

DOCK LESSEES AT FISHERIES CASE TO BE IN ARBITRATION COURT NEXT WEEK

N. P. Alleges It Must Raise Rates, Giving Many Reasons—Lessees Say They Can't Pay, for One Good Reason.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Seattle, May 28.—Lessees of Northern Pacific docks at this port and at Tacoma are greatly alarmed over the increased rates proposed by the railroad. This advance does not affect all of the company's waterfront property, but some of it is subject to readjustment this year. Under the lease given by the railroad these docks are reappraised every five years. Rentals are based on a percentage of the appraisal of the site, plus 10 per cent of the value of the improvements.

The railroad alleges it must raise rates, as it is not getting returns on its investment, adding that the dock proposition is a losing one and that present rentals are insufficient to pay taxes, repairs and operating expenses and leave more than one per cent on the valuation. Lessees claim they cannot pay more rent, considering the present rates of wharfage.

Both sides maintain that the municipalities are to blame for the increase. On three of Seattle's wharves taxes have increased from $3500 in 1901 to $12,500 in 1909, while at Tacoma the increase has been from $7500 in 1901 to $13,500 last year.

The matter is still up for settlement, and some of the leaseholders declare they will have to go out of business. Among the properties affected are the wheat warehouses at Tacoma owned by Balfour, Guthrie & Co., Kerr, Gifford & Co. and the Northwestern Warehouse company. These leases expire during the current year, and the grain exporters state they will have to move if the railroad increases their burdens.

FUNERAL SERMON LASTS FOUR HOURS; GRAVE IS TOO SMALL THE REASON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Cottage Grove, Or., May 28.—The funeral services over the remains of Harley Queener, held at Saginaw yesterday were the most lengthy in the pastorate of the Rev. W. A. McKinnis, who preached the sermon. The hour for the service was fixed at 2 o'clock, and from this time until 6 o'clock the minister was forced to hold his auditors because of the fact that it was found necessary to enlarge the grave. The undertaker could not lower the casket, box, and workmen had to go several miles distant for dynamite and blast away the solid rock until the grave was given proper dimensions.

INDIANS TO CELEBRATE CORPUS CHRISTI FEAST

Pendleton, Or., May 28.—Between 500 and 600 Indians will participate in the celebration of the "Feast of the Corpus Christi" at St. Andrew's mission, Sunday morning. The celebration will be conducted by Bishop O'Reilly of Baker City and participated in by priests and other officers of the church at the mission and from this city. It will be the great ecclesiastical event of the year for the mission, and will probably be witnessed by a large number of people from this city.

Sunday morning at 10:30 the great procession will start. The bishop will carry the "Blessed Sacrament" about the mission grounds, followed by 500 or 600 Indians including the mission Indian band.

This celebration is called the "Feast of flowers" by the Indians, for the reason that throughout the progress of the procession the little Indian children precede the bishop, throwing flowers in his pathway.

The mission is 12 miles southeast of Pendleton, being located at the very foot of the Blue mountains.

FISHERIES CASE TO BE IN ARBITRATION COURT NEXT WEEK

Prominent Attorneys of United States and England to Attend Newfoundland Fisheries Dispute at The Hague.

The Hague, May 28.—An array of illustrious counsel engaged to conduct the oral arguments in the Newfoundland fisheries dispute before the international arbitration court next week is beginning to put in an appearance here. The diplomatic and lawyers are accompanied by a host of secretaries, technical experts and attaches, together with a number of newspaper correspondents, and the last old Dutch capital is beginning to buzz with an animation such as has not been witnessed since the last world's peace conference.

The personnel of the arbitration court is to be the most distinguished ever chosen to preside at the trial of a special case before the great peace tribunal. The presiding officer will be Dr. Heinrich Lammasch, the noted Austrian authority on international law. The other members of the court will be Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, chief justice of the supreme court of Canada; Judge George Gray, of the United States circuit court; Friedrich A. F. De Savorny, of the Netherlands, and Luis M. Drago, of the Argentine Republic.

The legal representatives of Great Britain, including Canada and Newfoundland, will include the Honorable A. B. Aylesworth, minister of justice of Canada; the Honorable Sir Edward Morris, K. C., premier of Newfoundland; the Right Honorable Sir William Robinson, K. C., attorney general of England; D. Morrison, K. C., attorney general of Newfoundland; the Honorable Sir James Winter, K. C., former attorney general of Newfoundland; the Right Honorable Sir Robert Finlay, former attorney general of England; Sir H. E. Richards, K. C., who was counsel for Great Britain in the Borneo and Venezuela arbitrations; John S. Ewart, K. C., and George Shepley, K. C., distinguished Canadian lawyers. Messrs. Blake and Redden are the British solicitors.

