

"CHRIST SAVIOUR OF ALL," IS DR. CORBY'S SUBJECT

Tells How Jesus Took Place as Conqueror on Palm Sunday; Large Congregation in Universalist Church Attends.

"Christ the Saviour of All," was the theme of the Palm Sunday sermon delivered by Rev. James Diamond Corby before a large and interested audience in the Universalist Church of Good Tidings, Broadway and East Twenty-fourth street, taking Luke 19:28, for his text.

On Palm Sunday Jesus took his place as a conqueror. The vast multitude who had come to Jerusalem for the Passover were like some splendid electric tower with a million bulbs ready as soon as the electric current was turned into them to blaze forth and drive away the darkness of the night.

During his public ministry they had heard much of the prophet of Nazareth, always with the growing love which his teaching and life of loving words by which the multitudes were drawn to him.

People are very conservative in matters of religion, unless it wear the dress to which they have been accustomed, and follow the rites and use the phrases and dogmas of an earlier age.

Christ emphasized this truth through his ministry—by his fruits ye shall know them. By this shall all know that ye are my disciples, that ye have love one to another.

This truth lifted the great multitude as the tide lifts the ships in the river. They waved the palms, and with the pilgrims from Bethany they sang the hymns of praise, Hosanna in the highest.

This mighty outbreak of popular religious enthusiasm was at once pathetic and prophetic. The palms lay in the fact that some who follow afar off would in five days cry "crucify him."

Passion week is a warning against ecclesiastical prejudice, and the spirit of exclusion and petty narrowness, all too common among provincial minds.

Though the triumph of Christ was short it was prophetic. Every fine day of warmth and sunshine increases our conviction that the winter is past, the time of the singing of birds is come.

When Christ said, "If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me, little of his coming victories were apparent. The wars were numerous and cruel. Each tribe and nation conspired and all outside their little zone as enemies.

But Christ taught us to say "Our Father," taught us that all were brothers. He commissioned the disciples to go into all the world and teach them that blessed and kindling truth.

These are doomed. "Class legislation and partialism are doomed, like the ox cart and the walled city, and the idea that God only loves a select few. The new watchword of civilization is the unity made of one blood all the nations that dwell upon the earth."

Palm Sunday prophesies the complete triumph of Christ because he overcomes.

AUTO OVERTURNS; 6 OCCUPANTS HURT

Machine Rips Out Seven Six Inch Posts on Curve in the City Park.

Six persons quit enjoying a ride through the city in an automobile yesterday had narrow escapes from death in the City Park, where their machine ran too close to the fence along the driveway overhanging the reservoir, but a post threw them out of the machine and down the bank.

Eye witnesses of the accident all agree that the cause of the accident was the recklessness of the driver, Ben Newman. Newman was driving his machine along the fence when he rounded a gradual curve.

The hub cap on the right front wheel was broken off by the impact with the first fence post and the machine pulled into the fence, tearing out seven six-inch posts and over 60 feet of fence. The occupants were thrown from the car, two of them painfully injured and all bruised and cut.

The speed with which the machine was traveling is shown by the fact that seven fence posts set eight feet apart were torn either wholly or partially before the machine was brought to a stop. When it did come to rest a slender twisted iron cable kept it from rolling down the 20 foot embankment down which its occupants had already been thrown.

The machine was slightly damaged. The hub cap on the right front wheel was broken off. The glass front was broken, the front wheels knocked back four inches on the springs and the steering rod across the front of the car slightly bent. It will probably cost $100 to repair it.

At first report some blame was laid to the machine, it being alleged that the steering gear was damaged. An investigation made by three prominent automobile men, P. A. Combs, vice president of the Portland Automobile Dealers' association, J. A. Critchdon, of the Columbia Trust company, and formerly manager of the Studebaker Bros. north-west, and W. B. Glafke, commission merchant, showed that the machine suffered only from the collision with the fence posts and that the real cause of the car plunging into the fence was the collision with the first fence post.

The driver undoubtedly ran too close to the fence, said the investigators, and it was the catching of the hub cap on the post that pulled the machine into the fence. Eye witnesses all tell us that the car was running at a high rate of speed.

