Delaney Will Soon Coach Johnson Camp. San Francisco, May 25.—George Little, Jack Johnson's manager, today announced that Billy Delaney, the veteran trainer, would soon take charge of the Johnson camp.

On Williams avenue, had been in the car earlier in the evening. They had taken dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Case at the Case home at 674 Rodney avenue and had then gone out with them for a ride.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber, however, were left at their home on Williams avenue about 12 o'clock, and then Mr. Cummings took Mr. and Mrs. Case to the West Side in order to leave them at the Rhinopais hotel, where they intended to stay over night. The collision occurred just before the auto reached the hotel.

The auto was a new one which R. A. Case, the young man, had just purchased.

According to O. Dunn, a member of Mr. and Mrs. Williams Weber, living

JACK JOHNSON USES BIG WORDS ABOUT GENT. JIM

San Francisco, May 25.—Jim Jeffries will come to town tomorrow for his exhibition in connection with the Pacific club's boxing show at Drayman on Friday night. He will return to Rowandennan on Saturday morning and resume his training. The big fellow had a busy day yesterday, engaging in the best spell of boxing since he began work. He went 11 rounds—three each with Armstrong, Choyanski and Jack Jeffries and two with Sam Berger—and was ready for more, but his sparring partners had had enough.

Jack Johnson has been in a most dignified mood. First he treated the moving picture man, who was taking camp pictures yesterday, with the utmost courtesy (Get that, kid?), and then he turned his attention to Jim Corbett.

With all of the pomposity of a high-w-up, Mr. Johnson delivered himself of the following:

"My attention has been called to a number of interviews in which Mr. Corbett has submitted, in which he has taken occasion to criticize me. It is my opinion that Mr. Corbett's bump of vanity, the conviction that makes one think well of one's self, is abnormally developed. Mr. Corbett asserts that he is going to the camp of Mr. Jeffries to teach my prospective opponent how to accomplish my downfall—to render me hours du combat, as it were—within 15 rounds.

"I dare say that Mr. Corbett was quite an accomplished exponent of the Queensbury art in his day, but his day is over. Mr. Corbett will concede to visit me in my quarters here and will have the hardihood to do the mitts with me. I venture the assertion that he will garner more knowledge of the manly art of self-defense than he ever dreamed of."

Whereupon, George Little threw a fit and Sparring Partners Cotton and Culler had to be taken away in the wagon.

When John Arthur hit the grit this morning he was accompanied part of the way by Tom Flanagan, brother of John Flanagan, the weight thrower. Flanagan, who is an expert on road work, will reduce that part of Johnson's training to a scientific basis.

Stanley Ketchel is expected to join the Jeffries camp as soon as he gets through with his eastern engagements.

CHIEF COX FINDS STATEMENT IS CONTRADICTORY

Latest developments in the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Hanna Smith are: Grand Jury will question Ericson tonight. Woman tells story of Mrs. Smith being made ill after drinking wine offered by Ericson.

Lebbick, in Los Angeles, was the man who gave police their information concerning fake message.

Friends say Ericson owed missing woman money which she had often tried to collect.

The detectives have learned from Mrs. Boden, 487 East Thirty-third street, an intimate friend of Mrs. Smith, that on the Wednesday before Mrs. Smith disappeared she told Mrs. Boden of a call which she made at Ericson's place on the day before, Tuesday, May 3.

On that occasion Ericson said to her, "This is my birthday, and I am going to give you a drink of wine."

Mrs. Smith drank the wine and it made her deathly sick, so that she said to Ericson, "That is awfully funny wine; you haven't poisoned me, have you?"

Wine in Small Bottle. He said "No," and then he tasted the wine and spit it out. The wine was in a small bottle on his desk.

Mrs. Smith said, "You usually have your wine in long bottles," and he replied, "I generally have it in that way, but I keep some in a small bottle so that if anybody should faint here during a funeral I can give it to them."

Mrs. Smith told Mrs. Boden that Ericson took her home about 12 o'clock that night. Neighbors of Mrs. Smith tell the detectives that the next day after his occurrence they saw Ericson at Mrs. Ericson's room, Thirteenth and Davis streets. He was taking a pail of water to the house. That was the day when Mrs. Boden went to Mrs. Smith's room.

She found Mrs. Smith very sick, her eyes badly swollen and she was unable to go to work. When the detectives demanded an explanation of this story from Ericson he denied it in toto and said that his birthday is in February.

The detectives made thorough search of Ericson's undertaking establishment this morning, but were unable to find any trace of Mrs. Smith's body. Ericson will go before the grand jury again this afternoon for the third time. He is to submit to the grand jury all of his papers. The detectives working on the case are Sloan and Endicott. They have had these facts for some time, but just made them public today.

Chief Cox and Captain Moore declare that Lebbick is the man who sent the fake telegram from Los Angeles. He was named in the dispatches received by them from the Los Angeles chief of police, who found Ericson's letter in Lebbick's possession and who described the latter as a traveling man employed by a herring manufacturing concern.

In a published interview sent from Los Angeles Lebbick is quoted as denying emphatically that he received any such telegram, and that he sent the fake telegram. In view of the dispatches received by Chief Cox, these denials appear to be absolute falsehoods.

