

UNKNOWN PERSON, SAYS JURY, SHOT JOHN P. DREW, 18

Investigation Shows Threats Had Been Made Against St. Helens Boy Who Met Death Friday Night.

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.)
Rialto, Or., Jan. 22.—The coroner's inquest over the remains of John P. Drew at St. Helens returned the following verdict today: "That the deceased came to his death at a place about 24 miles south of Houlton on the evening of January 21, 1910, by reason of a gunshot wound in the head, caused by a .38-caliber revolver in the hands of a person of persons unknown."
John P. Drew was 18 years of age, and was living and working with his father, William Drew, at St. Helens. He was well known and of good character, and on the evening of his death he had left his father and started for Houlton to attend school. He left Houlton about 9:30 in the evening to return to his home, and was not seen alive after that.

A party of workmen found his body this morning lying in the road on the outskirts of St. Helens. He had told several of his friends that some one had written him threatening postal cards, warning him to look out for himself. He borrowed a gun from Stewart McKie, telling him that he needed it for self-protection.
He had been keeping company with Miss Hattie Smith, of Houlton. The sheriff has made no statement as to any arrest to be made. The funeral will be held at Houlton Monday.

HABEAS CORPUS FOR MORSE IS COUNSEL'S PLAN

Wise said he would present the evidence to the January grand jury some time next week and that Farnside would be called to testify as a witness and there would be no trouble in reindicting the Montana copper man.

Helms Held for Conspiracy.

Helms and his brother, Arthur P. Charles Warfield, Calvin O. Geer and Sanford Robinson, Helms' former counsel, will appear before Judge Hough on Monday and plead to the conspiracy indictment which charges them with having spirited away the books of the United Copper company and thus impeded the administration of justice. With regard to the decision of Judge Hough, Messrs. Levy, Rosenthal & Hermance, Helms' lawyers, made the following statement tonight:

"Much as Mr. Helms appreciates the decision in his favor, he regrets that the court could not get into the grounds for dismissal alleged and which really touched upon all the matters that were charged against him. It would have been of interest to know whether the district attorney has the right to withhold from the grand jury facts and documents directly contrary to the allegations set forth in the indictment. Thus the loan made to Helms by the bank of $500,000 alleged as being inadequately secured, was said to be safely secured by collateral worth almost $2,000,000 and which is now worth almost $1,000,000.

"The indictment gives the impression that all of the loans were lost to the bank, but it would have looked different to the grand jury had they known that $110,000 was paid off by Otto Helms & Co. on the loan of $125,000 within a few days after the loan, and that on another loan $100,000 was paid off within a few days after the making of the loan, and that the bank had realized $184,000 on only a part of the collateral; that the court could not get into the grounds for dismissal alleged and which really touched upon all the matters that were charged against him. It would have been of interest to know whether the district attorney has the right to withhold from the grand jury facts and documents directly contrary to the allegations set forth in the indictment. Thus the loan made to Helms by the bank of $500,000 alleged as being inadequately secured, was said to be safely secured by collateral worth almost $2,000,000 and which is now worth almost $1,000,000.

BODIES FROZEN IN BLOCKS OF ICE RECOVERED

handed up to me to pass along the line of rescuers. As I took him the wind blew the blanket aside and he was so horribly crushed that it was hard to believe he was human. I said: 'Are you all right, little boy?' And he answered cheerfully: 'Yes, I am feeling fine, but my mother is down there in the water.' I saw one man make his way from the colonist car to the bridge, apparently unhurt. He endeavored to walk a little farther on, but fell from the bridge and was drowned.

"At Weddwood last night a woman whose name I do not know was inquiring about her husband, who had been on the train with her, but left her side just before the wreck occurred. He was lying dead in a freight car at the station, but none of us was brave enough to tell her."

"I brought to the attention of the total dead will reach at least 40."

Another survivor who has reached here said:

Bravery of Woman.

"The most terrible thing I saw was a young Norwegian woman about 25 years of age. When we extricated her from the burning half of the second-class car she had three wounds on her forehead. Her right leg was horribly crushed above the ankle, laying the flesh bare to the bone. In that condition she walked up the track away from the burning car and sat at the side of the track for five hours, waiting the coming of the physicians. So great was the wound in her leg that the physician's needle would not reach across it, and I had to hold the parts together while the doctor sewed it up. She did not wrince or move a muscle.

