

THE JOURNAL

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER. PUBLISHED BY J. JACKSON. Published every evening (except Sunday) and every Sunday morning at The Journal Building, Fifth and Yamhill streets, Portland, Or.

Subscription rates by mail or to any address in the United States, Canada or Mexico: DAILY AND SUNDAY. One year, $5.00; One month, $1.00; One week, $0.25.

Flag of the free heart's hope and honor. By hand placed to valor given! Thy stars have lit the welkin dome. And all thy lines were born in heaven. Joseph Rodman Drake.

TOOZE'S CALL

HAVING BEEN appointed precinct chairman in the green hills of Falls City, Polk county, Walter Tooze has called a precinct assembly to "assemble in peace, harmony and enthusiasm" to elect delegates to the county assembly at Dallas, June 22.

Unfortunately, at this point the affluents gave out, and the torrent of assembly eloquence ceased its mighty flow. Had the affluents, the torrent and the ink held out, we can safely imagine that the great color sergeant of assembly would have added:

"Why, fellow citizens, under Jefferson, an anti-assembly insurgent, this nation could only muster a paltry five million souls. It was an insignificant country without railroads, without telegraphs, telephones, electric lights or trusts.

TO ATTACK PURE MILK. AN ATTITUDE of hostility to the pure milk ordinance of Portland is displayed by the butter board.

Before a fight is begun against pure milk regulations in Portland it will be well for everybody to take a look at the record. Eighteen children under two years old died from bad milk in Portland during June last year, and 10 more were killed in the same way during July.

THE MOST successful year in the history of the University of Oregon came to an end with this week's commencement exercises at the Institution.

In what the city hall is doing in the enforcement of the pure milk ordinance. Pure milk for Portland is an issue in which Portland citizens will make no compromise nor take a backward step.

ANOTHER PROTEST

WHY DO not its advocates realize the utter futility of their assembly folly and abandon it? The protest against it is going up all over Oregon and it is good Republican protest.

"What is to be gained by the assembly? It is impossible for the Republican party to gain anything by the assembly or convention plan.

No clearer or sounder statement of conditions has been presented. It is a truthful and exact reflection of the situation, and without a flaw or fault.

THE Tillamook paper points out the reasonable and rational course. The way to save the Republican party is to beat assemblyism in its mad attempt to foist upon the party a mongrel convention masquerading under the name of direct primary.

OREGON'S SENATORS

THE bill tower says the Oregon senators are no good, and that an assembly must be held to get better ones. Most people think the Oregon senators are doing mighty well.

In all, the two Oregon senators have secured about $1,000,000 by amendments in the senate of appropriation bills originating in the house.

COMMENCEMENT AT U. OF O.

THE MOST successful year in the history of the University of Oregon came to an end with this week's commencement exercises at the Institution.

a long start in the world race for position and personal power. It is a personal asset that time cannot lessen nor thieves purloin.

States endow their institutions of higher learning on the theory that profit will come back in a more enlightened citizenship.

OH, FOR LANE!

WHILE these bestowals of water front upon the railroad company are pending, what a comfort it would be to Portlanders to have Harry Lane again in the mayor's chair.

THE Oregonian Seeking to Mislead. Condon, June 21.—To the Editor of The Journal: The Oregonian of June 20, contains an editorial headed "Democrats Still 'Playing the Game'."

MOODY'S POSSIBLE RETIREMENT

THERE IS a prospect that it may fall to President Taft in the near future to name another justice of the supreme court.

THE BOY MAYOR

N WORTHIER appeal can be made to Portland than one in behalf of the boy. On him the future state must rest.

Topk Step-father's Name.

Portland, Or., June 23.—To the Editor of The Journal: In your issue of June 22 you published an article purporting to narrate proceedings had before the committee of the Bar association in its investigation of the attempt of Howard Guilford to bribe Juror Barton.

School Election in St. Johns.

To the Editor of The Journal.—The election for school director in St. Johns came off on Monday, the 20th instant.

IN ONE WEEK

IN BUT a week 12,000 signatures have been secured in Portland to the petition for the initiative amendment authorizing counties to issue bonds for the construction of roads.

COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

SMALL CHANGE

Now comes the big harvest. For emperor of the world, T. R. Every capable man can find work.

It's a mighty good world, if you only think so. No, we don't know who's going to be governor.

Let the people rule; that is the important thing. Nothing that the people want is unconstitutional.

It will be an assembly of, for and by Joe Simon. Really, every wedding is more pretty than any preceding one.

Los Angeles is a hi-town all right, but it can't play baseball. Airships, to the average pedestrian, are preferable to automobiles.

