

SWEENBORGS IN 4 DAYS' CONGRESS

Society Celebrates 100th Anniversary—Honor Memory of Founder.

London, July 5.—To celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the Swedenborg society of London and to honor the memory of Emanuel Swedenborg, the founder of their faith, hundreds of prominent representatives of New Church organizations throughout the world assembled in London today and began a four days' international congress. The assembly is not an ecclesiastical or sectarian one, but a meeting to be devoted to the consideration of Swedenborg's contributions to science, philosophy, and psychology, as well as to theology, to the higher thought and to investigation of the world of today.

The Swedenborg society of London, in celebration of its centennial anniversary special exercises are to be held during the week, was founded in 1810. For a hundred years the society has been the great, central publishing agency of the writings of Swedenborg, as well as of the collateral literature of the New Church body. The extent of the society's publishing propaganda is evidenced by the fact that its stock now includes editions of Swedenborg's works printed in Latin, English, German, Swedish, Norwegian, Polish, Icelandic, Welsh, French, Danish, Magyar, Russian, Italian, Dutch, Arabic and Hindi.

The roll call at the opening of the congress today in the Crown Rooms, Holborn, showed a large and representative attendance. Edward John Broadfield, a widely known educational writer, presided. Among those present were many delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom and from the United States, France, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Russia, and from the West Indies, Mauritius, Australia and other distant lands.

Included among the American delegates are the Honorable Job Barnard of the supreme court of the District of Columbia; Alfred Acton of Pennsylvania; the Rev. Louis G. Hoek of Ohio; Professor Lewis F. Hite of the Cambridge theological school; the Rev. Julian K. Smith of New York; the Rev. H. Clinton Hay, editor of the New Church Review; the Rev. James Rees of Massachusetts; Frank Sewall of Washington; D. C. president of the Swedenborg Scientific association; and the Rev. S. S. Seward of Michigan, president of the general convention of the New Jerusalem.

NEW RAILROAD FOLDER ADVERTISES NORTHWEST

The 1910 edition of the Denver & Rio Grande folder on "Natural Resources of Colorado, Utah and New Mexico," contains a large map, which takes in the territory from the Rocky mountains west to the Pacific coast and which is not only brought up to date but shows also the route and stations of the new Western Pacific railway, the Pacific coast extension of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

This new line was opened for freight traffic some time ago, and it is anticipated that passenger business will be inaugurated early in August. It is said that the route through the Sierras and down the Feather river rivals in scenic attractions the world-famous Denver & Rio Grande. Another interesting feature in connection with this new Pacific coast line is the fact that there is no grade of more than fifty-two feet to the mile, which makes it possible to conduct a train across the mountains at a lower cost over that line than over any other now operating on the American continent. The map is being distributed by the passenger department of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad.

Colored Women's Clubs Meet.
Louisville, Ky., July 5.—Arrangements are practically completed for the annual convention of the National Association of Colored Women's clubs here next week. The committee in charge expects the meeting to be the largest ever held by the association.

For Your Hair Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "33" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

When Rexall "33" Hair Tonic will do as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "33" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our indorsement to Rexall "33" Hair Tonic and sell it to you with guarantee because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1. Remember you can obtain it only at the Rexall Store, The Owl Drug Co., Inc., corner Seventh and Washington streets.

FIRST NIGHTERS ENJOY AFFINITY BURLESQUE

"Affinity Beach," as presented for the first time at the Lyric last night by the Edward Armstrong Musical company, made a decided hit with first nighters. The bill is good. It is somewhat of a diversion from the regular affinity stories.

The part after the marriage of Abe Cohen, a pawnbroker, and an Irish widow, is as funny as musical dialogue can make it. The chorus consists of seven hard working members. Each is a good dancer, with a pleasant voice. Ethel Davis continues to please her old admirers, for this week she has several good songs. Clara Howard and chorus have a good song in "Keep Your Foot on the Soft, Soft Pedal."

The story is about a pawnbroker who met an Irish widow at the beach. They are married, and he endeavors to have her take care of his business.

