LEAVES WITH NEW "CITY BEAUTIFUL" IDEAS

President of National Commission Association on Tariff Gives His Views on the Subject.

Boston, June 18.—The following statement of the president of the National Tariff Commission association, John Gardner Cobb, who spent most of the month of May in Washington, is issued by order of the board of directors.

"In my opinion conditions in Washington justify an earnest effort on the part of all who are interested in the establishment of a tariff commission to secure legislation at this session of congress. Apparently fully 90 per cent of both houses and of both parties favor the principle. The subject has been fully discussed in and out of congress for several years, and it seems as if it ought not to be difficult for congress to agree upon effective legislation.

Situation Difficult. "The difficulties in the situation were clearly shown two weeks ago in the action of the house of representatives on the provision in the sundry civil bill introduced by Mr. Tawney. This provision as presented did not create a permanent tariff commission, but it did very largely increase the powers of the present tariff board, and as a compromise measure would have been a long step ahead. The house eliminated practically everything from the provision which broadened the powers of the tariff board, and left it a simple appropriation of $250,000, for the purposes of the Payne bill. This result was accomplished by the joint opposition of the Democrats, who pronounced it a makeshift measure, and a small but influential body of Republicans who bitterly opposed any action which might be considered even indirectly a criticism of the Payne bill. In addition to these, the entire tariff board, a significant number in each party who are opposed on principle to a tariff commission. Although the Democrats were freely accused of opposing it for party politics, their position was not logically maintainable. It could be fairly claimed that the provision fully met the issue by creating a real permanent tariff commission.

Merits of Bill. "The position of the Republicans was really less consistent, as although no one so far as I could find claimed that the Payne bill is perfect, they seemed bound to continue among themselves an entirely unnecessary and probably fatal discussion, from a party standpoint, as to the merits of the Payne bill.

The situation today is that the matter will shortly come up in the senate for action; and there is a bill before the ways and means committee of the house which can be used as the basis for further legislation. The Republican party is in control of both branches of congress, and is in position to make good by giving us some progressive, constructive legislation.

"The country believes that the Republican platform means a revision of the tariff on the basis of reasonable and fair protection to our industries and labor with reductions in all cases of excessive protection, and the limitation of all special privileges. The result, in the opinion of a very large proportion of the Republican voters, has not been fully accomplished by the Payne bill, and the discussion as to whether the bill is three-quarters right and one-quarter wrong, or one-quarter right and three-quarters wrong, is not going to be very satisfying, especially as with no facts or figures in existence to prove the claims the discussion can only end in more discussion.

"It is equally aside from the point to discuss whether or not the Payne bill is the best that can be expected under the system of log-rolling and trading heretofore practiced in tariff legislation. Certainly no bill passed by either party for a generation indicates that better can be expected. The investigations of our association clearly show that the country wants tariff questions carefully and scientifically investigated by an independent and permanent board or commission, and the results of their work presented to congress as the basis for tariff legislation.

"If the present congress which passed the Payne bill will meet the issue fairly, and enact legislation creating the necessary machinery to investigate and point out such inconsistencies and inequalities as exist in the Payne bill, and if this is done, as it readily can be, in a manner to command the confidence of the voters, that they will be corrected when found, the discord and dissension in the Republican party will be allayed.

"If this is not done the Republican members of congress will be faced with the difficult task of convincing their constituents that they have faithfully and consistently carried out the platform on which they were elected. And our efforts will have to be directed to supporting President Taft in his earnest effort to create an effective tariff board under legislative provisions entirely inadequate in their scope and temporary in their nature."

Eloping Couple Steal March on Parents at San Mateo, Cal., and Are Married Before Breakfast.

San Francisco, June 18.—A two started pennant at the madhead an automobile sailed up the peninsula with the speed of a comet this morning, paused at the county clerk's office and then hastened to St. Mary's cathedral, where its occupants, St. John Whitney and Miss Henrietta Alton of San Mateo, were married. A few moments later they had boarded the fast train for Delmonico. Faster than the telegraph had they come, for during their race from San Mateo the bride's mother had been writing to the officials of four counties to intercept the eloping pair. When her frantic appeal arrived Mr. and Mrs. Whitney were enjoying their wedding breakfast in a Pullman car.

