

WORKING PEOPLE FOR THE COMING FOR BATTLESHIPS

Figures Show Taft Administration Costs Twice as Much as Cleveland's—Lack of Income Tax Sorely Felt.

By Clyde H. Tavenner.
Washington, June 7.—One hundred and thirty-three millions of dollars. Try to comprehend the magnitude of this sum if you can, and then pause and reflect over the fact that it is the amount the senate has voted to spend on the navy in a single year, in a time of profound peace. Then consider that only 12 years ago, in 1898, the naval appropriation was but $33,003,234, or $100,000,000 less than the amount appropriated for the year ending June 30, 1911.

In fact in connection with this awful increase, which the senate seldom hears of, is that every penny of this $100,000,000 which is to be spent in excess of the amount used in 1898 comes from the people; not from the rich, but largely from working men and women.

It is the ultimate consumer who pays the battleship bill, who maintains an ever increasing army of officeholders in Washington, and who meets the one hundred and one extravaganzas of the government. He does it by paying excessive prices for the things he buys.

The government raises practically all of its funds through the custom houses and the internal revenue offices, where taxes are levied on things eaten, worn or used by the people. When the consumer purchases a protected article, and practically all of the necessities of life are protected—he pays the real or natural value of the article and in addition thereto the amount of the tariff tax.

The more battleships constructed the greater the amount the government must raise through the tax on consumption, and the greater the cost of living.

Thus it is not so strange that under the Taft administration, which is spending more than twice the amount used by Cleveland to run the government, the cost of living is 50 per cent greater than under the Cleveland administration.

Need of Income Tax.
While the hat, coat and shirt of the masses are taxed almost 71 per cent to build $1,000,000 battleships and keep an extravagant government in spending money, Messrs. Morgan, Rockefeller and Carnegie are not asked by the federal government to pay any tax whatever on their swollen fortunes.

Wealth escapes bearing its just share of the burden of taxation, because of the absence of a federal income or inheritance tax, such as were long ago adopted by Great Britain, Germany, France, Japan, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Switzerland, Australia and New Zealand.

A majority of both houses of congress were in favor of tacking an income tax clause to the new tariff law. Such legislation would now be upon the statute books had not President Taft and Senator Aldrich defeated the project through the substitution of a corporation tax. That the necessary three-fourths of the state legislature will not vote to amend the constitution is practically certain, which means that an income tax can only be had at the hands of a Democratic administration.

Taxist Makes Living High.
It is estimated that in 1908 the cost of living was nearly 13 per cent higher than it would have been without a tariff. Hence, calculating that the average family consumed $921 worth of supplies per annum, its increased payment on account of the tariff was $111. Of this $111, $16.50 went to the government in collections, and $94.50 went to the trusts in high prices. Of this $94.50, $9.35 was on woollens, more than $17 on other clothing, $6.25 on furniture, $4.25 on beef and mutton and pork, $10.25 on building materials, and so on.

In 1910, the cost of living being 15 per cent higher than in 1908, the average family pays $1080, of which 10 per cent, or $108, is tribute to the trusts and other protected industries.

Table Speaks for Itself.
Here is a little table which speaks for itself. It compares the expenditures on the army and navy in a period of peace with amounts expended for features of civil establishment.

Expended Since 1897.
For rural free delivery, $175,755,312.
For rivers and harbors, $286,075,191.
For public buildings and grounds, $128,172,407.
For the navy, $1,126,310,195.
For the army, $1,044,101,188.

HEART ON WRONG SIDE, IMMIGRANT DEPORTED

New York, June 7.—Unless your heart is in the right place you cannot become one of Uncle Sam's growing family, is the effect of a ruling which has just been made by the immigration authorities at this port. The decision was arrived at by the board of special inquiry of the immigration bureau at Ellis Island in the case of a Greek aspirant for citizenship named Stefanos Constantos, who arrived here several months ago. He seemed to be in poor physical condition and as a result of an examination the doctors discovered that his heart was on the right side instead of in its accepted place. There seemed to be no indication, however, that the unconventional situation of his cardiac apparatus affected the man's health, but the board has decided after long deliberation to bar him out on the ground that he might become a public charge in spite of his declaration that his grandfather and other members of his family had been subject to the same peculiarity and never had suffered any ill effects from it.

Union, Or., June 7.—The second annual livestock show was the most successful event of its kind ever held in this section. Since the United States army first made this section famous as a supply center for fine cavalry horses, breeders have added to their stock the best blood in the country. Professor Potter of the Oregon Agricultural college, who was judge of the show, went on record as stating that in no part of the northwest had he seen so much thoroughbred stock on exhibition. More than 225,000 worth of horses were on exhibition and more than 250 head of stock were listed in the show.

