JUDGE WEBSTER SQUANDERS FOUNDLING

Grand Jury Returns Six Indictments Against Men for Obtaining Money Unlawfully.

This was a bad day for passers of bad checks, five indictments of men charged with that crime being returned by the grand jury to Presiding Judge Bronough. In all the grand jury returned six indictments and two not true bills.

DEPUTIES NAB RIVER PIKERS

The two men left the launches and started up the cliff. When they reached the top the officers advanced toward them. Burke recognized the men and pulled his pistol. The constable ordered him to throw up his hands. Gardner fired and the man obeyed.

Two boats were loaded with valuable machine dice, tools, blankets, furniture, a large amount of brass and various other articles. Much of it is new and has never been used. An attempt had been made to disguise the boats. Friedberg lives at Linton. He says he sold the Hattie to one of the men, but they failed to pay for it.

LOOT IS IDENTIFIED.

Captain Speler of the harbor patrol has been working upon the case for several days, and had numerous complaints from people along the river that tools and other articles had been stolen. He located the two launches and notified the constable's office. This morning W. E. Roberts of the Willamette Motor Boat club identified much of the loot.

The two men under arrest are ex-convicts. Burke has been living at St. Johns and Fern has been living along the river in scows the past year. Lately he has had charge of the "Hattie."

The towboat did not make the attempt. The Legouve has a general cargo for Kerr, Gifford & Co. The barkentine Retriever is expected to finish loading 100,000 feet of lumber at Stella, for California ports today.

When Work of Drawing Jury List Began Today He Plainly Told Committee It Treated Him Unfairly.

Accompanied by sharp thrusts and parries, with Judge Webster and County Commissioner Lightner and Barnes on one side, and a committee of the Multnomah County Bar association composed of Alex. Bernstein, W. M. Davis and John H. Stevenson on the other, the annual drawing of the jury list for the coming year took place in the office of the county clerk yesterday afternoon.

NO SUGGESTIONS TOLERATED.

Judge Webster, in opening the little conference, also made it plain that he and the commissioners would tolerate no suggestions from the outside in drawing names, as that would be contrary to the intent of the law. He said he was at a loss to understand what the bar association committee wanted or expected to see.

SAYS ASSOCIATION UNFAIR.

"And we will get no information from the newspapers," replied Judge Webster. "It seems to me that the bar association was unfair in adopting a resolution which implied that something was wrong, creating a stir in the newspapers. That is unnecessary."

SAIS COURT DOESN'T COMPLY.

Later in the discussion Bernstein maintained that the county court does not comply with the law in the manner the list is made up, a point on which he and Judge Webster flatly disagreed. Bernstein maintained that taking the names from the personal property list is not in compliance with the requirement that the names be taken from the assessment roll.