"The worst thing was the helplessness of these of us who were saved. The river was frozen 15 inches deep, and the heavy cars cut clean through the ice, not breaking it for more than a foot on each side."
Conductor Reynolds places the total dead at 40.

WAR OF HARRIMAN AND HILL ROADS OVER LAND ENDS

sued by Messrs. Cotton and Stevens:
"At a conference of the officials of the Deschutes Railroad company and the Oregon Trunk Railway company, held in Chicago last week, all differences between the two companies in regard to right of way and entrance into Central Oregon via the Deschutes valley were settled to the mutual satisfaction of each party."

"Under this agreement the Deschutes company will occupy the east side of the river and the Oregon Trunk company the west side, in the lower valley, for about 70 miles above the Columbia river, each company relinquishing its rights on the side to be occupied by the other. The Deschutes company will, through the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, grant the Oregon Trunk a crossing over the Oregon Railroad & Navigation line at Celilo, and will convey to the Oregon Trunk the right of way the latter company requires through the lands of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company along the Columbia river.

"The Oregon Trunk will complete its line along the east side of the Deschutes river opposite the Warm Springs Indian reservation, taking over from the Deschutes company whatever rights or property the latter may have acquired on the east side of the river. The Deschutes company will occupy the west bank of the river for 12 miles through the Warm Springs reservation. The grades of the two lines will be separated at points where they cross each other.

"The Oregon Trunk company will grant to the Deschutes company the right to use the bridge of the Oregon Trunk company across Crooked river and at all other points in the vicinity of Crooked river and south of Madras. Where conflicts have existed arrangements have been agreed upon.

"All of this arrangement is subject to and conditioned upon the prompt and expeditious approval by the proper officers of the interior department of the maps of the relocated line of the Deschutes company through the Warm Springs Indian reservation on a water level grade."

CANNON IN WRATH

announcement of Representative Foster of Vermont, a member of the campaign committee, that he could not hope for reelection if he did not come out in open opposition to Speaker Cannon and declare he would not again vote for Cannon for speaker. The announcement came as a surprise to members of the committee, who had no knowledge that the anti-Cannon sentiment had spread throughout New England.

Cannon Gets Angry.

Speaker Cannon was not present when Representative Foster declared himself. He came in later with Vice-President Sherman. Someone told the speaker of Foster's declaration. In anger, the speaker turned on Foster, who has been one of the staunchest organization men and a friend of the speaker and made a bitter speech denouncing his criticism and uttering his defiance to his enemies, declared that he would stand for election to congress and broadly intimated he would again be a candidate for speaker. Representative Foster interrupted the speaker's flow of language and enough to assure the speaker that there was nothing personal in his (Foster's) position but that it was demanded by the political exigencies.

Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut interjected the remark that Mr. Foster might speak for Vermont, but he could not speak for New England. He asserted that hostility to Cannon did not exist in all the states of the section.

Cannonism to Be Minimized.

After Speaker Cannon had taken his departure there was a general canvass of the political situation from a Republican standpoint. All the members of the committee realized that Cannon and Cannonism would be an issue, but it was determined to minimize this issue as far as possible and to play up the return of prosperity, the merits of the tariff law and the progressive policies of President Taft. Literature to this end will be rushed out to the voters as soon as it can be got into shape.

The insurgent members of the campaign committee—Foster, Hinshaw of Nebraska and Woods of Iowa—got from the committee assurances that there should be no discrimination practiced against the insurgents. They are to get their proportion of the committee funds and the issuance of hurtful literature will be discontinued. This is considered a victory for the insurgents. There were many indications last hidden with big canvas coverings, commenced to arrive. Many more were to be delivered during the night, while the remainder will come during the day. It required the services of three special officers to keep the curious people away from the exhibits.

Aeroplanes To Be Shown.

It has been decided that the aeroplanes will be shown in the gymnasium on the second floor. E. Henry Wempe's machine is to arrive early tomorrow morning, while Howard M. Covey, who has been in Los Angeles learning to operate the machine, will arrive on the same train. In his absence the Covey Motor Car company's exhibit has been arranged by Elliott E. Brett. It is now complete. The exhibit is to be one of the most attractive in the show and many interesting features are to be offered.

