C. W. Hodson Writes That East Alive With Interest Taken in Oregon.

C. W. Hodson is busy in New York boosting for Oregon. In a letter to the Portland Commercial club, just received, he speaks of the annual prosperity dinner of the commercial travelers' organizations where he made an address and told the easterners about the opportunities that await thousands of people out in this state. Mr. Hodson was surprised at the interest in the Pacific northwest.

There were 1800 at the dinner. Ex-Congressman Herman Metz of New York City presided. John Temple Graves, Lewis Nixon, Ambassador White, Marcus M. Marks and John S. Whelan spoke, and when Mr. Hodson's turn came, a splendid opportunity was presented to show that more producers in proportion to distributors would mean a greater degree of prosperity, and that there are unlimited openings for producers in Oregon. Mr. Hodson's writer came, a splendid opportunity was presented to show that more producers in proportion to distributors would mean a greater degree of prosperity, and that there are unlimited openings for producers in Oregon. "I took a trip up to Poughkeepsale yesterday just to make a comparison between the Hudson and Columbia rivers. Of course they will hardly admit of comparison. The Hudson is a magnificent stream, the beautiful towns, splendid Steamboat facilities and the immense volume of business done by means of the water transportation makes it a picture which, of its kind, is difficult to equal. But for rugged, natural beauty and grandeur, the Columbia makes it look like an amateur. To hear expressions of wonder and delight of tourists who see it for the first time makes one speculate on what extravagant expressions they would employ in giving vent to their feelings when viewing the Columbia for the first time. That river of itself should be an asset for Portland more valuable than all the other resources of the state. Publicity will do it."

GROWLING BULLDOG ENDS CHILDREN'S SHOW

Sixteenth street, near Washington, was in a buzz of excitement yesterday. The little girls were having a "show" just like the boys do and it cost five pins to get in. No wonder the mothers searched long in the evening for baskets in the houses of this neighborhood for pins last night.

The space under a porch was cramped to hold a show, but notwithstanding things got started. There was no grand march, but some little girls posed about in their mothers' cast-off clothes, and were proud. Baby dolls did various stunts—the ones with sawdust heads stood on their omniums.

Then little Sarah Andrews, 11 years old, dragged in a bulldog, the main attraction. While efforts were being made to have the animal do tricks there was a growl and a flash. Then something bounded through space, narrowly missing the audience and causing the gatekeepers to blink. Little Sarah gave a cry of pain. Blood ran from her right leg. The show was in an uproar. They took Sarah to the hospital, but she nevertheless clasped tightly in her right hand the share of pins due a star performer.

MAN WHO SAID HE WAS DESTITUTE HAD $935

The property of Samuel A. Diamond, a mail carrier, was attached yesterday by Deputy Constable Kiernan, following a suit filed by R. W. Belford. The attachment was served upon the Bellwood bank for Diamond's account with the result that $935 were returned. It was alleged in the charge made through the attachment that Diamond accepted financial aid from the employees of the postoffice when he claimed destitution and had a large deposit in the bank. Deputy Kiernan found that Diamond apparently was in a condition of destitution when papers were served about two months ago by a firm which had sold furniture to Diamond. Diamond is working as a mail carrier at $50 per month. The postoffice employees, thinking him in need, took up a purse of $90 to pay off the furniture attachment. A few weeks later it was found that Diamond had a bank account.

ALFALFA THRIVES IN WILLAMETTE VALLEY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, Or., June 22.—That the Willamette valley is admirably adapted to the growth of alfalfa is demonstrated by H. Bryant of this city. Mr. Bryant has 125 acres in alfalfa, of two, three and four years' growth. Eighty-five acres are located on Bryant's island, a strip of land lying between the Willamette and Calapoopa rivers. Sixteen acres of this piece have been sown for four years and are yielding this season three tons to the acre. On no part of the tract will the yield fall below one and one half tons to the acre. In addition to the 85 acres, Mr. Bryant has 40 acres northeast of Albany on the Willamette, of three years' growth. The first crop of the season is being cut now and the second will be cut in August.

Royal Anne Crop Damaged

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., June 21.—Several light

showers during the past few days have caused some damage to the Royal Anne cherry crop in this vicinity, although it will not be great. Picking began yesterday and will not be completed for two weeks or more. The Eugene Fruit Growers' association is receiving most of the cherries grown in this vicinity and putting them up in barrels for eastern market.

HALSEY TELEPHONE COMPANY ORGANIZED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, Or., June 21.—The organization of the Halsey Mutual Telephone company was effected at that place yesterday. F. M. Smith was elected president and R. A. McCully, secretary. The board of directors is composed of C. L. Falk, J. A. Stevenson and A. G. Waggoner. George E. Sanders, general manager of the Home Telephone company for Linn county, assisted in effecting the organization.

Iowans Picnic at Salem

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., June 21.—The several hundred persons who have migrated from the state of Iowa to make their permanent home in the Willamette valley assembled at the state fair grounds to hold their annual reunion and basket picnic. Chief Justice F. A. Moore of the Iowa supreme court is president of the Iowa association and has charge of today's ceremonies, which includes music by the Chemawa band, recitations and addresses.
