he (Glavis) could then take Schwartz's place.

"Glavis' actions appear to have been founded wholly upon an exaggerated sense of his own importance, and his desire for personal advancement rather than upon any genuine desire to protect the interests of the government, and this species of megalomania finally led him to submit charges of improper motives and conduct against his official superiors, which, in my opinion, were so unjust and unfounded as to merit his immediate separation from the service."

"Hood River Fixes Tax Levy."

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hood River, Or., Jan. 6.—The Hood River county court today fixed the tax levy at 11.9 mills. The total valuation of Hood River county is $7,577,242. The city voted a special school tax of 12 mills and a city tax of 7 mills.

In the last fiscal year experts of the department of agriculture inspected for slaughter 56,544,255 animals at 875 establishments in 240 cities and towns.

MILLION ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY

Two Girls Figure in Charge Against Man With Wealthy Name.

Dick Million, accused of contributing to the delinquency of two 17-year-old girls, Nellie Deardorff and Elva Lent, pleaded guilty under one indictment in the circuit court this morning and the other was dismissed. Judge Gantenbein sentenced him to serve one year in jail, but placed him on parole on condition that he furnish $1000 bond or $500 cash bail.

Million is a 20-year-old youth, and has a record in the juvenile court for a similar offense. He was arrested on a train at Oregon City a few weeks ago as he was returning from Los Angeles to Portland. He had been employed as a streetcar conductor.

After disposing of the Million cases Judge Gantenbein began the work of securing a jury for the trial of Oscar Allen, who is charged with a statutory offense, the complaining witness being Elsie Mattes, 14 years old.

young wife started for Portland. Two friends came with her.

"Withheld News From Wife."

The husband had not told her of his trouble, hoping to get it settled without her knowledge. He is 30 years old; his wife is younger. When they were married she was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The couple first met in the squad room. The young wife collapsed and was taken into the private office of Chief Cox.

It was for his wife, Haigh claims, that he stole. It was his plan to dispose of the $1000 worth of plunder and return to her when caught. All his efforts to comfort the woman were futile, but she declared she would remain true and steadfast through the difficulty. The husband and wife talked to each other many minutes. She will remain in the city to visit him each day.

Haigh is a member of an old and respectable family at Pendleton. Report from there states he was in trouble one time over concealing a large quantity of wool. When he came to Portland he was employed as a pruner packer, but when he lost his place he took room at Fifteenth and Franklin streets. He was caught trying to enter a room in the Gladstone apartment house. A search of his room revealed the plunder of 11 burglaries. The greater part of the goods has been identified. He is held on a charge of burglary, and will go before the grand jury.

tion, even though all others were bitter Ballinger partisans, because thereby they would have been assured that such questions would be asked of witnesses and such records produced as would bring out the whole truth.

"Pinchot may ask to be represented by counsel, and that the same privilege be accorded Ballinger." Washington, Jan. 6.—That a final and unalterable tie-up of the Taft administration will take place, with the Cannon-Aldrich regulars against the insurgents led by La Follette, Clapp, Cummins, Briarwood, Murdoch, Madison and Miller, is no longer denied. The administration refers all matters connected with this political warfare to Hitchcock and Nagel, who have been given authority to fight the insurgents in all possible ways, through federal patronage. The insurgents welcome the fight.

BOB EVANS' JAW BRACED FOR NEXT THREE WEEKS

Is Bobby Evans suffering from a fractured left jawbone? One doctor says no and another says yes. However, Bobby has concluded it hurts pretty badly and had the thing braced up by a dentist this morning. He is prepared to take nourishment through a straw during the next three weeks or so.

Evans ran into one of Frankie Edwards' stiff uppercut last month during a boxing match and his jaw has been sore ever since. The other day in practice Dan O'Brien hit him hard on the sore spot and it began to hurt again, when he sought a physician. He says he will be able to box again next month.

N. P. IS CLEARING TRACKS IN MONTANA

Butte, Mont., Jan. 6.—It is thought the Northern Pacific will have cleared the snow blockade near Gray Cliff by tonight, permitting the first west-bound passenger train since Tuesday night to reach this city. The blockade, which was regarded as the worst in Montana for years, covered the tracks with hundreds of tons of snow. A large force of men has been at work since Wednesday clearing the tracks. Heavy stock losses are feared by the eastern Montana stockmen, due to the fall of snow that has buried the pasture lands deep and caught horses and cattle miles from ranch houses.

COUNTY COURT IS ASKED TO BUILD ROAD

Couquille, Or., Jan. 6.—A delegation from Coon Bay headed by the mayors of Marshfield and North Bend and the Circuit court judge are here today appealing to the county court to have the county build a short stretch of new roadway between Marshfield and North Bend. Each city has built the westerly front plank road within the limits and the county is asked to span the gap. This will give an auto road between the two cities, which the entire community is now fighting for.

Many Women Have Diseased Kidneys

And Bladder Troubles Who Suffer Endless Torture, Without Knowing the Nature of Their Ailment, or Its Cause.

This is because women are told that their every sickness is due to "ailments of their sex." The notion that to cure a woman's ailments, it is only necessary to treat the distinctly feminine organs, is one that has caused much unnecessary suffering.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills act at once—and with the most beneficial results—on the organs in question—insure prompt and permanent relief in any cases where the disease has not been too long neglected. These pills may be depended upon to do all that is claimed for them.

They are thoroughly antiseptic—surprisingly healing and cleansing, purifying, and reconstructive in effect—and, containing no opiates, narcotics, or other harmful substances, may be taken in perfect confidence.