OLD MAN TO BE FREED OF CHARGE OF MURDER

Kansas City, Mo., July 5.—For the fifth time in eight years Dr. Louis Zorn, an old and well-known resident of this city, will be arraigned in court tomorrow on the charge of murder. Nevertheless, it will be a happy day for the aged man, for the case against him will be dismissed at the request of the prosecuting attorney and for the first time since June 23, 1902, Dr. Zorn will enjoy his liberty.

On the date mentioned above Dr. Zorn shot and killed Albert Seibert, who was one of his tenants. Dr. Zorn, whose hobby was the growing of flowers, wanted to plant a row of hollyhocks in his tenant's yard. Seibert objected and Dr. Zorn insisted. The argument led to a fight which ended in the land-lord shooting and killing the tenant. Dr. Zorn was tried four times. The first two trials resulted in jury disagreements. The third trial, which took place in 1905, ended in a verdict of guilty and a sentence of fifteen years in prison. In 1907 the supreme court reversed the judgment and sentence of the lower court. A fourth trial was held and again the jury disagreed. It is said that the various trials have cost the aged defendant half his fortune, which was estimated at $400,000 at the time the killing took place.

SEEK APPOINTMENT FOR PACIFIC COAST MAN

Oregon's representatives in congress will endeavor to secure the appointment of a Pacific coast man on the recently created court of commerce. The court will consist of five members. It is considered quite proper that at least one of these should have personal knowledge of conditions on the Pacific coast.

Letters from the representatives at Washington are to the effect that they will do all they can to have the Pacific coast represented in the court and it is expected that representatives of the other Pacific coast states will join in this request.

LAIDLAW CHRONICLE OFFICE IS STONED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Laidlaw, Or., July 5.—Last Thursday night an ineffectual attempt was made with stones to wreck the building housing the plant of the Laidlaw Chronicle. Later, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, an attempt was made to set fire to the building, but the incendiary was frightened away as he was applying the match. The building, occupied by the Chronicle is the largest in Laidlaw. For the past two months threats have been made to burn the Chronicle office.

LARGE CROWDS AT LA GRANDE CHAUTAUQUA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
La Grande, Or., July 5.—Mrs. Urlich, the noted W. C. T. U. lecturer, and Professor Cordley of O. A. C., were the central figures in the day of the La Grande Chautauqua today. The crowds are large. Yesterday Judge Stephen A. Lamell of Pendleton delivered the oration of the day.

Catholic Education Discussed.
Detroit, Mich., July 5.—Following the celebration of mass at St. Paul and Paul's church, this city, the annual convention of the Catholic Educational association of the United States began its regular sessions this morning at Detroit college. The principal feature of the initial session, following the presentation of the annual reports, was a paper on "The Pastor and Education," by Right Reverend Thomas J. Shanahan, rector of the Catholic University of America.

Notarial Commissions.
(Salem Branch of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., July 5.—Notarial commissions have been issued to James McI. Wood, Portland; P. J. Glavin, Hammond; William Ulrich, Medford; Oliver S. Brown, Grants Pass; J. J. Van Kenlen, Adel; M. E. Pogue, Salem; H. F. McGrath and J. G. Richardson, Portland; Henry Henderson, St. Johns; B. M. Lombard, Portland; Percy A. Cupper, Salem; J. E. Geyer, Baker City.

Hood Twice Victor.
(Salem Branch of The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., July 5.—The Hood River Heights baseball team won a double header yesterday at Stevenson. The score in the morning game was 1 to 0; in the afternoon game, 3 to 1. No hits were secured off Hart of Hood River in either game. Hood River defeated The Dalles by a score of 11 to 2.

Echo Crop Prospects Good.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Echo, Or., July 5.—Harvesting has commenced in this section and every machine available is in operation. The grain is of the best quality and past any chance of being harmed by hot weather. As far as can be ascertained the yield this year will average about 30 bushels.

