

GRANGERS RAP PRACTICES OF COMMISSIONERS

Klickitat County Men in Resolution Declare Officials Are Conducting Affairs Very Arbitrarily.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Goldendale, Wash., Feb. 22.—The following resolutions were passed at the last meeting of Klickitat County Pomona grange No. 5:

"Be it resolved, That we need a revolution in our text books and course of study eliminating the non-essential and substituting industrial training and agriculture and that we need to extend greater deference to the man on the farm. We must desist working for the upbuilding of large cities and work for the upbuilding of our rural districts.

Help the Young People.
"Be it resolved, That we extend our regards to the Goldendale Municipal league in its endeavor to put a reading room in the city of Goldendale for the purpose of having a place that the young people of Goldendale and the surrounding country may have a place to come and spend their leisure time and read books and papers and to extend a chat, and that we will aid them to the best of our abilities; therefore, be it—

"Resolved, That we support them and extend a helping hand to all such worthy efforts.

"Resolved, That we, the Patrons of Husbandry, of grange No. 85, Klickitat county, Washington, in meeting assembled, protest against the proposed tax on periodicals, provide local parcels post, continue the R. F. D., improve the postal service, cut down the excessive payments to railroads for carrying mail, supply postal currency and bring the postage up to date.

Condemn Lefawn Bill.
"Whereas, We have authoritative information that a redraft of what is known as the Lefawn bill, which, among other things, provides for the regulation and size of fruit boxes, and more especially apple boxes, with all the objectionable features in relation thereto, is to be urged as a departmental amendment to the pure food law; and

"Whereas, Such a measure enacted into law would be extremely detrimental to the apple industry and fruit growers of the Pacific northwest; now, therefore, be it—

"Resolved, That we, the Patrons of Husbandry of Enterprise grange No. 85 of Klickitat county, state of Washington, in meeting assembled, and condemn the measure and method employed in getting it enacted into law, and we earnestly request that you work for and use all your influence for the defeat of said measure; and

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Pomona grange and to each of our representatives and senators in congress.

Establish Purchasing Agency.
"Whereas, We, the grangers and farmers of this community have to pay an exorbitant price for farm machinery, wagons and other necessities,

"Whereas, By establishing a grange purchasing agency the grange of this community would save a large amount of cash; therefore, be it—

"Resolved, That this Pomona grange appoint a committee to get prices net delivered at Goldendale, with a view of establishing a purchasing agency.

"Whereas, Our county officers seem to enjoy going to meetings of their respective offices at the expense of the taxpayers; and, whereas, we understand there is no law where they can collect fares for the same; and, whereas, our so-called county attorney lets all such things pass without trying to put a stop to the same; therefore, be it—

"Resolved, That the master of the county grange be instructed to appoint a committee of three to employ a competent attorney to bring these cases before the court.

Rap at Commissioners.
"As the county commissioners seem to be doing things contrary to the law, which requires that all county work amounting to over $150 shall be let by contract to the lowest bidder; and, whereas, we understand that they received a bid for the repairs on the courthouse according to a bond from competent men to do the work for $1875; and, whereas, we are informed that it cost the county twice that amount; and we are also informed that the county auditor has been provided with labor saving machines whereby he can do double the work he could do without them; therefore, be it—

"Resolved, That we condemn the action of the commissioners in allowing three or four deputies, thus adding expenses to the county.

"Be it resolved, That the abolishment of the liquor traffic in its entirety is the goal which we are ultimately striving for and that each step toward the furthering of this desired end be welcomed; and that we unanimously adopt a resolution condemning the liquor traffic and putting the members on record officially favoring local option; and that we pledge ourselves to work in harmony as nearly as possible with any organization that has for its object the suppression of the saloons in this fair land of ours; and, be it further—

"Resolved, That we further commend the people of Goldendale for abolishing the saloons from the city and extend to them our extreme support in keeping it a dry town; and, furthermore, we congratulate Brother George H. Darland for so forcibly impressing the ideas to the people of the county have an interest and possibly a right to see that the city of Goldendale was conducted in a civil and legal way, which we claim is right; and we also extend a vote of thanks to Rev. William Dewees in so ably and truthfully defending the local option cause, and so ably refuting the

MASONS TO HONOR GEN. WASHINGTON

Will Erect Memorial to His Memory—Relics of Initiation Retained.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 22.—A movement for the erection of a national Masonic memorial to George Washington was officially launched today at a national gathering of eminent Masons, held under the auspices of the Alexandria-Washington lodge of this city. Grand master Masons from many sections of the country attended the meeting this morning, at which a national organization was formed to carry out the project. Later in the day the visitors journeyed by special train to Mount Vernon to place a wreath on the tomb of Washington.

George Washington was initiated as a member of Masonic Lodge No. 4, of Fredericksburg, on November 4, 1752. No unusual display was made at his initiation, and the only relics of the occasion handed down by the lodge are the records, the Bible on which he took the oath, the certificate or check for two pounds and three shillings, fee for entrance, and the punchbowl which figured so conspicuously at the feast following the degree work.

These relics are highly valued by the Fredericksburg lodge. The Bible is in a perfect state of preservation, except for a slight discoloration of the leaves by age. Only on one occasion were the relics ever taken out of the city or state, that occasion being the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Washington's initiation into Masonry. They were taken then to Philadelphia, where they were displayed to the members of Meridian Sun Lodge No. 158.