BUSINESS AND MUNICIPAL GRAFT THREATENS COUNTRY

Chicago, June 7.—"It is inconceivable to me that the rich and powerful men of today apparently cannot realize that their methods of corruption and bribery are leading the nation to inevitable ruin. This applies not only to politics, but to business and labor as well."

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, president of the First National bank of that city, millionaire reformer and the man whose financial backing brought success to the great anti-graft crusade of Francis J. Bland, spoke the words in the Hotel La Salle, while waiting to arrange a conference with a number of Chicago reform leaders.

Mr. Spreckels admitted that Theodore Roosevelt will be a prominent factor in the national reform movement. The former president will call for America the day following Mr. Spreckels' departure for Europe.

"But I shall see him very soon after my return," said Mr. Spreckels.

Wants Country-Wide Organization.
His stay of two days in this city is part of a program to which he is devoting himself for a country-wide organization, the aim of which will be to purify the widespread corruption, evidences of which, he declared, are only too apparent in every phase of the national life.

"I appreciate," he said, "that the newspaper is the greatest power for good when it applies itself in the right direction and can bring itself to ignore the political and financial influences which tend to corrupt its policies, but under present circumstances we prefer to proceed with the preliminaries of this movement with as little noise as possible."

"It is not the intention of the proposed organization to go after individuals or seek out corruption in spots, but

and 7000 people were present from La Grande, Elgin, Imbler, Summerville, Island City, Cove, Alsea and North Powder. One of the features of the day-long exhibition was that of Joe Woods of La Grande, an old time stage and circus driver, in driving four horse teams and three horse tandem.

The old horse "Rightful" which once sold for $25,000, was on exhibition and was the center of attraction. Prominent in the parade was the exhibit of Shetland ponies made by Levy's Shetland pony farm of this city. This is the second largest pony farm in Oregon.

WORLD'S W. C. T. U. MEETS AT GLASGOW TODAY

Glasgow, June 7.—The World's Women's Christian Temperance Union opened its eighth triennial congress here this afternoon under the presidency of the Countess of Carlisle. Mrs. L. M. N. SAVE CANNON FOR USE IN CAMPAIGN

Insurgents to Ease Up on Fight Against Speaker Until Election Time.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, June 7.—That all danger of another insurgent onslaught on Cannon is over for this session is intimated by insurgent leaders here. Organization leaders are breathing a little easier and it is hoped that the final work of congress can be hurried and the end of the session reached without any more open clashes between the two factions. Following a campaign plan outlined some time ago, the insurgents have decided to save Cannon for protection material, and the battle against the speaker and his rules will be transferred to the stump during September and October.

There is a double reason for the move, it is declared by political leaders. It is believed that the fight against Cannon will be the most spectacular and interesting feature the insurgents can get hold of, and it is further believed that if he were ousted now the insurgents might be accused of too close affiliation with the Democrats.

Since any movement against the speaker depends on Democratic help, the insurgents fear that a fight on him before the fall campaign might give the "regulars" too much campaign ammunition.

PLAY CONGRESS HOLDS
4TH ANNUAL SESSION
Rochester, N. Y., June 7.—More than 1000 delegates representing organizations interested in the welfare and healthy development of city children are in attendance at the fourth annual congress of the Playground Association of America, which opened its session here today. The congress will continue through the week, ending on Saturday with an all day picnic festival at Genesee Valley Park and a water carnival and illumination in the evening. Many important subjects, having a bearing upon the playground and recreation questions will be discussed during the congress and the list of speakers includes many noted philanthropists and others interested in the welfare of children, among them Luther H. Gulick, president of the Playground Association of America; Ross Pastor Stokes, John Collins, of the national board of censorship of motion pictures; Frederic Thompson, the New York show manager; Ernest Thompson Seton, Charles F. Campbell, an authority on the education of the blind; Elmer Ellsworth Brown, United States commissioner of education; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and scores of others.

CHILD IS WHISKED THROUGH A FLUME
Globe, Ariz., June 7.—Thomas Gardner, a 6-year-old boy of Thatcher, rode a mile a minute down a seven mile lumber flume and arrived at the end of his thrilling journey unhurt.

Tommy was playing at the head of the flume, in the Graham mountains. He slipped and fell into the water and was carried at the speed of an express train down the flume, which in stretches is almost perpendicular. He was scratched slightly about the face and arms, but that was all.

Poinsett Won't Be "Bossed."
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, June 7.—Congressman Poinsett of Spokane, who aspires to become senator from Washington, declares that in case of his election to the senate he will not be "bossed" by the political machine.

"I claim it is the right and duty of congressmen to use their own judgment, and that no one can properly dictate to them. If elected to the senate I will support the party principles," he said.