Of course, San Francisco will pull off the big Panama Canal exposition. Though Teddy's back, they are still kicking about the weather back east.

Have you got your ticket to Reno yet? Fine place, Reno. Great occasion, too. There is this good thing to be said of some women: Don't care to go fishing.

"How long, O Lord, how long," exclaims the Boston Globe. This about the horrible winter weather back there. Come to Oregon.

Some of the agony portraits on the front covers of the monthly and weekly editions of the Oregonian are absolutely horrible. The people who permit them should be in the penitentiary.

Letters From the People

Important special news: Roosevelt went to bed last night, slept, waked up this morning, said hello to his folks, and said that sometime this summer he might go fishing. Don't tell this, please.

June 24 in History—Battle of Bannockburn

On June 24-1314, was fought the famous battle of Bannockburn, between King Edward II of England and King Robert the Bruce of Scotland.

When the Scottish army was drawn up the line stretched north and south. The king of England was making through a boggy country, broken with watercourses, while the Scots occupied high, dry ground.

When the Scottish army was drawn up the line stretched north and south. The king of England was making through a boggy country, broken with watercourses, while the Scots occupied high, dry ground.

There is one force in God's universe without which this government will fail to meet successfully the complex dangers as perilous as the hidden rocks in the mariner's highway—that one force more than anything else this nation must acquire before we are equipped to successfully combat the perils surrounding the perpetuity of the government.

Disaster to the Rights and Interests of the People

Disaster to the rights and interests of the people—a disaster consummated through a gigantic system of occult evasions, violations and infractions of the law.

Roosevelt and the Pork Butcher

"He is a man of ordinary endowments extraordinarily developed," says Sydney Brooks, in writing of Roosevelt in the July McClure's.

May Help Ellis

From the Harney Valley News. George S. Shepherd, a Portland lawyer, announces himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in this district.

COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

OREGON SIDELIGHTS

The Oregon cherries can't be beat the world around. Likely to be some important building developments in Salem before the season is over, says the City.

Street paving work begins in Roseburg and will be completed in our paved area will be trebled before winter comes again, says the Review.

Lane county's big cherry crop is distributing a good many dollars among growers, pickers and packers just now. And the value of this crop will grow every year, says the Guard.

Soon the begins to coast and mountain resorts of Lane county begin, says the Eugene Register. Few countries wherein are combined all the features that make life worth living and such obtain in this favored section of the west.

Jacksonville Post: No, the sidewalks are not built sets, but the surveys are finished, the specifications drawn and the ordinance providing for their construction has passed its first reading. The sidewalks will come in time.

A Klamath Falls man who has been to Burns states that throughout that entire country business is lively and anticipation of the coming of the railroad everyone is happy. The country is being thrived rapidly and new people are coming in in large numbers.

Gold Hill News: Some wonderfully rich rock was milled at the Lucky Star on Gardiner creek Thursday. It came from Dr. C. H. Smith's Corral G. It went over $150 to the ton. Large specimens of the ore are being sold.

Merrill Record: There are four business women in the town of Merrill. All three hotels are owned and personally managed by women, as is also the local newspaper.

Well, it's a fine day, isn't it? What is as rare as a steak in June. Had a bouquet handed me today. Was talking to a pretty widow in the hotel and she came a couple of bachelor buttons. Get it? She was a grass widow. But I got even with her.

Hold to the Primary

From the Pendleton East Oregonian. In the communication published in this issue of the East Oregonian Judge Lovell again expresses his sentiments regarding the assembly.

Believing this the East Oregonian

looks with disfavor upon the assembly. As for the success of the Republican or the Democratic parties in this state this year, the success of either party is meaningless.

The eight-hour day assessment

which has been enforced by the International Bookbinders' union has been discontinued.

Some Authors

(Contributed to The Journal by Walt Mason, the famous Kansas poet. His prose-poems are a regular feature of this column in The Daily Journal.)

One author goes to the haunts of men

In search of local color; and then he tells with his trenchant pen—and his yarn could not be duller. He makes of his writing craft a trade, and Facts in his pages bristle; he works like a man with a ditching spade, and stops when he hears the whistle. He doesn't care for the good old plot—the sort of a plot that "thickens"—he lightly tells you that sort of rot would do for a Reade or Dickens.

Another author goes to the haunts of men

In search of local color; and then he tells with his trenchant pen—and his yarn could not be duller. He makes of his writing craft a trade, and Facts in his pages bristle; he works like a man with a ditching spade, and stops when he hears the whistle. He doesn't care for the good old plot—the sort of a plot that "thickens"—he lightly tells you that sort of rot would do for a Reade or Dickens.