The minutes of the Fredericksburg lodge speak of the occasion of Washington's initiation in a most casual way, the secretary noting "Washington's presence but not that he had received a degree."

On the occasion of his receiving the second degree, the secretary noted it in his minutes in a more elaborate style than on the occasion of his first degree. This degree was conferred the following year, August 4, 1753, the third degree was conferred on him, on which occasion the minutes not only give a record of the business of the evening, but also named those present and their official designation.

In 1777, when the grand lodge of Virginia was organized, Washington was tendered the exalted position of grand master of Masons of Virginia, the highest honor that could be bestowed upon him. He had the honor also of being the first master of Alexandria-Washington lodge No. 22, over which lodge he presided at the time of his death.

Depew Reads Farewell Address.
Washington, Feb. 22.—All official business was suspended in the capital today in observance of the holiday. The Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the Cincinnati and other organizations held their usual exercises and numerous receptions were given in honor of the day. During the forenoon the senate gallery was filled with a large throng assembled to hear a reading of Washington's farewell address by Senator Depew.

Notables at Banquet.
Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22.—Following its annual custom, the Creve Coeur club of this city has engaged a notable array of speakers for its Washington banquet tonight. The list includes Senator Don Enrique Creel, the Mexican ambassador, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, General Frederick D. Grant, and Representative J. Sloot Fassett of New York.

Governor Hughes Lauds Washington.
Philadelphia, Feb. 22.—Following an annual custom inaugurated nearly 100 years ago, the University of Pennsylvania today observed the anniversary of Washington's birthday with exercises appropriate to the occasion. The oration of the day was delivered by Governor Hughes of New York. Following the addresses a number of honorary degrees were conferred.

A Safeguard to Children.
"Our two children of six and eight years have been since infancy subject to colds and croup. About three years ago, I started to use Foley's Honey and Tar, and it has never failed to prevent and cure these troubles. It is the only medicine I can get the children to take without a row." The above from W. C. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis., duplicates the experience of thousands of other users of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cures coughs, colds and croup and prevents bronchitis and pneumonia. 444 ACRES IN DUFUR VALLEY BRING $30,000

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Dufur, Or., Feb. 22.—One of the largest real estate deals ever made in Wasco county, was completed Monday morning when 444 acres in the heart of the Dufur valley was sold by W. T. Vandepool to Melvin Sigman. The consideration was $30,000.

Almost all this land is bottom land, the greater portion of it being in timber, the rest of it is pasture and wheat land. The tract includes what is known as the old Lou Henderson donation claim of 200 acres, one of the oldest settled tracts in the state.

ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST NOVELIST

Charles Brockden Brown Died 100 Years Ago Today—First Story Writer.

Philadelphia, Feb. 22.—This day marks the one hundredth anniversary of the death in this city of Charles Brockden Brown, to whom historians accord the distinction of having been the first American novelist, as well as the first American to take up literature as a profession capable of yielding one a livelihood.

Brown was born in Philadelphia, January 17, 1771, and was of Quaker descent. From early childhood he was physically delicate, but intellectually precocious. Before he was 10 years old he had read every book he could procure. From his eleventh to his sixteenth year he was a pupil of Robert Proud, the historian. Geography was his favorite study and he acquired an astonishing knowledge of the subject. Constant devotion to his studies and lack of exercise in the fresh air undermined his delicate health and led to the development of the germs of consumption which later ended his brilliant career.

He began to study law in the office of Alexander Wilson of the Philadelphia bar, but in his spare time he wrote essays and poetry and devoted himself to the study of literature. After a short time Brown abandoned the study of law and devoted himself exclusively to literature, the first professional writer of this country. Among other things he wrote "The Dialogues of Alcayn" (1797); a series of papers under the head of "The Man at Home" for the Weekly Magazine and numerous other magazine articles and essays. His first novel, "Wieland, or the Transformation," appeared in 1798. Soon five others followed, "Arthur Mervyn," "Edgar Huntley," "Sky-Walk, or the Man Unknown to Himself," "Ormond" (1799); "Jane Talbot" (1801); "Clara Howard" (1801). In November, 1804, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. William Linn of New York.

TRAINMAN ERRED IN WAY HE JUMPED

In jumping from a runaway logging train, August Johanson should have picked a soft place to fall, instead of butting into a steep bank. This is the contention of the Bradley Logging company in defending a suit for $25,000 damages in the circuit court before Judge Cleland and a jury. The case was called for trial yesterday.

Johanson was injured on April 5, 1909, the second day he worked for the company. He says he began the first day as a common laborer, but the next day the company put him to work as brakeman on a logging train running from a sawmill near Cathlamet, Wash., to the Columbia river. The train ran away and was ditched.

The company in defense says if Johanson had jumped on the other side of the track he would have had a good place to light. As it was his head was split open and he spent one month in the hospital.

OVERRULES DEMURRER IN MISS DUPONT'S CASE

Federal Judge R. S. Bean handed down an opinion yesterday in the case of the United States against Jeanne Rose Dupont, who was accused of perjury in falsely stating in her petition for naturalization that she had been a resident of the state of Oregon for more than a year prior to the filing of the petition.

The opinion was handed down as a result of the filing of a demurrer declaring that the complaint did not contain facts sufficient to constitute a crime. The point that untruthful declaration in a petition for naturalization did not constitute forgery, her counsel holding that the petition was extra-judicial or preliminary. Judge Bean overruled the demurrer.