Young Whitney is an athlete and as dashing in his love making as on the football field. He had known Miss Alton for only two months, but he had required only two minutes for him to determine to win the girl who is now his wife. He has been out of college two years. He was graduated with the class of '08 at the University of California and soon thereafter assumed the management of the Leslie Salt works near San Mateo, owned by his father, A. L. Whitney.

Residing at the fashionable Peninsula hotel in San Mateo, he was enabled to call frequently upon Miss Alton, who lived not far away.

Decide to Elope. Her father, Thomas Alton, who is president of the San Francisco Brewing company, limited, had told Whitney and his daughter in answer to their pleading that they were not to marry. The young man had looked out over the veranda in silence, while the girl's eyes closed to check a tear. That was only last week. The two held a conference. They concluded that they had exhausted the arts of diplomacy and should now quietly arrange for their marriage.

While San Mateo was preparing to breakfast, young Whitney rented the fastest automobile in the San Mateo garage. Then he chugged up the road a pace, where Miss Alton stood ready, her bridal veil tied tight to hold her hat. In she jumped and in another minute the great machine was tearing through the countryside for the license office.

No Breakfast Bell for Max. The breakfast bell sounded at the Alton home, but it failed to summon Miss Henrietta. Then Mrs. Alton guessed the truth. She dispatched her son, Leslie, to find his sister and he soon returned with the news that Whitney had rented a car in the early morning. The rest was only too clear to Mrs. Alton. She wired to the clerk

HAS GREAT FAITH IN CONFESSION FORGER

Judge Morrow Declines to Increase Man's Bond; Disappearance Not Feared.

Declaring he did not believe E. W. Kelt would run away from a sentence to the penitentiary, even with only a $500 bond to hold him, Presiding Judge Morrow in the circuit court yesterday afternoon refused a request by Deputy District Attorney Page for increasing the bond.

"This seems like a small bond, your honor," said Page, "for a man pleading guilty of forgery, for which a penalty of two years in the penitentiary is attached."

"I believe this young man will come back Monday for sentence," replied the court. "He can take a train and leave his bondsmen in the lurch if it is true, but I don't believe he will do it. I am going to trust him not to do it, and I will not increase his bond."

Kelt, who had just entered a plea of guilty to passing a bad check for $17.50 on Edward Drake, thanked the judge and told him he will not run away. Judge Morrow told him to report Monday afternoon to receive his sentence, and Kelt said he will be there.

Kelt appeared to be confident of a parole when he pleaded guilty, a plea in his behalf being made by his attorney, A. E. Cooper. Deputy District Attorney Page gave a shock to this hope when he pointed out that forgery is not a paroleable offense under the law, but on conviction of crimes where the maximum penalty is not more than 10 years, Page also stated there are three indictments against the prisoner, and he is an ex-convict, having served time in Canada.

Secretary Dickinson will have his present plan completed before the time for him to leave for the Philippines late this month. Secretary Dickinson will return from San Francisco in about a week for the Orient.

Mr. Meagher says that while Mr. Ballinger is a practical lawyer, Mr. Pinchot is a practical forester and knows what the country needs.

CONGREGATION TO LAY CORNERSTONE TODAY

The cornerstone of the new Clinton-Kelly Memorial church on Powell and East Forty-first streets will be laid during services in honor of the occasion tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. W. B. Hollinghead will have charge of the program and will be assisted by the Rev. W. H. Hampton. The main address of the service will be delivered by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church. A large attendance of laymen and clergymen is expected.

The site for the church is a donation from the Kelly family. The donation provides that a church of a given value may be erected on the site. That amount has been exceeded by the contributions already and a church costing at least $8000 will be built. Rooms in the basement will be provided as headquarters for the new Boys' Brigade organization.