On the late train yesterday the exhibits of the Portland Motor Car company and the Locomobile agency, Nease & McCarthy, arrived. The Portland Motor Car company's exhibit includes a specially equipped Winton touring car, the property of G. K. Wentworth, Jr. of this city. It is equipped with all the modern conveniences. Several exhibits are expected on trains arriving late tonight and early Monday morning. The H. L. Keats company is expecting several cars. The Speedwell agency, Frank C. Riggs of the Packard agency, the Maxwell agency and several others are expecting cars on these late trains, and they will be placed in position as soon as they arrive.

FOUR PACKING HOUSES DO YEARLY BUSINESS TOTALING $700,000,000

(Publishers' Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, Jan. 22.—Four of Chicago's biggest firms are concerned in the coming investigations. They are Swift, Armour, Morris and the National Packing company. The business which these houses transact yearly as revealed by the public statements required by the state of Massachusetts is as follows: Swift, $250,000,000; Armour, $240,000,000; Morris, $110,000,000; National Packing company, $100,000,000. Total, $700,000,000.

Possible Government Action.

The attack which the agents of the government contemplate presents three possibilities, as follows: Criminal prosecution of the packers for alleged violation of the federal anti-trust law. Punishment in case of conviction would be $5000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year; civil suits against the National Packing company attacking its right to continue business, in alleged violation of the anti-trust laws; dissolution of the company would be the punishment sought; inauguration of proceedings in contempt of the injunction imposed by Judge Grosscup five years ago forbidding fixing of prices or restraining trade; punishment would be whatever the court saw fit to impose.

Women Ready for War.

One of the most remarkable manifestations of aroused public sentiment over the increase in the cost of living in the manner in which the wives of high officials are cooperating in militant measures of retaliation against the trust.

Interesting Interviews.

A number of prominent women of the social and official set of the national capital and daughters of the Revolution gave interesting interviews today of the national anti-trust work. Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, wife of the assistant secretary of war, and one of the most exclusive hostesses of the capital city, said:

"Something has to be done to reduce the price of food. If something is not done to remedy this evil we will have an enormous impoverished and starving population on our hands. Our poor people will become as miserable as the peasantry of Europe."
Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, a founder of the daughters of the American Revolution, believes thoroughly in the proposed boycott against high priced foods.

Mrs. Brewer Talks.

Mrs. David J. Brewer, wife of the associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, and a prominent member of the Housekeepers' alliance, said:

"This good work will be followed over the country. I am sure. I am in thorough sympathy with the work of the National Anti-Trust league and will cooperate with it to the full extent of my powers."
Mrs. Thomas F. Gore, wife of the blind senator from Oklahoma, expressed herself as being in hearty sympathy with the work of the National Anti-Trust league.
"I am willing to join any movement that will lower the price of foodstuffs," she said. "The lowering of the price of food is our most vital national necessity just now."
Anti-Trust League.
Meanwhile the officers of the National Anti-Food Trust league are perfecting the details of their organization. Commenting today on the plan to combat high prices by abstinance from meat, Dr. Schmitt, president of the league, said:

WILD RIOTS IN WELSH BOROUGH OF LLOYD-GEORGE

be considered. General political opinion is that the vote of the Nationalists in the forthcoming parliament on all big questions will depend on the completeness of the leadership of John Redmond.

Twenty-four constituencies returned parliamentary members today, but the results in only seven of the 24 elections have been announced. The other 17 will not be made public before Monday afternoon owing to the closeness of the votes. The seven announced tonight show that in the north of England and in Scotland the Liberals gained two seats in the house of commons.

The elections thus far show that 218 Conservative members of the commons have been selected, while the Liberals have been successful with 188 candidates, the Laborites with 33 and the Nationalists or Irish-home rule party, with 86. Of the seats voted for so far, the Conservatives have gained 86 seats more than in the last house of commons.

It is at least certain that the Nationalists will cooperate with the Liberals and Laborites, to the extent of abolishing the veto power of the house of lords.

Liberal Ministerial Control.

The voting thus far indicates there will be satisfactory Liberal-Laborite majority over the Conservatives to warrant the Liberals in acquiring the ministerial control, though it is not believed that this majority will reach 40, which was the minimum figure named by Liberal leaders yesterday.

