Harbor Patrol Officer Small Arrests Pair He Finds Rifling Pockets of Prostrate Man on Gas Dock.

Harry Graham and Patrick Murphy, "drunk rollers." caught rednanded in the act of holding up Lawrence Ryan, a forest ranger, were arrested by J. C. Small, harbor patrol officer, this morning at 12:45 o'clock at the gas dock at the foot of Flanders street. They were taken to the police station, where a charge of high ay rob-bery was registered against than. Pleading guilty upon arraignment, each was sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

Small, the arresting officer, said he was passing along the street and saw a dark object 10 feet away toward the river. He was atracted toward the object by a noise of a souffle, and upon investigation he found two men. ham and Murphy, in the act of holding up Ryan. Ryan was down on the street and Murphy was straddling his legs, while Graham had him by the throat.

The patrolman flashed his light on the struggling trio and Ryan, seeing the officer coming to his rescue, shouted "Catch these men; they are robbing me." The officer rushed to the scene of the struggle and placed all three men under arrest and carried them to the police station. The two men admitted a frame up game to rob Ryan.
Murphy and Ryan seemed to be intoxicated. The police say that the practice of "drunk rolling" is becoming general and that an effort will be made to clean the town of such characters. "These drunk rollers' gather around saloons and spot their man and then get in with him or follow him to 'roll' him for his cash" said Sergeant R. Riley this morn-

Graham and Murphy are strangers in Portland, but Ryan has been in the this morning on account of a break in neighborhood of the city for the past her heater yesterday while opposite year. He came to Oregon from Canada and has been employed in the govern-ment forest reserve as a forest ranger. The gas dock as well as many of the neighboring docks have been the scenes of many holdups but on account of their isolated location and the lack of harbor patrol until quite recently few of They also inspected the officers, crew the crimes were heard of until the criminals had made their escape. Sailors returning to their ships have often been held up in this district and it was considered dangerous to venture there after