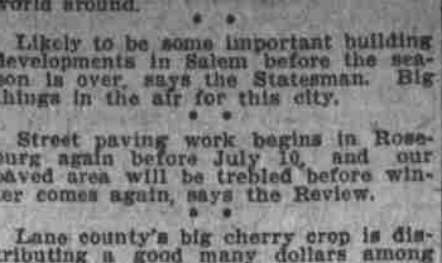

Another author goes to the haunts of men

In search of local color; and then he tells with his trenchant pen—and his yarn could not be duller. He makes of his writing craft a trade, and Facts in his pages bristle; he works like a man with a ditching spade, and stops when he hears the whistle. He doesn't care for the good old plot—the sort of a plot that "thickens"—he lightly tells you that sort of rot would do for a Reade or Dickens.

COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

TANGLEFOOT

By Miles Ovarholt. VAUDEVILLE LESSON NO. 4.

(The Monologist) Hello, pals—and pallasses. It's always the unexpected that happens, isn't it? I happened, so that saying is knocked out. Unexpected! Huh!

Rode in on the S. P. last night. Car No. 4-11-4. Berth on a cow's back. Leather covered couch. Wolf Covered with the cow's tail. Cow kicked my foot off. What do you know about that? Climbed over onto another cattle. Bucked and bawled. Wrong steer. Huh! Had a five dollar bill in my pocket. Steer loited it into 500 Lincoln pennies.

Oh, well, it's a long worm that has no hook. I've got a hook worm—a fish hook worm. Speaking of bait, did you ever see a cat's fish?

Went into Isaacson's store this morning. Said, "Hello, Ike." "Don't talk to me," he said. There were tears in his eyes.

"What's the matter, Ike?" I said. "Matter matter! Vy, I chust lost a customer."

"Lost a customer? How?" "Lost him a man of color."

"You won't get that unless you have bought a suit yourself. Well, it's a fine day, isn't it? What is as rare as a steak in June. Had a bouquet handed me today.

Was talking to a pretty widow in the hotel and she came a couple of bachelor buttons. Get it? She was a grass widow. But I got even with her.

When she passed me later in the evening and spoke to me, why I cut the grass. But speaking of hair, you know Taft is our national hair. Can't you see the nation's hair and Jeffries is our national it.

Well, I see gasoline is going up. If I owned an automobile I would say it is coming up. But to me it is going up. Wouldn't that make a washtub turn pail!

Here's a cute little thing: A man was thrown into a jail. The jail was full, the man was stout. And he was water proof.

And balled his poor self out. (After the monologist has talked himself hoarse he should sing a Charles K. Harris song.)

dash off the stage to the right while the dashing is good.)

OF COURSE

"Here is a name—PATRICK O'Flaherty—and his nationality is given as 'Mixture' speaking of water proof. It is the census supervisor. 'Can't you see by the name that he is a full-blooded Irishman?'"

"That's what he told me he was," said the timid enumerator. "He said he was a mixture."

"Think again; I fear you are mistaken." "Ah, I have it!" he ejaculated, after a half hour of thought. He said: "O'm a Mick, sure."

I never yet have tried the stunt of getting a divorce

I know about a dozen men that had a wife who was getting a divorce. It seemed her only course. Because she liked to live down in Nevada.

Hold to the Primary

From the Pendleton East Oregonian. In the communication published in this issue of the East Oregonian Judge Lovell again expresses his sentiments regarding the assembly.

Believing this the East Oregonian

looks with disfavor upon the assembly. As for the success of the Republican or the Democratic parties in this state this year, the success of either party is meaningless.

The eight-hour day assessment

which has been enforced by the International Bookbinders' union has been discontinued.

Some Authors

(Contributed to The Journal by Walt Mason, the famous Kansas poet. His prose-poems are a regular feature of this column in The Daily Journal.)

One author goes to the haunts of men

In search of local color; and then he tells with his trenchant pen—and his yarn could not be duller. He makes of his writing craft a trade, and Facts in his pages bristle; he works like a man with a ditching spade, and stops when he hears the whistle. He doesn't care for the good old plot—the sort of a plot that "thickens"—he lightly tells you that sort of rot would do for a Reade or Dickens.

Another author goes to the haunts of men

In search of local color; and then he tells with his trenchant pen—and his yarn could not be duller. He makes of his writing craft a trade, and Facts in his pages bristle; he works like a man with a ditching spade, and stops when he hears the whistle. He doesn't care for the good old plot—the sort of a plot that "thickens"—he lightly tells you that sort of rot would do for a Reade or Dickens.