It is not likely that a new administration will last more than a year, on account of the instability of the Irish support.
The introduction of the home rule bill itself may cause the rupture as there are many Liberals as well as Conservatives who are unalterably opposed to this measure.
If the Liberals are able to stave off another election for a year, they are confident of a tremendous trade revival in the interim, which will greatly enhance their chances of a more sweeping victory in the next election. There are already many symptoms of improved industrial conditions, which would probably already have materialized had it not been for the business nervousness due to the uncertainties of the election.
Such a business revival, it is believed, would effectually silence the Conservatives' tariff reform slogan, their strongest issue.
The moderate element of the Liberals will surely urge Premier Asquith to

INVENTOR TO SHOW HOME AUTO WHEEL

Shock Absorbed by Springs and No Rubber Necessary in Construction.

An invention will be placed on display for the first time at the Portland show which promises to create interest in the automobile world. This device is a wheel designed to take the place of the present pneumatic tires. It is a home product, invented, perfected, tried out and promoted in Portland. Knowing full well the records of the thousands of attempts which have been and are being made to solve the tire problem, those interested in the new invention have avoided publicity.
This invention consists of a peculiarly constructed hub, so arranged that every shock is absorbed by several springs acting in unison. It has been put under the severest tests possible, and it is claimed that it has met them.
To Walter G. Royce, a young Portland mechanic, is due credit for the inception of the idea, and O. J. Hobson, mechanical engineer, has perfected and made practical the device. Several automobile mechanics have examined and tested it, and speak very highly of it.
The Royce people have fitted up an E. M. F. 30 Studebaker car with new wheels, and will keep it standing near the main entrance to the show, convenient for use of those who may wish to make a practical tryout of the new invention.

BIG FINE FOR DRIVING HORSES FROM RANGE

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., Jan. 22.—A sequel to the famous Morse horse stealing case was enacted in the local court today when three of the defendants, Clarence and Harry Morse and Roy Ellsworth, were fined $2000 each on the charge of driving horses more than ten miles from the range. These men, with John Pambrun, indicted for larceny of four horses, stood trial twice. At first the jury disagreed, and on the second a verdict for acquittal was found. They were indicted at the same time on the second charge, with the result that the county is $6000 richer.

eliminate the increased land tax and some of the other radical and Socialist reforms that Chancellor Lloyd-George intimates he will include in the new budget.
If the increased land tax is abandoned, there is little doubt that the lords would accept the budget as a satisfactory compromise.
A sign that points to a big lot of trouble is the likelihood that King Edward, in view of the smallness of the Liberal victory, will conclude that the creation of 400 or 500 new Liberal peers, is unwarranted.
His refusal to do so would be a knock-out blow to the plan to destroy the veto of the lords.
The elevation of the necessary number of members of the house of lords to the peers would deplete the commons and almost make another general election necessary to fill the vacancies.

WOMEN OLD AND YOUNG ESTEEM PE-RU-NA HIGHLY.

As a Reliable Tonic. As a Household Remedy. As an Honest and Safe Medicine.

As a Remedy For Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. Augusta Pauline Ochs, R. F. D. 2, North English, Iowa, writes: "I took Peruna over three years. I suffered from systemic catarrh and had pains in my right side so I could hardly do any housework."
"I am 66 years old, and am now doing all my housework. I am in the best of health, and cannot thank Dr. Hartman enough for his advice and medicine."

A Family Medicine.

A family, or domestic, medicine is a medicine compounded in such a way that people who know little or nothing of drugs can use it without the advice of a physician.
There is nothing to prevent competent physicians from unting and agreeing as to what compounds best meet the general necessities and supply them, with proper directions for use, saving not only the expense, but annoyance, of a separate visit from a physician for every little ail for which a few doses of medicine are useful.

We do not recommend Peruna as a cure-all. We do, however, believe that it is a very useful remedy for catarrh in all its forms and phases. We do not ask the public to believe our statements unless backed up by evidence from those who have used it.

Coughs and Colds.

Mrs. Lena O'Byrne, 626 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., writes:
"I've had Peruna in our household for a good many years. I took it for a cough and a tonic. My husband used it, and thinks there is nothing like it for hay fever, from which he suffered for years."
"I also give it to my children for coughs and colds, and my daughter, Mary, was cured of catarrh of the head by Peruna. It certainly is a medicine of unquestioned merit."

