VICE PRESIDENT IS INCLUDED WITHIN SENATOR'S DENIAL

might pass the bill, so I told him I would think the matter over.

McMurray ceased his activity about this time and did not take any active part in the matter again until about the time the Oklahoma constitutional convention began to discuss ways and means of bringing about the sale of unallotted Indian lands in the state.

Senator Gore may be recalled to the stand during the day and Congressman Bird S. McGuire, whose name has been brought into the case as one of those connected with the contracts, may be called.

The committee expects to complete its hearing here today, and will go to McCreary to hold sessions, beginning Monday.

Gore sent a large number of telegrams last night. It is believed he expects to show the nature of telegraphic correspondence between certain congressmen and those interested in the Indian contracts and that he has been asking some of these congressmen to appear before the committee.

The committee at McAlester will probably call a number of Indians and question them closely about the services rendered and the fees received by attorneys in land deals.

Hamon admitted that he might have gone to Congressmen Ferris and Morgan of Oklahoma with a view to interesting them in the contract.

On the stand yesterday afternoon Hamon admitted that on May 6 he told Dick Gore that the senator might be hard on his friends but denied that he said, "I'm going to make money, and I don't care how I do it."

"I do not want you gentlemen to force me to relate the exact nature of my business in Washington," Hamon told the committee. "Gore's unfair, untruthful statements have forced me reluctantly to reveal matters concerning my clients."

On the stand yesterday afternoon Hamon admitted that on May 6 he told Dick Gore that the senator might be hard on his friends but denied that he said, "I'm going to make money, and I don't care how I do it."

"But," Saunders interjected, "can you conceive of any possible motive, that these men, your friends, should have been in making false charges against you?"

"I will not undertake to determine motives before this committee," Hamon retorted.

The witness detailed a conversation between himself and Congressman Creager. According to the witness, Creager said to him that he understood Hamon had an interest in the McMurray contracts.

Hamon testified that Gore told him he owned $5000. Gore said he could raise $1000, and wanted Hamon to raise the rest.

Hamon testified that he told Gore he could not furnish the amount. Gore then told him to ask Dr. Rowell, whom Hamon represented, and who had a bill before congress by which he would secure an allotment to a quarter section of land, to furnish the money.

Hamon said he reported back to Gore that he could not raise the money.

Chairman Burke forced Hamon to admit that he was one of a crowd that agreed not to bid against each other when lots belonging to Indians were placed on sale by the government at Lawton.

Hamon said Gore was a member of the same clique.

The portions of human bodies found on the ranch indicate a simple fatality that two persons only were killed. They also show that the victims were probably the elder Kendalls.

The Kendalls had nearly $500 in their possession shortly before the murder, the date of which is fixed by circumstances as Saturday, July 23.

FAMILY FEELS

WIDOWED COURT

Husband Terrorizes Families and Daughter-in-Law Mixes in Woman's Fuss.

One husband last night threatened to kill his wife and children and was possibly killed only by his wife's forethought in concealing his revolver.

Another barred his family from their home and pulled up the door. These two cases with another in which a daughter-in-law was accused of threatening to kill her husband's mother occupied considerable of the time of Acting Judge Gebhardt in municipal court today.

C. A. Gorrell 51 East Eleventh street, was held under bail of $1000 and his case continued after he had been arraigned.

Morris Simon, 228 Sherman street, ejected his wife and two children from their home and nailed a piece of wood across the doorway.
