POSTAL OFFICIAL MAY LIVE HERE

Assistant Superintendent of Salary and Allowance Takes Notes on Oregon Climate.

Portland, if the climate suits, will have another postoffice official as a permanent resident, George L. Van Dyke, of Denver, is now deciding about the climate.

Mr. Van Dyke is assistant superintendent of the salary and allowance division of the postal department and has been stationed at Denver for a number of years. He comes to Portland as the officer in charge of the newly created division embracing Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Alaska, and will in all probability make this city his headquarters.

Up to a short time ago all of the territory west of the Rocky mountains was embraced in one division and was under the charge of Harry B. Hall, of San Francisco. Upon Mr. Hall's recommendation the territory has been cut in two parts, and Mr. Van Dyke has been put in charge of the northern section.

JOSEPH COHN TO SPEAK AGAIN AT WHITE TEMPLE

A large audience greeted Joseph Cohn at the White Temple yesterday afternoon and heard with interest the story he told of the conversion to Christianity of his father, the well known ex-rabbi, Leopold Cohn, of New York.

Cohn made a very dramatic appeal for the Jew and his audience showed their sympathy. The audience was not content with the one address, but insisted by a unanimous vote that he speak again, and so he will make his final address tonight, again at the White Temple, speaking on Jewish life and manners. The public is cordially invited. He will also conduct a question box at the beginning of his lecture tonight, so that those who want to ask questions about Jews can do so.

A new townsite, Blackrock, above Falls City, has been planned.