Throat Difficulties.

Mathilda Koch, Orange, Md., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Peruna as a medicine."
"I was subject to catarrh of the head and throat until I tried Peruna. After taking eight bottles, Peruna cured me."
"It also acts as a special preventive of throat difficulties. It keeps me in fine health, and I value its fine qualities very much."
"We all use Peruna in the family, and there are seven of us. I recommend it to my neighbors, and they all take it."

An Affliction of Head.

Maria Easley, Sidell, La., writes:
"This is to certify that I have had an affliction in the head for two years. I tried Peruna and today I feel like another person."

"A Healthy Woman Today, Thanks to Pe-ru-na."

Mrs. L. A. Gray, 137 Main St., Menasha, Wis., writes:
"I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for so many years that I thought there was no cure for it, and that I would have to go on suffering to the end of my days."
"When I caught cold my head and throat would be so stopped up that I could hardly breathe, and there was a dropping in my throat which was very nauseating, and made my breath bad and my stomach all out of order. Mother suggested that I try Pe-ru-na, as she knew of some people who had used it with beneficial results."
"I bought a couple of bottles and decided to see what it would do for me. I did not take many doses before I knew I had the right medicine, and am pleased to say that in less than two months all the catarrh was gone."
"I am a healthy woman today, thanks to Peruna."

Feels Better, Weighs More.

Miss Bessie S. Jordan, 212 Jackson St., Fairmont, W. Va., a teacher in the public schools of Fairmont, during September, 1904, wrote to Dr. Hartman as follows:
"I have catarrh of the head and have begun to take Peruna. I am greatly relieved. I was sick from the 16th of August till the 12th of September with congestion of the lungs and a slight attack of typhoid fever. Since then my catarrh is worse."
After following Dr. Hartman's instructions for some time, Miss Jordan writes:
"I am feeling better now than I ever felt in my life. My words of praise cannot be too high for Peruna. I weigh more than I ever weighed. I thank you for the interest you have taken in my case, and the prompt attention given my letters."

System All Run Down.

Mrs. James Murphy, St. Ignace, Michigan, writes:
"I have spent hundreds of dollars for medicines of all descriptions, in the past twenty years or more, but I have never gotten anything that did me as much good or acted as promptly as Peruna."
"I was run down to the last notch with what is termed a general broken up system, but how I am a different woman. I cannot say too good a word for Peruna."

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mrs. Ellen Ensminger, Foster, Wash., member Mt. Hood Circle No. 151, Women of Woodcraft, writes:
"I am pleased to say a good word for Peruna. I have used it in my household for a long time. Used it first for a catarrh of the head and throat, and it cured me in a short time. Then I used it before and after baby came, for two months."
"It restored me to splendid health, and I would not know how to keep house without this medicine."

Headache and Neuralgia.

Mrs. M. Kliner, 2648 E. 26th St., S. E., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:
"I am enjoying good health since I have taken your medicine. I had suffered for a good many years previous to taking Peruna, and ever since I can say that I can never know what headache or neuralgia is."

Troubled with Eyes.

Mrs. S. T. Ritchie, Ranch, Va., writes:
"My eyes became sore last fall, and I used simple remedies, but to no good. I have used one bottle of Peruna, and am glad to say that my eyes are well."

Head and Throat Now Clear.

Miss Maud Bourgard, 260 12th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:
"I was afflicted for two years with catarrh of the throat. At first it was very slight, but every cold I took made it worse."
"I followed your directions, and in a very short time I began to improve. I took one bottle and am now taking my second. I can safely say that my throat and head are cleared from catarrh at the present time, but I still continue to take my usual dose for a spring tonic, and I find there is nothing better."

Words cannot express how thankful I feel for my cure, as I did not know the comfort of a good night's sleep till now. I was continually bothered with my breathing. I could scarcely breathe through my nose at all. But now I go to bed and sleep the whole night through without any trouble."
The Pe-ru-na Tablet.
This tablet is composed of the compressed solid contents of the remedy, Peruna. The herbs, roots and berries that constitute the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, with the addition of hypophosphites and pepsin, are made into a neat tablet, not disagreeable to the taste, and in some cases of catarrhal diseases, quite as effective as the fluid Peruna would be.