The members of the party most painfully injured were Miss Beesie Lambert, a resident of the Rex hotel, and her companion Miss Inez Harvey. Miss Lambert was painfully bruised and scratched in her fall and one ankle suffered a bad sprain. Miss Harvey was bruised and cut painfully. The other members of the party, Violet Schaeffer, Georgia Gregg, James Thurston and Louis Gossman were only scratched.

and waves from sin. It is wonderful to see a shepherd dog and learn that he has been led up from a pack of wolves, but a greater marvel is the irresistible upward march of men under the leadership of Christ. A year ago a godly company met on the site of this church, and the officers of the parish broke ground for the temple that has now taken form.

Chosen for Service. "Every timber, every shape and color has been chosen for the service of humanity, and so for Christ, who said, 'Inasmuch as ye do for the least of these my brethren, ye do it for me.' Christ is here today in this humble house of worship, here in this lowly ministry. As long ago as Olivet he looked over the multitude to see who were for him and who against him, so today he looks over our city.

What palm branch are you waving, what Hosanna are you singing to his praise and glory? What time and means are you giving to hasten and assure that Christ's victory shall be nothing less than universal? He rides today here as he rode in Palestine long ago, and the practical test of our love for him is just the measure of effort and time we consecrate to establishing his spirit among the men and women who walk by our side. May we be such loyal laborers with Christ that we shall hasten that day of which prophets and poets have sung when all shall know and love and serve him evermore.

Two Grand Daughters of Standard Oil Magnate Will Inherit $15,000,000.

Cincinnati, March 21.—The two granddaughters of Alexander McDonald, Standard Oil magnate, who died last night at Long Beach, Cal., will come into the possession of his estate of $15,000,000. They are Laura and Helena Stallo, daughters of the only child of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, who died five years ago in New York city.

Mr. Stallo later married the divorced wife of Dan Hamm, who was thought very highly of by Mr. McDonald. He himself took charge of his granddaughters, and they were constantly with him being seated beside his chair when he died suddenly at Long Beach last night.

His estate is valued at $15,000,000 and will be divided between the two granddaughters, who will then make their home at "Dalvay," his $2,000,000 home on Clifton avenue, in Cincinnati.

Four Hundred to Participate in Parade in New York; Have Gift for Teddy.

Galveston, Texas, March 21.—The Rough Riders, who keep in touch with each other through an association formed shortly after the Spanish-American war, are preparing to go to New York and welcome the return of their chief, Colonel Roosevelt. There are about 600 of them in the United States, of which 500 are in the southwestern and western states.

It is expected that at least 400 of them will make the trip and that they will wear their rough rider outfit and mounted, will participate in the parade in New York to be given in honor of the distinguished American's return from Africa.

A steamer will be chartered to carry the rough riders and their mounts from Galveston to New York, where they will be joined by other members of the association in the reunion.

A saddle and a rifle will be among the gifts to be presented to the ex-president by his associates of the regiment, and the only description furnished of these articles is that they will be unique and the best to be found in the world.

TALK OF DISTRICT BUILT RAILROADS

At the People's Forum last evening J. N. Teal, editor and publisher of the Journal of Salem, introduced the District Built Railroad Amendment. Before introducing the speaker of the evening, Mr. Teal read from a magazine article the description of the Danish district built railroad and how the cost of the road was paid by one-third of the unearned increment of the road.

Mr. Teal proceeded at once to talk on his subject, which he pointed out was already in operation in Idaho. Five districts having been formed, and one awaiting actual dirt digging, until the supreme court had confirmed the law passed at the last legislature without a dissenting vote.

He explained that the proposed amendment before the people only gave the legislature or the people power to hereafter enact a district railroad bill, but did not bind them to do so. Also that it gave the legislature the power to do for rail transportation what it had already done for water transportation in organizing the formation of district ports to improve harbors.

To the efforts of the Interior Development league and its work for district built railroads he attributed the building of two big trunk lines with 8000 men now going on in central Oregon.

At the close Mr. Teal read further extracts from the magazine article showing that the Danish farmers were in favor of placing all taxes on land values. He further said that as he understood the situation, the railroads have the bonds and taxes to pay them would rest on land values only. In Oregon the law would have to be formulated. What was sought now was to give the people the power to build railroads as they now build canals, dredge harbors and make roads. The people would have the power, but need not exercise it for 50 years if they did not see fit to do so.

Upon the conclusion of the song service in the main auditorium Professor Stout rendered a number of his finest gospel songs at the overflow meeting. Last night's service concluded Professor Stout's engagement at the Taylor street church. He leaves Portland in a day or so for Los Angeles, where he will assist at a series of meetings in one of the largest churches in the city.