ROUGH WATER STOPS EIGHT-OARED RACE

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—Despite the high wind and rough water, Washington and Stanford made an attempt to run the scheduled eight-oared race this afternoon. Both shells swamped simultaneously in the heavy seas and the crews were picked up by launches following the race.

Following the accident the race was called off. Washington leaves tonight for Wisconsin and Stanford returns to California.

WORKERS FLEE FROM FIREWORKS FACTORY IN TIME

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—Every workman in the Hill Brothers' fireworks plant at Columbia City, a suburb, fled from the place two minutes before an explosion and fire destroyed one half of the plant this morning.

One girl, Beale Moore, employed in the plant whose department was badly cut in jumping through a window as the cry of "fire" was raised. She continued to run, however, and escaped the explosion.

A workman saw smoke coming from storeroom No. 2 at 10:45 this morning. He gave the alarm that vacated the plant. Two minutes later the storeroom blew up. A second later storeroom No. 3 exploded, then storeroom No. 2 with 250 pounds of powder, and finally the paint shop, where two minutes before, Miss Moore with 10 others had been making pinwheels.

The force of the explosion was terrific. Fire followed and skyrocketed, pinwheels and various other pyrotechnics shot into the air in a brilliant display.

Every department of Seattle's firefighters answered the alarm and ambulances were hurried to Columbia City. No one ventured near the burning plant until the arrival of the firemen. In the meantime rumors of many being killed and injured were rife.

The main storeroom was saved by the firemen. The loss is $10,000.

Aeronauts Hasten to Patch Up a Peace. New York, May 25.—A new aeronautical organization, expected to be the greatest of its kind in the world, is being organized today to close the breach between the Aero Club of America and the new Aeronautic Association of America.

The Aeronautic association was formed by disgruntled members of the Aero club, who objected to the action of the Aero club's officers in curtailing a national aviation meet.

A meeting of the representatives of both bodies was held last night at the Hotel Belmont, and it was mutually agreed that the existence of two organizations in America would be a national disgrace.

William V. Lombard, of Chicago, secretary of the insurgent organization, admitted that a break in aviation ranks might ruin the sport in America.

The conferees decided that joint action should be taken to amalgamate the organizations, and that the national bodies will attend the national convention, to be held here June 22.

Insurgents to Get Cannon Soon as They Decide Best Way to Do It—Maybe Before

Washington, May 25.—If Cannon is saved until the end of the present session of congress he will be an issue in the coming congressional campaign, is the way a member of the house today sized up the political situation.

It has become an open secret here that the insurgents are planning to make Cannon one of the issues in the coming campaign. It will not be a new experience for the speaker, as he has been the issue in former campaigns, but there will be some new angles that are making the Republican house regains decidedly uncomfortable.

The fact that the insurgents expect Roosevelt's support is one of the new factors and from the reports of Roosevelt's promise to the insurgents, as told exclusively by the United Press yesterday, it seems pretty certain, politicians here declare, that the insurgents are figuring with considerable certainty.

The only trouble ahead for the insurgents is that the issue may be dropped before the campaign begins. Conservative members of the progressive faction are determined not to unseat Cannon during the present session, intending to save him for the campaign. Radical members of the same group, however, are anxious for the overthrow of the speaker without delay, and it is the fear that they will succeed that causes the greatest uneasiness in the insurgent camp.

The insurgents fear that unless the speaker gives over his favorite pastime of "insurgent baiting," and quit firing such hot shot into their ranks, as "shooting is too good for them, they should be hanged," it is going to be difficult to restrain the radicals. That the Democrats would rally joyfully to the aid of the radicals if the move to oust the speaker were started, is certain and it is believed that any attempt to depose "Uncle Joe" would be successful.

Fear that a house deadlock would result and that no speaker could be elected unless the insurgents allowed the regulars to dictate, and that politically the squabble would redound to their own disadvantage, is one of the strongest reasons behind the desire of the insurgents to put off the attack on the speaker until after the present session ends.

Meanwhile the "organizing" members of the house are feeling decidedly uncomfortable. They are "sitting on a powder mine and they don't know exactly when an explosion may occur."

The regulars realize that the situation is apt to come at almost any time, and thatousting the speaker is a good pool way to bring it about. (Continued on Page Five.)

WOMAN PLEADS FOR CONTINUANCE OF CREST RESORT

"Mr. Dunning, do you still insist on your objection?" "Yes, sir, I do." "Very well, then, I will call a special meeting of the council. The clerk will please notify each councilman to appear in the city hall next Saturday morning at 9:30."

Mayor Simon for the first time since the present administration came into power last July used the "big stick" of his arbitrary power to whip a councilman into line.

The conversation quoted resulted when an ordinance revoking the license of A. Duchamp to operate an amusement park on Council Crest came up for third reading. A delegation of first citizens of the city, all residents and extensive property owners of Portland Heights had appeared before the council to demand the revocation of the license. So strong was the invective hurled at the luckless Duchamp that the usually calm and collected lawmakers were roused to a sort of frenzy by the denunciations made by A. D. Charlton, I. Lang and