Equally distinguished, though not quite so numerous, will be the representatives of the United States. Senator Elihu Root of New York heads the list of counsel, the other members including Charles P. Anderson, who acts as agent; former Senator George Turner of Washington, who represented the United States on the Alaska boundary tribunal; Samuel J. Elder, a distinguished lawyer of Boston, and James Brown Scott, solicitor for the department of state.

The Newfoundland fisheries case is regarded as one of the most important disputes that has arisen between Great Britain and the United States in the last century, and is the first case to come before the international arbitration court under the agreement of the powers, as signed by the peace convention held at The Hague in 1897. The dispute dates back almost 100 years, and during much of that time it has been the fruitful source of friction and of a voluminous diplomatic correspondence. Naturally, it will be a matter of congratulation for both nations when the controversy is at last laid to rest, as it will be by the award of the tribunal about to convene.

The controversy had its origin in the treaty signed by the United States and Great Britain in 1813, by which certain rights of fishery in common with British fishermen, which had been claimed by the United States for its people under the treaty of peace of 1783, were recognized by Great Britain, while others were renounced by the United States. By this renunciation American fishing vessels were not allowed to take, dry or cure fish "within three marine miles of the coast, bays, harbors and creeks," of the British possessions, except certain specified coasts and except in certain cases of emergency. Some 25 years after the treaty was signed the colonial governments declared that the word "bay" used in the treaty meant any bay so named on the maps, irrespective of its width, and some American vessels were seized at distances greater than three miles from land.

The United States denied this interpretation of the treaty provisions, asserting that only inlets of the sea, not over six miles wide, were intended. From that time forward the interpretation has been in dispute. At a much later period the Newfoundland government adopted regulations as to the coast fisheries of that island, which the American fishermen have the right at certain places to participate in "in common" with British fishermen. Certain of these regulations were thought to be directed against Americans, and also to discriminate in favor of the local fishermen. The United States protested against this action as being a limitation of the rights of their people. On the question of a minor character, all growing out of the meaning placed upon the language of the treaty, are involved.

SOUTH SIDE DITCHES CARRY FIRST WATER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Nampa, Idaho, May 28.—Water is running in the ditches of the Mora division of the south side Payette-Holte project. The system includes the Kuna high line with all of its various laterals. There is rejoicing among the settlers. Many of them have depended on the coming of the water this year and had put in crops.

Wasco May Have New Building

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
The latest, May 28.—If the recommendations of the recent grand jury are heeded by the county court, Wasco county will soon have a new courthouse and jail. The grand jury in no mistakable manner condemned both the jail and courthouse and asked the county court to at once provide better and more modern buildings. The present courthouse was built about 25 years ago, and is entirely too small for the needs of the county.

KAISEI WILL SHOW PRINCE TAO MILITARY SYSTEM

Germans Protest Against His Teaching Mongolians War Secrets, Lest They Get Wise and Overrun the Earth.

(United Press Telegram.)
Berlin, May 28.—Prince Tiao, Chinese minister of war, uncle of the emperor and brother of the prince regent, arrived here today to study the German military system. He will probably be received by Kaiser Wilhelm on Monday.

The presence of the oriental diplomat is causing a stir in military circles. Every effort will be made by the German officials to set the German system before Prince Tiao in its entirety. He will be escorted through forts, barracks, and defenses and will have explained to him the system of commissariat and quartermaster's departments and will witness maneuvers of all branches of the service.

Already opposition to this plan has developed and critics of the army are protesting against letting the prince in possession of the details of the military, which they declare would change the Chinese army of today into a great body that would menace the whole civilized world. They claim that with the advent of the German military system, China could throw such a body of men into the field as to sweep all before her and overrun all countries. Her limits, they declare, would only be the sea coasts of Europe and Asia, but these would soon be passed, with a coalescence with Japan.

An alliance between Japan and China, enabling the Mongolian race to send out millions of disciplined soldiers and scores of well-manned fighting ships, would prove irresistible, they claim.

China, with her great population and her great resources, could support such a military armament indefinitely.

UNION CLUB EXCURSION PROVES TO BE SUCCESS

Union, Or., May 28.—The tour of the Grand Ronde valley by the Commercial club of this city during the past week proved successful beyond the expectations of the club, and the welcome accorded them by the various cities visited proved without a doubt that the tour by the club was the laying of the foundation for stronger commercial relations between the cities of Eastern Oregon. The club visited the cities of Cove, Imbler, Elgin, Summerville, Alsea, Island City, LaGrande and Hot Lake.