WILDE'S PLAYLET HOLDS ATTENTION

It Is Top Feature of Entertaining Bill at Orpheum Theatre This Week.

By V. H. P.

Oscar Wilde's philosophy—although he avers there is no philosophy, but all is a matter of physiology—it is a vulgar thing. Perhaps it is just the spell of its wickedness and peek-a-boo pretensions that provokes gags at the inevitable brilliancy and refreshing cynicism of his writings. During life he reached the apex in the art of literary deception and has handed down to us masses of frivolous phrasing called about thoughts so immediately dazzling in themselves as to perfume the stench of their morbidity.

Bantering, Wilde sheds our most sacred philosophy. He does not touch upon the simpler life, but viciously delves into problems in morals and harsher social conditions, building up a structure on a theory of hopeless pessimism, abandonment and reckless despair. Its brilliancy impels one to attribute its philosophy to abyssal depths of thought, but in the final analysis it proves but froth of wit.

"For a man marries," says Cyril Vane, "because he tires of the variety of things. And, yes, a woman marries because she tires of their monotony."

Will Live in Memory.
But it is not for us to attempt to analyze Oscar Wilde's writings. It is for us to say that his "The Picture of Dorian Gray," which Edwards Davis and his company of two, are producing at the Orpheum this week will live a long lifetime in the consideration of spectators and auditor, for its spectacular setting betrays its marvelous basis of plot and composition. "The Picture of Dorian Gray" is one of Wilde's favorite drawing room things, wherein he is allowed opportunity to shock the finer sensibilities by savoring purity of thought at the altar of literary attractiveness. His ability laid in the power to labor the mind with brilliancy until it loses sense of proper analytical consideration.

Three players—Edwards Davis, Adele Blood, said to be one of the most beautiful women on the American stage, and Temporal Saxe—fit into the parts as if they were born for them. Praise sounds wanting in consideration of "The Picture of Dorian Gray." Suffice to say

HONOR MEMORY OF P. T. BARNUM

Bridgeport People Lay Wreaths on Monument of "Father of American Circus."

Bridgeport, Conn., July 5.—Persons who passed the heroic bronze statue of Phineas T. Barnum which adorns one of the public parks of this city were reminded by several costly floral wreaths placed about the base of the memorial that today marked the centenary of the birth of the famous showman, who has been called the "Father of the American circus." The birthplace of the man who introduced Tom Thumb, the "sacred white elephant" and other famous freaks to the public, who paid Jenny Lind $1000 a night to tour America, and who later organized and managed "the greatest show on earth," was the little town of Bethel, this state, but it was in Bridgeport that he made his home during the greater part of his career and where he established the permanent headquarters of his colossal circus enterprises.

During his lifetime Mr. Barnum bestowed many gifts upon the city of Bridgeport, and there still exist here many reminders of the famous showman, chief among them, of course, being the winter quarters of the circus which still bears his name. But the members of his family have long since deserted the city. The Barnum country place, Marina, at Seaside Park, was sold to strangers within a few years after the showman's death. Mr. Barnum's widow has resided abroad for many years. While traveling in Egypt she met Demetrius Callias Bey, a Greek, to whom she was married in 1895. They returned to the United States after the wedding and it is said that the Bey would have gone to Marina to live only that the bronze statue of Mr. Barnum stood in the park in front of the house. The statue could not be moved, as it belonged to the city.

Callias Bey died in 1896, after a wedded life of a year. It is said that during that time he made a big hole in the fortune of the American showman. About 10 years ago the widow married a Frenchman for her third husband. Their married life proved unhappy and within a few years they were divorced.

The contest for the governorship in Ohio this fall is generally expected to be one of the most important political events of the year.

Americans Wed in Honolulu.
Honolulu, July 6.—The wedding of Miss Jessie S. McCormick, whose home is in Berkeley, Cal., and Chester Hunn, the government horticulturist in Hawaii, took place today at the Kawaiahae seminary. Mr. Hunn is a graduate of Cornell university. Both he and his bride are interested in educational work here.
