

Y. M. C. A. TO CARE FOR YOUNG VISITORS

Adopts Plan to Throw Boys and Girls Among Good Influences.

For the purpose of seeing that young men and boys who leave home are thrown among good influences, the Oregon-Idaho Young Men's Christian Association is appointing corresponding members in the various cities of the two states. A complete system is being built up by the secretary, E. C. Rhodes, and its value has already been demonstrated.

The chief work of the corresponding member is to look out for young men or boys who are leaving for other communities and colleges and give them letters of introduction to Y. M. C. A. stations, pastors or corresponding members in the towns to which they are going, as well as to send information of each man to the state office of the Y. M. C. A. in Portland. The corresponding member is also expected to aid young men in securing good rooms, employment and companionship and endeavor to bring them under direct Christian influence.

It is only within the last two months that this system has been built up extensively. Already 300 corresponding members have been appointed, and Mr. Rhodes does not intend to stop until he has from one to six members in each city of 3000 population or over which has no Y. M. C. A. He expects eventually to have 600 of these corresponding members, but as the persons coming from the individual is the chief thing to be considered, the appointments are being made slowly. In cities where there are associations, the regular secretaries do the work that is done elsewhere by the corresponding members.

"This new system is proving its value in many ways," said Mr. Rhodes today. "We regard it as of utmost importance for young men on moving from one city to another to be thrown at once among good associations. This is done through our corresponding members. Already many young men have been brought into touch with the Y. M. C. A. and with churches in the various cities who might otherwise have fallen prey to bad influences, with home restraints removed."

"Corresponding members have been appointed in many states, and letters advising the arrival of young men in Oregon are received from them every week. We immediately hunt these young men up, invite them to become affiliated with the association and help them to find homes where they will not be subjected to temptations. New movements that the association has inaugurated have done more good."

PROOF THAT PEACHES GROW IN PORTLAND

J. E. Burke planted a peach tree in his yard at 84 East Pine street a few years ago. This summer he has already harvested 400 pounds of fruit from its branches and is looking for more. He believes this a record hard to equal.

The tree when at its best this summer was so heavily weighted with the luscious fruit that the branches had to be supported to save them from breaking. And the peaches were unusually large and beautifully colored.

Peaches do exceptionally well in Portland and many fine trees are to be found in yards.

University of Commerce Sends Representatives to America to Take Observations.

New York, Aug. 9.—Twenty-eight students, accompanied by four professors from the University of Commerce of Cologne, Germany, have arrived here aboard the Hamburg American liner America, to begin an investigation into the "marvelous production and commerce of this country, which is becoming every year one of the most important factors in international trade."

The party is under the supervision of Christian Eckert, director of studies in the university. He is being assisted by Professor Moldenhauer, Hassert and Rhoerst. Professor Eckert outlined the visit in the following statement: "If the United States throws itself into international trade the marvelous development of America attracts the people of Europe. We are taking an interest in the model system of production which has considerably enhanced man's ability by the application of invention to machinery. "We want to learn your extensive methods of agricultural production which not only supplies the home wants but also a great part of the world. We propose to visit San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and numerous other cities."

COURT UPHOLDS RIGHT OF LIEN

When a company seeks to enforce a lien prior to the time when the holder of the property goes into bankruptcy, that company may not be enjoined from doing so by United States courts. Such was the ruling of Federal Judge R. S. Bean in the matter of the Rainier Face Brick & Clay company, bankrupt. J. N. Bayless conveyed to the company in January, 1910, certain real property in Columbia county. The deed was not recorded until July 29. The Astoria & Columbia River Railway company, April 7, brought suit against the brick company and seized the property by attachment. Creditors of the company forced it into bankruptcy June 7, and then entered a petition later obtaining an injunction preventing the railway company from disposing of the property. The injunction was dissolved yesterday.

REPORT RABIES EPIDEMIC IN WALLOWA COUNTY

Reports that rabies is epidemic in the Wallowa country led Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, to leave hurriedly for that point this morning. Letters received by Dr. C. S. White, state health officer, stated that coyotes have been going mad, biting dogs and calves. Some of these statements seemed more hysterical than credible, and Dr. White is of the opinion that more coyotes meanness than madness will be discovered by Dr. Lytle. The veterinarian will procure specimens of brains and spinal cords and, returning to Portland, will subject them to chemical tests to determine what is the true nature of the trouble.