At LaGrande, where the club was banqueted by the association of that city, a resolution was adopted favoring the organization of Union and Wallawa counties in a joint commercial association and steps will be taken to that end.

The club on its tour of the valley extensively advertised the Union livestock show, which is to be held June 2 and 4, and which is the second annual livestock show to be held in this city.

The show last year proved to be such a success that it has now been organized into an annual affair, and this year there will be over 300 head of thoroughbred horses and cattle exhibited.

Union has long been noted as a center for fancy horses, the United States army having drawn on this city for years for cavalry horses of the highest type.

THE STRANGER WITHIN OUR GATES

H. Ward Stevenson, Placoe, Nev.—Will anybody please tell me why it is that a lot of foreigners can live in a crowded, unsanitary tenement where dogs, cats and chickens have the run of the household and where children are swarming—will someone tell me why those same children are always healthy, never catch contagious diseases till after all the white children in the neighborhood have died, and are never killed or injured in the street?

G. McGovern, Victoria, B. C.—It's getting to be so that there are no more summers in the Pacific coast country. I don't look for any decent weather—that is, a continued summer. Last year we of the north forgot that there ever was summer and it looks as though the performance will be continued again this year.

A. W. Johnson, Walla Walla, Wash.—Walla Walla is a fine little city and it is growing right along, but there is this much about it. Until the big wheat farm owners sell part of their holdings so that smaller acreages may be farmed the town will not grow very fast; it will lack surrounding population. Many wheat growers own all the way from 160 to 3000 acres, some-time more, and when you figure how many families those big tracts would support you can then get at what the population of Walla Walla ought to be.

SELLS PROPERTY FOR $1 AND LOVE AND AFFECTION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Aberdeen, Wash., May 28.—One of the most remarkable legal cases in the history of the state is shown on the records of Chehalis county for last Saturday, and consists in the transfer of $60,000 worth of property from Robert Chabot, a capitalist of Modesto, to his son, for $1 and love and affection. It is reported that the transfer was made on the same day that H. A. Linder, of Modesto, sued Robert Chabot for $24,000 for alleged breach of contract.

Mr. Chabot is one of the most prominent residents of North Bend, where he is known as "The Cranberry King" having a large ranch, "Berrymade," devoted to raising cranberries.

Women's Kidneys

Mrs. W. Hively of Freeport, Illinois, suffered for a long time without knowing just what was the matter, but when she finally located the cause of her trouble, she was able to secure prompt relief by the very timely use of Foley Kidney Pills. "I have been troubled with severe backache for over a year, and always thought I had a tumor. There were pains over my heart, and I continually had specks before my eyes, and every morning was troubled with dizzy spells and a headache. A month ago I secured a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. After a short time my backache left me and my heart no longer bothered me, nor do I have those nauseating headaches and dizziness to which I was subjected before I took this wonderful remedy. Foley Kidney Pills have certainly done wonders for me and I cannot recommend them too highly." Her case is not unusual. Many women troubled the same way, drag about daily with the impression that they have a "weakness" due to their sex, that they are unwilling to consult a doctor about, yet which is sapping their strength, energy and vitality daily. Yet their trouble is easy traceable to their kidneys and bladder, and a prompt use of Foley Kidney Pills will give them first a quick and blessed relief, then a prompt, permanent cure of all the misery they suffer.

Give Foley Kidney Pills a trial at once, and soon the quick return to health, strength and vigor. They will tone up your system, correct irregularities and make you strong and well. Take only Foley Kidney Pills. They are put out only by Foley & Co., of Chicago, and the genuine are always in the yellow package. No not take any substitute, as no other kidney pills can take their place or do for you what Foley Kidney Pills can do. Refuse substitutes. For sale by Skidmore Drug Co., 151 Third street.

WOULD SPRINKLE TOWN'S STREETS WITH HOSE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Forest Grove, Or., May 28.—The members of the women's club of this city have been prosecuting an active campaign having for its purpose the sprinkling system, and have received $500 in pledges, but it will require $700 for the purpose. A delegation from the club appeared before the city council and asked that the city appropriate funds to help carry out the project, but the city fathers proved to be apathetic, and did not take action thereon. A number of residents are opposed to the city making any levy for the purpose and claim that a much more effective manner of keeping down the dust in the town would be, instead of having sprinkling carts, to allow the property owners free use of the city water for the purpose of sprinkling the streets with hose, as soon as the new gravity system is completed.

The Montreal, Canada, Trades and Labor council desires to have all employment agencies in that territory abolished and have one general office established under the control of the government.
