Certificate of Title Talks. To the Real Estate Dealer No. 12. Safety! A CERTIFICATE OF TITLE issued by Title & Trust Company is first of all, safe. This is so because the financial responsibility of the company is placed behind each certificate issued. In case of loss, the guarantee clause which is inserted in each certificate, specifically and plainly indemnifies the holder in an amount equal to the value of the property covered. The assets of the company, exceeding $250,000— including $50,000 specially deposited with the state, and which must be increased each year by ten per cent of the gross income from CERTIFICATES OF TITLE, are amply sufficient to guarantee the worth of this indemnity clause. This special deposit is made exclusively for the protection of holders of CERTIFICATES OF TITLE and is subject to no other liabilities of the company. Therefore, it furnishes a protection that could not be obtained in any other way, nor by the use of any other title evidence. The requirements of the laws of the State of Oregon have indelibly marked the CERTIFICATE OF TITLE as the SAFE method of title conveyance. Title & Trust Company. Paid Up Capital $250,000. Lewis Bldg., Corner Fourth and Oak Streets.
